100° SUN SEARS MIDWEST; LAKE HELPS CHICAGO

Lake breezes, sifting lightly into Chicago yesterday, held the mercury down to a maximum of 89 degrees while most of the midcontinent was sweltering in marks of 100 or more. Throughout the central states innumerable temperature records of a generation were broken.

North of Chicago the winds took on added force last evening and blew the temperature from Evanston to Milwaukee down into the comfortable 70s. The added relief was slow in its journey southward and it was still 80 in the loop and on the south side at midnight.

Today it will be warm in Chicago, according to the forecast, and humid. There is a prospect of showers tonight or tomorrow.

"If we get the light lake winds again," said Forecaster C. A. Donnel, "it is unlikely that the maximum will be above 90. In the event the winds are from the southwest it will approach 100. I believe the breezes will be from the south and east."

Heat Over a Wide Front.

There was little rain over the country yesterday and the heat wave remained over a wide front. Twenty-six cities out of 102 reporting to the federal weather bureaus had maximums above 100. Four cities, Huron, S. D.; Valentine, Neb.; Keokuk, and St. Louis, established new all time records for heat, St. Louis with 108 degrees and the other three with 110. Omaha had 110, close to its record.

Although the maximum recorded in Chicago yesterday was 89 degrees, the suffering among Chicagoans was intensified by a humidity [illegible] cent. Normal humidity at this temperature is 65.

Readings far above the official maximum were registered in suburbs out side the pale of influence of the lake. Among these suburbs were: Flossmoor, 105; Chicago Heights, 100; Cicero, Berwyn, Oak Park, Maywood, and Libertyville, 98. The Chicago airport also reported 98. Joliet and La Grange claimed their thermometers went to 108, and Homewood unofficially declared its maximum 106.

Would Save Chicago Water.

Beaches all along the Chicago water front were crowded and the parks were filled with citizens seeking relief from the heat and humidity.

Commissioner of Public Works Oscar Hewitt issued a request that all persons refrain from opening fire hydrants to use them as outdoor showers.

One plug, he said, in twenty-four hours would put forth 3,000,000 gallons of water. Opening of the hydrants puts a strain on the pumping system that cannot be overcome. Mr. Hewitt said he had had 325 complaints of low pressure during the day.

ILLINOIS SETS RECORDS

Springfield, Ill., July 20.—[Special.]—Heat records for the year were broken in downstate Illinois today.

The official high here this afternoon was 106 degrees, two degrees over the previous maximum this summer. At Quincy, where an official 109 was registered, the long continued dry spell has caused cisterns, wells and small streams to fail and many farmers were hauling water supplies from the Mississippi river for their live stock. Corn in the Quincy area was reported as firing.

At Bloomington the maximum was 105. It was the eleventh day of the last eighty-one in which 100 plus has been registered. Forty days in the same period had maxima above 90. Joseph W. Fifer, 93 year old former governor of Illinois and a resident of Bloomington, has been sleeping in his basement. It is 20 degrees cooler than upstairs, he asserted.

Pana reported a high of 107 and high humidity. Other Illinois cities which were extremely warm included Canton, 104; Rock Island, 102; Rockford, 101; Carbondale, 104; Hoopeston, 105, and Galena, 100. Carlinville had an unofficial 112.

DAKOTA CROPS WILT

Bismarck, N. D., July 20.—[Special.]—With the Dakotas baking again today in high temperatures and under a cloudless sky, O. W. Roberts, government weather observer, asserted that unless rains come soon the corn crops of the two states will be seriously damaged.

"The conditions," he said, "are the worst I have seen in twenty years."

Rainfall so far this year has been five inches below normal, according

"THE MORE ABUNDANT LIFE"

EMPLOYER OFFERS STRIKERS FACTORY; HE ASKS FOR A JOB

Manorville, Pa., July 20.—(AP)—The 50 striking workers of the National Mirror Specialty company are in a quandary.

A committee of five marched into the office of Leon H. Samuels, owner, and declared:

"We demand an eight hour day, a five day week, and a minimum wage of 30 cents an hour."

The "boss" shook his head, thought a while and said:

"Tell you what I'll do. I'll turn the plant over to you. You do the managing, fix the hours of work, take your wages out of the profits and pay me a salary as a salesman."

That hit the workers right between the eyes, so to speak, and after a hurried conference the men said they didn't have sufficient managerial experience.

"Then how do you expect a man with experience to do something you can't do?" asked Samuels.

The committee thought some more and then decided:

"We'll be back later."

They hied to Pittsburgh to consult Ernest C. Dunbar, mediator of the regional labor board, and now he's trying to settle the difficulties.

Civilian Raids Army Post to Free Prisoner

New York, July 20.—[Special.]—A lone civilian, equipped with a rowboat and a nickel plated revolver, gave the United States army one of its most embarrassing moments today by hijacking a military prisoner from Governors Island and rowing him a mile and a half to the freedom of the lower Red Hook section of Brooklyn.

The civilian, a ruddy-faced man of about five feet six, took the prisoner away from Sentry Steven S. Grezegorek, a private doing his first hitch, by the simple but forceful method of shoving the revolver into Grezegorek's ribs and taking from him the shotgun with which he was overseeing the unloading of dirt by three inmates of the disciplinary barracks.

Only Guard in Vicinity.

The hi-jacking took place at the lonely southern end of the island. Grezegorek, a Buffalo, N. Y., boy, was the only guard in the vicinity. Before help could be summoned the civilian and his liberated companion were well on their way across Buttermilk channel to the Brooklyn shore. The rowboat was found later, but its occupants were not.

The missing Blanton was a general prisoner in Castle William, a circular structure, built in 1809 and used in the war of 1812, which stands at the northwestern end of the island.

A Camden, O., boy, Blanton first got into trouble by desertion. Twice he escaped from the guardhouse at Fort Thomas, Ky. Once he got free from Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind. Had he remained on Governors Island he would have been dishonorably discharged in October, 1935.

Grezegorek took Blanton and two other prisoners to the southern end of the island. For a while they worked as usual. Then the sentry saw a civilian, a man wearing a black shirt and brown work pants, come around the corner of a group of houses.

Menaced with Revolver.

Grezegorek said that the man "mumbled something" and then rammed the nickel plated revolver into his ribs.

Nearby there was a truck on which were a driver and his understudy, neither of them armed. After the civilian had taken the guard's shotgun, he gave it to Blanton, and together they menaced the truck men and the sentry.

Just then an automobile appeared, in which were two CCC boys. They stopped, and directly they were holding their hands above their heads.

Blanton and the civilian ran to an old wharf, jumped into a black rowboat. Once the sentry decided it was safe to move without being killed, he hurried his remaining prisoners—neither of whom had attempted to escape—to Castle William and gave the alarm.

COL. BRECKINRIDGE DAUGHTER IS KILLED IN RIFLE ACCIDENT

Washington, D. C., July 20.—[Special.]—Miss Louise Breckinridge, 17, daughter of Col. Henry Breckinridge of New York City, was killed today by a bullet accidentally discharged from a target rifle which she was carrying.

The accident occurred at Edgemoor, Md., near Washington.

As she climbed a fence the rifle apparently became entangled and she fell, discharging the weapon. The bullet struck her breast, apparently reaching the heart.

Miss Breckinridge was a student at Vassar college and had completed her sophomore year in June. She was home for the summer vacation.

One of Two Children.

New York, July 20.—[Special.]—Louise Dudley Breckinridge was one of the two children of Col. Henry Breckinridge. Both were daughters by his first wife, Ruth Bradley Woodman of Concord, N. H. Her sister is Miss Elizabeth Foster Breckinridge.

Col. Breckinridge practiced law in Lexington, Ky., for three years before his appointment as assistant secretary of war in 1913. He resigned in 1916 to enter business, and in 1922 entered the practice of law in New York. Among his more famous clients is Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

BLIND, HE PICKS 2 AS THUGS WHO TORTURED HIM

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 20.—(AP)—Blind George Stratigos sat in a chair at a police station today. Before him stood six men—three detectives and three robbery suspects. Each man was given a number.

An officer asked George if he could identify the men who tortured him in a raid on his bowling alley last April. The thugs stabbed him in the eyes, blinding him.

Each person in the lineup was asked a question. As two of the men answered, Stratigos said: "Yes—those are the men."

The lineup was changed and different questions were asked. Each time Stratigos picked the same two.

The pair, giving the names of John Arendash and Nick Derembeis of Homestead, Pa., were held for further investigation. They had been arrested as robbery suspects.

Belgian Cabinet Is Voted Special Economic Power

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

BRUSSELS, July 20.—The Belgian parliament today adopted the so-called special powers bill, which gives the government practically a free hand in tax reform and in the regulation of financial and economic affairs until next fall. Parliament is now expected to recess until October, during which time the government's actions will be put into effect by decree.

NEW QUAKES TERRIFY PEOPLE OF DAVID CITY

PANAMA, July 21 [Saturday].—(AP)—A second series of earthquakes terrorized inhabitants of David City in interior Panama early today. Nearly all of the town's buildings have been destroyed by disturbances of the last four days.

The latest shocks destroyed some damaged walls, but there were no casualties.

Dwellers on islands off the coast reported great earth fissures and violent earth movements.

This apparently bore out the theory of local seismographers that the center of the opening disturbances Tuesday was in the sea.

Tents and other supplies were sent to David City, which has a population of 6,000, and preparations were made to give other aid.

Golf Ball Hits Auto; Hurts Driver and His Daughter

John Barry, owner of a saloon at 6743 South Halsted street, and his 15 year old daughter, Dorothy, were injured yesterday when a golf ball driven from a practice course shattered the windshield of Barry's automobile. The accident occurred at 87th street and South Park avenue. The ball struck Dorothy on the head, stunning her. Barry's hands were cut. Burnside police questioned the golfers, but were unable to learn who had driven the ball over the 10 foot fence.

300 Policemen Win Pier Battle.

Seattle, Wash., July 20.—[Special.]—Two thousand maritime strikers were driven from the publicly owned Smith Cove terminals today in a spectacular battle with 300 policemen directed personally by Mayor Charles L. Smith, a former football star. The mayor was among those who suffered from tear gas in the battle.

Nearly all the 2,300 combatants were affected by tear and nausea gas, some seriously. At least 75 men were cut and bruised as police, mounted and afoot, swung clubs and pickets threw stones. Three patrolmen and two pickets were taken to hospitals and scores of others were given first aid on the scene.

400 Loading Nine Ships.

The police victory reopened freight train and truck lanes to piers 40 and 41, where 400 nonunion men are working on nine ships. Strikers had seized the tracks and roads in their victorious march through police lines Wednesday.

Mayor Smith was caught in a wave of tear gas as he directed the police offensive from a bridge above the battlers. He held his handkerchief to his face as he ran for shelter in a pier building. Tears streamed from the mayor's eyes as he reached the shed. He was not affected seriously.

Police and strikers clashed again on the water front this evening when the strikers blocked the progress of a freight train with torn up railroad ties. Twenty officers charged the mob of 100, routed them with tear gas and night sticks and cleared the path for the train, which was going to pier 41, where nonunion longshoremen are handling cargo.

The first riot of pickets was a spectacular sight to residents of nearby hills as the strikers fled pell-mell before clouds of gas. The shooting of gas guns and exploding of gas bombs could be heard for a mile.

Sounds Like Wartime Battle.

"It sounded like a wartime battle," said one Queen Anne hill resident, who watched the fight from his porch. "I could hear the shooting of gas guns plainly. There were clouds of gas. I saw several men falling. Then the whole mob of pickets scattered up the side of the hill and along the streets."

Six pickets dived into Elliott bay to avoid the gas and swam to safety. A southwest wind was ideal for police, as it carried the gas before the bluecoats. Horses of the officers were little affected by the gas. They carried their riders through the fumes.

The battle lasted about half an hour and ended in complete rout of the strikers.

Mayor Fires Police Chief.

The police drive today caused a split between Mayor Smith and his police chief, George F. Howard, which resulted in Howard's resignation. The chief apparently did not favor such drastic police action as the mayor. The mayor then took command of the department, but promised to name a new chief tomorrow. He was angered by the defeat of police by strikers on Wednesday.

After the rioting Mayor Smith issued a statement in which he said:

"I have no intention of seeking to rule Seattle by force, but shall act to prevent any one else from trying to rule the city by unlawful force. Police acted today on behalf of 95 per cent of the people, who are being seriously injured because of a controversy between interests representing only 5 per cent."

Round Up More Communists.

Police continued their round-up of communists today. The sailors' union of the Pacific office was raided this afternoon by 20 officers. Eleven men, nine of them seamen, were arrested. Union officials coöperated in rounding up men in the raid on sailors' union hall. Caryl Cockey, University of Washington co-ed, arrested with 34 men in previous raids, was released on her own recognizance.

Railroad crews started moving freight to and from the piers a few minutes after the police victory. Police built barricades of bales of cotton and stationed officers with submachine guns behind them, ready to resist any attempt by the strikers to regain their losses. Strikers from other northwest cities were reported being rushed to Seattle to launch a new drive on the piers.

In the grim military atmosphere one bright element entered when Dr. Don J. Palmer, police physician, drew a cheer when he prescribed beer for those slightly affected by gas. He said it would "settle" their stomachs. A nearby café did a land office business to "cure" the victorious police. Before the battle there was an air of [illegible] mobilization.

SAN FRANCISCO COUNTS THE COST; PORTLAND QUIET

While the maritime unions in San Francisco were asserting that their position is stronger than ever, and that the dock tieup would continue, citizens were counting the costs of the 77 hour general strike. Business in the San Francisco area admittedly has received a severe blow; merchants have lost customers, tourist trade has suffered, and the shipping industry in all its ramifications has been paralyzed. Estimates of the loss to San Francisco in actual cash run as high as 150 million dollars. Details on page 2.

Meanwhile, Portland, Ore., breathed easier as labor unions promised not to call a general strike until attempts to arbitrate the dock tieup in San Francisco have been completed.

Portland's labor leaders made the pledge but spoke bitterly of the mobilization of Oregon's National Guard on the outskirts of the city.

Auto Driven by Boy Kills Fair Visitor

A young man who came from Louisiana to visit the World's Fair was killed last night and his companion was injured when they were struck by an automobile driven by a 14 year old boy whose only passenger was a 12 year old boy. The accident occurred at 149th street and Cicero avenue, Midlothian.

The dead man was Young Breuster Allen, 25 years old, of Algiers, La. His injured companion is Ernest Rowe, 23 years old, also of Algiers.

They had ridden from their home town on a motorcycle equipped with side car and had stopped by the highway in Midlothian to make some minor repairs. Toward them came the car driven by James Foster, 14 years old, 12200 Greenwood avenue, Blue Island. With him was James Liddle, 12 years old, of 14948 Lawndale avenue, Midlothian.

State Law Violated.

A state law provides that no minor under the age of 15 may drive an automobile unless accompanied by a licensed chauffeur or the owner of the car, but there was no such person with the Foster and Liddle boys.

Shortly after the death of Allen in the Oak Forest infirmary the state highway police took into custody James W. Foster, father of the youthful driver. It was announced that he and the two boys would be held until a determination of responsibility had been made at the inquest to be held at the infirmary this afternoon.

Lincoln Park Crash Fatal.

Charles W. Seignious, 70 years old, of 1536 Fargo avenue, was killed and nine persons were bruised and shaken up when the elderly man lost control of his automobile and crashed head-on with a northbound motor coach in Lake Shore drive, just south of Grant's monument in Lincoln park.

Edward Miklas, 2216 Colvin street, the bus driver, told police he had seen Seignious slump over the wheel of his machine just before the crash, and it's believed that he had suffered a heart attack. One of the passengers in the bus, Miss Jordice Berge, 21 years old, of 6141 Henderson street, was taken to the Columbus Memorial hospital, suffering from shock.

DISORDERS RAGE IN MINNEAPOLIS; TROOPS RUSHED

Stop Milk, Ice, and Beer Deliveries.

Attack on Officials

Minneapolis, Minn., July 20.—(AP)—Shouts of "Hang him"—"Lynch him," referring to Chief of Police Michael Johannes, interrupted a huge massmeeting tonight of labor trades.

Thousands attended the open air meeting on the outskirts of the downtown district to hear William Brown, head of the Truck Drivers' union, No. 574, read a resolution demanding that Gov. Floyd B. Olson remove Mayor A. G. Bainbridge and "his stool pigeon, Michael Johannes, chief of police." It was adopted by acclamation amid cheers.

Brown also read a second resolution calling upon every minister, rabbi, and priest to denounce from their pulpits "this wholesale slaughter." Brown referred to the Minnesota Law and Order league as a "murderers' association."

Loud speakers carried his words to thousands surrounding the vacant lot. Nearby streets were jammed.

"Are we going to let these people shoot us down like dogs or are we going to fight back?" he asked. He called upon policemen to turn in their guns, uniforms, and badges and refuse to "go out and shoot men."

Minneapolis, Minn., July 20.—[Special.]—After a day of bloody rioting in which one man was reported slain and 68 other persons were shot or otherwise wounded in the Minneapolis truck strike, a call for a general strike was issued late tonight by Miles Dunne, leader of the Truck Drivers' union.

The strikers' steering committee also announced there would be no milk, ice or beer deliveries tomorrow. Whether other union leaders will heed the call of Dunne was conjectural. The night moves were designed to throw the entire city into a labor tieup, peace authorities contended.

Adjt. Gen. E. A. Walsh, who reported one striker was killed, was unable to furnish his name.

More Troops Called.

Additional troopers were ordered into the city. Nearly 2,500 National Guardsmen started off from Little Falls after it had been decided to call them at a conference between Gov. Floyd B. Olson and Gen. Walsh, head of the Minnesota National Guard. This brought the total of troops on duty in the city to 3,400.

It was impossible to learn the identity of any but the more seriously wounded. At least two were policemen and several were bystanders who were not participating in the rioting. Several of those shot were suffering from buckshot wounds of a slight nature.

Police fired more than 100 shots into a mob of nearly 500 strike demonstrators when they attempted to interfere with the movement of a truck out of the municipal market and commission house district, closed by strike pickets since the truck strike started at midnight Monday.

Pickets Watch for Trucks.

A crew of nearly 100 strikers had been standing guard in the district most of the day, having received reports at strike headquarters that an attempt would be made to move food trucks late today.

More than 150 police had been sent to the district shortly before noon. Police Chief Michael Johannes had armed them all with shotguns.

Shortly after 2 o'clock a food truck moved out from a wholesale house. It was followed by 12 police cars, each loaded with four policemen, all of whom carried shotguns.

As the truck turned out a truck loaded with strikers swung up and cut in ahead of the food truck.

Policemen lined either side of the street. The strikers' truck crashed through the line of policemen, narrowly missing several of them. It smashed directly into the front end of the food truck. Police opened fire immediately. They fired at the truck.

Police Sergeant Boards Truck.

Police Sergeant A. E. Brannan jumped to the running board of the strikers' truck and fired on the driver, according to reports. The strikers opened fire. Brannan fell off the truck, blood streaming from his face. The crowd of strikers, who had been held in back of the railroad tracks, a block away from the scene of the shooting, broke through the lines of policemen and rushed to the scene of the battle.

Police advanced on them, firing first into the air as a warning, then opening fire on the sidewalk in front of the strikers. The strikers retreated, then started another rush for the police. The street resembled a battle field.

Their glistening bayonets exerted a quieting influence on the mob and order was restored for a time.

Sergt. Brannan was severely beaten and was taken to a hospital. Patrolman John Green was shot. Otto Lafdahl, a striker, was in a serious condition. He was wounded in the back and chest by shotgun charges.

John Belur, 49, was also in a critical condition from a wound in the chest. Otis Shugren, 33, and Henry Hess, 40, both shot in the back, and Nels Nelson were among the serious casualties.

Police and the guardsmen cleared the streets immediately, throwing a line of guards about the entire district. The strikers retreated to their original position behind the railroad tracks. The strikers picked up their own wounded, with the exception of four taken to General hospital. These men were taken in trucks to strike headquarters, where they were picked up in private ambulances and taken to St. Barnabas hospital.

All the wounded strikers taken to General hospital were marked "held for police," despite their wounds. Six detectives were rushed to the hospital to guard them, and County Attorney Ed J. Goff sent investigators to take statements fro . them.

"This Is War," Speaker Shouts.

A speaker started haranguing the crowds. He announced over the strike headquarters loud speaker that all trade unions in the city were being called out to "battle the police."

"This is war," the speaker shouted.

At union headquarters, William Brown and Vincent Dunne, strike leaders, said the picket lines would be immediately strengthened and that movement of trucks would be stopped.

Asked if that meant resistance to the police and flaunting of Chief Johannes' orders, Brown said:

"The trucks will not move. There may be an occasional truck get through under escort, but there will be no general movement of trucks. You can depend on that."

Shortly after this afternoon's fighting was ended, the grip of the strike on the city was tightened as taxicab drivers walked out in a protest move.

Special Trains Bring Troops.

The troops ordered here are the 92d infantry brigade, now training at Camp Ripley near Little Falls, the 59th artillery brigade, with the exception of the 125th field artillery of Duluth. Special trains were made up and moved out as fast as entraining could be completed.

Following the disorders Gov. Olson hurried to Minneapolis from the state capitol in St. Paul to make a survey to determine whether he should place the city under martial law.

Asked whether martial law was contemplated, Gen. Walsh said:

"That is impossible to say now. It all depends on future developments and circumstances.

Gov. Olson left it to my discretion to order for duty in Minneapolis such portions of the Minnesota National Guard which I deemed necessary to maintain law and order there.

"What policy will be pursued depends entirely upon conditions in Minneapolis. The National Guard can either aid civil authorities in maintaining law and order or take full responsibility through martial law.

"Martial law has not been declared. Our procedure will follow Gov. Olson's statements of Monday, in which he asserted that he will take every step necessary to protect citizens and to maintain law and order."

New Parley Opens.

While a labor trades massmeeting was going on, Gov. Olson began a new conference with representatives of the employers. What was being discussed could not be learned.

But Gov. Olson, as he arrived for the meeting, plainly showed the strain under which he had been placed by the day's events. His face was worn and his clothes rumpled, and instead of the friendly manner he normally shows to reporters he wearily waved them aside.

During rioting which marked the 10-day strike last May approximately 7,000 troops were mobilized and held under orders in Minneapolis and St. Paul, but no disturbances occurred and they did not go into action.

Upsets Mediation Efforts.

The conflict came near the end of a day which apparently wiped out the gains that the Rev. Francis J. Haas, federal conciliator, believed had been made yesterday in conferences with union officials, employers, and with Gov. Olson and E. H. Dunnigan, conciliation commissioner of the department of labor.

The fighting began as Father Haas was about to go into what was scheduled to be a final conference with representatives of the employers, when he was expected to present a plan for amicable settlement of the truck strike, in which union leaders are seeking to extend their membership and at the same time seeking higher wages for the men they represent.

Movement of the truck which precipitated the battle had been preceded by the moving of two trucks earlier under heavy police escort. Convoyed by 22 police cruise cars, these two had distributed goods from the warehouses to grocery stores without being molested by the strikers.

Pleads Against Convoys.

Father Haas earlier in the day when informed that a plan was afoot to start the truck movement, which has been tied up since the strike began, suggested to Chief of Police Johannes that police convoys be called off pending outcome of the negotiations and consideration of proposals that had been tentatively agreed to by the union leaders.

Chief Johannes told the mediator that he was "between two fires and that if called upon to convoy trucks it is his duty to give the assistance."

"The convoying of trucks represents the breaking of promises made to Father Haas and to me that there would be a truce until Saturday night," said Gov. Olson late tonight.

"The blood of those wounded and dying is upon the heads of the men who brought about the breaking of that promise.

"I still am prepared to take over the military control of the city at any time. That means martial law with police and the sheriff subject to direction of the adjutant general of the National Guard.

"If it is necessary to assume military control I will make the city of Minneapolis as quiet as a Sunday school."

JOHNSON SCORES SAN FRANCISCO 'STRIKE TYRANNY'

Assails Unions, Employers for Walkout.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 20.—(AP)—With the declaration that the general strike in San Francisco was "the most critical moment in recent history" and that it was "dictatorship-tyranny-minority rule," Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator, disclosed today what he said was the "inside story" of the affair. He criticized both the unions and employers.

"When you have to go to a strike committee to get permission to have a bottle of milk for the baby you may know how fully the public has been subjected to a little group with a special interest," said Johnson, "and I care not whether that group be of big or little importance, or whether they be rich or poor.

"It is minority rule. It is dictatorship. It is the end of democracy. It is tyranny and not to be tolerated for one moment by a free people.

"The extremists on the labor side actually had that system in effect when I arrived at San Francisco. But the extremists on the other side were just as bad. The pressure from a small group of wealthy men to declare martial law was perfectly terrific."

Time for "America First."

In discussing the general strike, now ended, Gen. Johnson said

"I think it is about time for an 'America first' campaign on this subject. I do not know the accuracy of the statement and I have no means to check it but it has been said to me with at least the circumstances of verity that if the jobs of aliens and nondeclarants were given to citizens and the former were deported, the unemployment and destitution problems in the United States would be reduced by at least one-third.

"That sounds like a pretty harsh remedy—but so is the distress of our own people harsh. I do not suggest such a move, but I do suggest that any alien who pretends to lead an economic group of our people in the direction of strife and bloodshed has no place here and should no more be tolerated than an armed enemy under a foreign flag."

"Ripe for Arbitration."

Continuing, he said:

"I know that the principal question in the mind of the American people is 'What now?' I think that question deserves a fair answer. There are two difficult problems here—the longshoremen's and the seamen's industrial relations. From what I know of them, they both are bad. They are fit and ripe for arbitration. When men cannot agree, the calling in of a third party—wholly neutral—is the sensible way. It is the American way. It is the way in this case.

"While I did not for one moment barter with any interest in the case, because I believed it to be beneath the dignity of the United States to offer tit-for-tat under the threat of either the general strike or martial law, the minute those conservative leaders of labor had won their fight against the general strike, I told them—and so did some of the important citizens of San Francisco—that we would support their offer of arbitration and their claims of representation as long as grass grows and water runs."

RAIDERS PRESS HUNT FOR REDS IN CALIFORNIA

San Francisco, Cal., July 20.—(AP)—California police pressed their campaign against radicals today, raiding hangouts of suspected agitators and arresting more than a score as an aftermath of the San Francisco general strike.

In San Pedro the quarters of Lillian Goodman, said by police to be associated with the international labor defense, were raided. Twelve arrests were made, six prisoners being booked on suspicion of criminal syndicalism.

Sacramento police and sheriff's deputies visited the communist party headquarters there and the communist conducted "workers' school," arresting 24 persons. Authorities said the Sacramento raids were made to head off raids which "vigilante" groups had planned for tonight.

In San José 200 villigantes raided nine radical "hangouts" in a search for John O'Rouke, who led a demonstration July 5 against the National Guard. Fourteen persons, including one woman, were seized, taken to the county line, and told not to return.

Berkeley police reported bricks were thrown through windows of half a hundred homes. The residents, although not all of them radicals, were told to move out.

PLANTS ARE GUARDED AS TEXTILE STRIKES CONTINUE IN SOUTH

Huntsville, Ala., July 20.—(AP)—Guards patroled textile plants still operating in north Alabama today as the fourth day of the textile strike was devoid of major developments.

A rumored motorcade of Huntsville strikers to Decatur failed to materialize as Morgan county officers stood guard on roads leading into the city to turn them back.

Decatur yesterday was the scene of a street battle in which one union organiser was shot and two others injured.

Decatur's four textile plants continued normal operations today. With the exception of scattered small plants they were virtually the only mills operating in the northern part of the state.

South and central Alabama mills continued in operation, apparently without molestation from strikers.

Twenty-four mills, involving employés estimated at from 13,000 to 22,000 are closed. Strikers demanded a permanent 30 hour week, a $12 weekly minimum wage, and changes in working conditions, in addition to recognition of the United Textile Workers of America for collective bargaining.

FARM WAREHOUSE DESTROYED IN 2D MYSTERY BLAZE

Bridgeton, N. J., July 20.—(AP)—The second of two fires of unknown origin at the Seabrook farm tonight destroyed a large warehouse filled with 35,000 peach crates, with an estimated loss of more than $10,000.

Before dawn today empty barracks built to house 500 men burned. Charles F. Seabrook, owner, estimated that loss at $8,000.

County Detective Albert F. Murray, who is investigating both blazes, said he believed they were of incendiary origin. Flames were found in four different places in the barracks, while the blaze in the warehouse began in the northwestern corner, apparently from the inside, watchmen said.

A watchman said he saw unidentified prowlers at the peach packing plant this evening and telephoned Murray. When he next looked at the warehouse it was in flames.

The fires are the latest of a fast moving train of events at the farm, which experienced a protracted strike recently. Today Judge Leroy W. Loder continued for a week the hearing of two alleged communist organizers who were charged with conspiracy to incite riot during the strike.

The defendants, Donald Henderson, former Columbia university professor, and Mrs. Vivian Dahl, both of Vineland, appeared for the hearing in Cumberland county courthouse while seven state policemen stood guard.

DUKE COMPANY POWER PROTEST TO WASHINGTON

Washington, D. C., July 20.—(AP)—The Duke Power company gave notice today it intended to carry to the Federal Power Commission its fight against construction, with public works funds, of a municipal hydro-electric plant in Greenwood, S. C.

Basil Manley, vice-chairman of the Federal Power Commission, said G. G. Allen, president of the Duke Company, had written the Commission that his company would seek a hearing to protest the granting of a permit to the county for erection of the proposed plant on the Saluda river in South Carolina.

The Duke company's protest against a public works allotment of $2,767,000 to the county for construction of the plant was overruled yesterday by the PWA, which announced it had lifted its suspension placed on the allocation when objections arose.

Greenwood county sometime ago filed application with the power commission for a permit to build the plant, but county authorities recently notified the regulatory body they would file an amended application shortly after approval of the allotment.

SAN FRANCISCO WORKERS MADE MISTAKE: GREEN

Washington, D. C., July 20.—(AP)—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, tonight issued a statement in which he said the workers of San Francisco "made a grave mistake when they engaged in a sympathetic strike, but they acted wisely when they ordered it officially terminated."

Green said workers belonging to unions affiliated with the American Federation "can not afford to engage in a sympathetic strike when such action calls for the violation of contracts arived at through collective bargaining, and involves the possibility of losing all the economic gains they may have secured through years of sacrifice and effort."

FIND BODY IN RIVER.

The body of an unidentified man, about 45 years old, was taken from the Chicago river at South Damen avenue yesterday by Edward Guesch, 5014 Grace street, a passerby.

ALIENS CODDLED AS SEC. PERKINS DISREGARDS LAW

Deportation Is Halted by New Deal Appointee.

The federal department of labor has notified district directors that some 600 deportable aliens, 19 of whom live in the Chicago area, will be permitted to remain in the country, in violation of the law, pending action by the next congress on a bill sponsored by Secretary Frances Perkins.

The measure is designed to "humanize" the deportation laws through preventing the separation of families and it confers wide discretionary powers upon the secretary of labor.

The bill was defeated in the house, 186 to 92, at the last session of congress, but it is to be reintroduced at the next session. Meanwhile the American Federation of Labor, the American Legion and more than 100 other patriotic organizatons are conducting a nation-wide campaign against the proposed changes in the law on the ground that they would permit abuses of the discretionary power and make possible the retention of vast numbers of undesirables whose deportation is now mandatory.

U. S. Court Ruling Stern.

In October, 1932, the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in Chicago laid down the principle of law that membership in the communist party, which advocates violence to overthrow the government, is adequate ground for the deportation of an alien.

This was in the case of Niels Kjar, a notorious agitator, who was deported to Denmark. The Circuit court now has before it the case of Emil Gardos, agitation and propaganda director of the communist party, whose naturalization certificate was revoked by Federal Judge Geiger of Milwaukee.

Fred D. Schlotfeldt, district director of immigration and deportation, has been working on the Gardos case for three years and hopes to deport him if the courts sustain the citizenship revocation.

Yet, under the proposed law, the secretary of labor would have the power to keep such characters as these in the country according to congressmen who fought the measure on the floor of the house in June.

Gives Secretary Powers.

The bill provides that "aliens who have been convicted of two or more crimes of moral turpitude or who, for gain, have aided others to enter the country illegally, shall be deported "if the secretary of labor finds that deportation of the alien is in the public interest."

It provides also that the secretary of labor, at his or her discretion, may allow an alien otherwise deportable under any law to remain in the country if he is of good moral character, has not been convicted of a crime of moral turpitude, has not engaged in subversive political agitation, and has a near relative who has been lawfully admitted or is a citizen.

Representative Louis T. McFadden [Rep., Pa.] charged that the qualification on "subversive political agitation" still would permit the secretary to retain aliens known to be members of organizations whose avowed purpose is to overthrow the government by force.

Appointees Back Bill.

The only ones who appeared in support of the bill during the committee hearings were the Ellis Island committee of 48, appointed by Secretary Perkins to make a study of Ellis Island conditions and immigration generally, and Col. Daniel W. MacCormack, the commissioner of immigration.

This group was assisted in its study by the "general committee of immigrant aid at Ellis Island," composed of Cecilia Rasovsky Davidson, Isaac L. Asofsky, Aghavnie Y. Yeghenian, Carlotte N. V. Schiapelli, David W. Wainhouse, Marian Schibsby, Florence G. Cassidy, Edith Terry Bremer, Jane Perry Clark, Raymond E. Cole, Ruth Larned, Thomas F. Mulholland, George L. Warren, and Katherine E. Young.

One of Secretary Perkins' first acts was the firing of the entire alien secret service organization set up under former Secretary William Doak to investigate alien racketeers, communists and anarchists in the larger cities. Her explanation was that the service cost too much and was largely "ballyhoo."

Fingerprinting Halted.

An order promulgated by the former administration providing for finger printing of all aliens entering or returning to the country for permanent residence was promptly rescinded by Secretary Perkins.

In a speech delivered before the Immigrants' Protective league of Chicago last October, Commissioner MacCormack outlined some of the reforms that have been instituted under Secretary Perkins and told of the time he reduced the bond of a communist to a nominal figure.

"A $25,000 bond was demanded as the price of liberty for an alleged communist," he said. "This case was investigated by me personally. I found that beyond any reasonable doubt the man should have been held as a communist, but also came to the conclusion that he was harmless."

Commissioner MacCormack said that some of the communist's friends protested against the amount of the bond, promised that the government would have no occasion to regret reducing it, and that it was immediately reduced.

Col. MacCormack also explained that the former practice of rounding up suspected aliens without warrants had been dispensed with and that no arrests are now made without warrants. He added that "we have, of course, lost some aliens whom we would otherwise have been able to apprehend," but "the results have on the whole been satisfactory."

General Strike Dealt Permanent Blow to Business in San Francisco Region

BY ARTHUR M. EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Francisco, Cal., July 20.—[Special.]—In its purposes, San Francisco's general strike, which collapsed and was called off after 77 hours, was aimed at paralyzing the economic life of the whole community and the state. What brought about its quick dissolution was the fact that, engineered by a radical minority, the sympathetic walkout was recognized as a strike against the people and organized society and against government itself, some of whose powers the radicals sought to usurp.

State and city officials threw out all their protective resources, military and police; the populace itself showed resentment when it became the chief strike victim, and the conservative unionists put on the brakes and helped remove the pressure on ordinary citizens.

Hard Blow to Business.

Business and industry in the San Francisco bay region, which was beginning to show signs of recovery, is accounted to have received a hard setback by the general walkout. In the downtown district business was stagnant, few customers, and the old adage says "Sales lost by a rainy day are never made up." It is a great tourist city and the loss in this is figured to run up into many millions of dollars.

At the great harbor, itself the center of Pacific shipping, it was figured the waterfront strike alone was causing a loss of more than a million dollars a day, while the general strike during its duration multiplied this several times. Many contracts have been taken to other regions, and the loss to industries is expected to show an injurious effect on pay rolls and wages for some time to come.

Some ship lines have announced that they have permanently switched some of their vessels to Los Angeles or to Atlantic ports, and city officials discern this as a loss that affects the entire city, whose mainstay is prosperity in the harbor. Many employers who were tied up by the strike are expected to reduce the number on their pay rolls due to diminished business not to be restored at once.

Hits White Collar Class.

The effect is expected to be a reduction of employment for citizens who are in lines outside organized labor, the white collar callings.

On the docks for weeks have been cargoes unable to be moved further than the wharf end. Some of them have been perishable commodities. The waste is figured to run into large figures.

The effect has been felt by citizens out in the state away from the strike area. The canning season is on, and the general strike has been felt by fruit growers in the Santa Clara, the Sacramento and the San Joaquin valleys, three great fruit vales.

At the docks here 400 tons of canners' alkali, used to skin peaches and apricots, have been tied up for weeks, slowing down the operation of the canners and injuring the market for the growers.

Gangs of terrorists have driven through the country intimidating farmers and inciting orchard workers to walk out as part of the strike movement which culminated in San Francisco's general walkout. Pamphlets have been scattered broadcast by Reds declaring that the mass strike in San Francisco was to be part of "a historic countrywide industrial strife," aimed to lead to a state of revolution.

Trucks of produce and fruit have been overturned into the ditch by strange men for weeks past, apparently following the instructions in the plenum of the Moscow Red Internationale, to go out by two or threes and raise all the trouble possible, especially where there are labor controversies.

In the last few days that appears to have had a reflex in the series of raids which unionists and others have been making upon nests of Red disturbers, here and in the east bay cities. Intimidation had been widespread during the period which preceded the general strike last Monday.

Both ordinary citizens and conservative unionists felt it. During the strike itself violence has been comparatively small, no outbreaks, due, no doubt, to the presence of the National Guard and an expanded police force and of vigilante groups which were formed for any emergencies.

But off on side streets cars have been overturned, perhaps because the driver had a sack of potatoes or a bunch of onions on the seat. And fears of violence, such as the dropping of a bomb at one's home or the beating of members of one's family, may have had some effect on conservatives in the labor movement when the general strike was being fomented.

The prevailing opinion is that the old line conservative labor leaders were pushed into it against their will by a rank and file under spell of the radical spellbindings.

Estimates Loss at 150 Millions.

One trade expert ventured an estimate that the loss to San Francisco in dollars and cents of the general strike of three and a half days and of the waterfront strike which has run 73 days aggregates between 125 million dollars and 150 million dollars. This affects the pocketbooks of all the citizens, strikers and nonstrikers.

What affected the psychology of the ordinary citizen quickest seems to have been the matter of eating. When the rush hour crowds at luncheon time on Monday sought for lunchrooms they found only 10 or so open. They were packed, jammed with customers, with lines forming on the sidewalks. On the doors were signs saying they were opened by permit of the strike committee.

That hit the ordinary man where he lives. San Francisco is a free and easy city, the people don't get mad easily, but when they do get mad they are quite steamed up.

On the streets and in cigar stores one began to hear expostulary remarks, many of them quite profane, but all to the effect:

"What the hell are things coming to when we can eat only with permission of the strikers?"

Embargo Heightens Feeling.

This feeling of indignation among the ordinary folks was heightened also by tidings that the strikers had decreed that the embargo against movement of foodstuffs should not apply to food for strikers. The impression rapidly gained that the strikers were to get food, while the idea was to starve out the rest of the people who were apparently sympathetic, all to win a dock strike.

Impression soon gained ground that the strike committee with its permits had taken over powers of government and was trying to run the people, tell them what they might do and what they might not do. Citizens began to swamp Mayor Rossi's offices with mesages volunteering to enroll among the vigilante groups to drive trucks or do anything else.

Conservative labor leaders, who meantime had gained control of the general strike committee, quickly sensed all this. At once permits were given for more restaurants to open and for trucks to deliver foodstuffs and meats to wholesale and retail houses and to customers. Trucks were coming in anyway under guard of the military and the police and there was no shortage of food.

By Monday night, too, the citizen who had to walk to the ferries down Market street was getting rather fed up and was talking about it openly, and next morning the municipal car lines were in operation, another embargo reduced by the strike committee.

Two Chief Objectives.

Transportation and food were the two necessaries which the radicals aimed to paralyze, to make a basis for the general strike.

What seemed to irk the ordinary citizen the most was this idea of living under permits issued from the Labor temple and being told "you can't do this" in matters far away from any waterfront dispute. Gasoline, for instance. It was a bit of a lark so long as a gallon of gas was in the tank, but when the citizen had to be traveling out of town to fill up and then in many cases found filling stations closed because of intimidation by strikers, the lark began to squawk like a parrot.

When the soldiers began to move gasoline in and filling stations opened a short distance from strike headquarters the committee lifted the ban on gasoline. The radicals now yelled the strike was broken by the lifting of the embargoes by the conservatives, and they were right, for at once strike orders and permits began to be ignored and the strike passed into a state of fast evaporation.

Conservative labor leaders fear the result has been a loss of popular sympathy, which in years past has been largely with labor, this being one of the greatest union towns in the country, so that unionism itself has apparently been adversely affected by the mass strike.

Since the longshoremen's strike went on 167 vessels which made port here have been unable to discharge cargo. Some of them are still at anchor; some have sailed through the Golden Gate, the owners saying they will run to other ports permanently

The strike has not tied up all harbor commerce. Between 1,100 and 1,400 stevedores have been working on cargoes all through the waterfront strike. Some of them are members of the old San Francisco longshoremen's union, which for four years was in the labor council but which was edged out by the longshoremen's association last year.

DOCK STRIKE GOES ON AT SAN FRANCISCO; SEN. WAGNER FLIES IN BULLETIN.

San Francisco, Cal., July 20.—(AP)—The Brotherhood of Teamsters and Auto Truck Drivers tonight voted officially to end their eight day strike in sympathy with striking longshoremen and "do all work without reservation." The vote was 1,138 to 283.

San Francisco, Cal., July 20.—[Special.]—Asserting that their position is stronger than ever, the maritime unions made the announcement today through their joint strike committee that the waterfront strike will go on.

At the same time U. S. Senator Robert G. Wagner of New York arrived here by plane to assist in peace negotiations and to settle the waterfront controversy at Portland, Ore., which is contingent upon the outcome of the San Francisco dispute.

"The strike of longshoremen and the maritime unions is continuing and is stronger than ever," said the strike committee's statement. "Our position is fortified by the show of strength from the rest of organized labor and by the fact that the working men and women in this city refuse to be browbeaten by a group of unjust, misled employers."

Harry Bridges, the radical strike leader from Australia, is chairman of the committee. He has constantly urged his union followers to continue with the general strike, but he was overwhelmed by the conservative leaders.

Edward Vandeleur, chairman of the San Francisco general strike committee, which voted to continue its existence for the time being even though the general strike has been called off, met Senator Wagner at the Palace hotel.

"I am vastly pleased that the general strike here has been eliminated and sincerely hope and believe it is possible to quickly adjust the differences remaining," said Senator Wagner. He added that he was not sure just what his activities here would be, but that he would hold himself subject to call from the federal arbitration board.

GENERAL STRIKE DELAY ASSURED IN PORTLAND, ORE.

Troops Held in Readiness as Safety Measure.

Portland, Ore., July 20.—[Special.]—The threat of a strangling general strike here in connection with waterfront disputes was removed today, at least for the time being, when conservative labor leaders promised to refrain from a general walkout pending attempts to arbitrate the maritime strike in San Francisco.

At the same time the labor leaders expressed indignation over the mobilization of the Oregon National Guard, which is being held in readiness to advance on the waterfront with machine guns, light howitzers, and tear and nausea gas bombs. Eleven hundred guardsmen are encamped ten miles from Portland.

Pledge Given Wagner.

"I have received assurances that labor will remain calm, at least until I have had time to work things out in San Francisco," said United States Senator Robert F. Wagner of New York, administration strike conciliator, as he boarded a plane for San Francisco to present the Portland case to the federal labor disputes board.

Oil companies today started 19 gasoline tank trucks under police guard from the strikebound water front to make deliveries at filling stations.

The proclamation mobilizing the militia was greeted by labor leaders with a statement that the move abrogated their pledge to refrain from a general strike action pending an attempt at water front arbitration.

Wagner "Regrets" Action.

Though Gov. Meier said the troops would be held in readiness at Camp Withycombe and would be called only if regular police are unable to cope with the situation, the strikers' committee was very much aroused and even Senator Wagner said he "regretted" the governor's action.

The strike committee charged that Gov. Meier was permitting himself to be made the tool of the employers.

EXPECTS EARLY SETTLEMENT OF KOHLER TIEUP

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Kohler, Wis., July 20.—[Special.]—"Progress for a satisfactory settlement is being made in connection with the Kohler plant siege," the Rev. Father J. W. Maguire, member of the Chicago regional labor board and mediator, announced late today as the fifth day of the trouble at the Kohler plant was drawing to a close.

Father Maguire had been working with company officials and besiegers all day. Walter J. Kohler, president of the company and former governor, could not attend the conference. Mr. Kohler, as chairman of the code committee for the plumbing fixture industry, was called to federal court in Milwaukee as a witness in the Rundle Manufacturing company case, involving alleged national recovery act code infractions.

Paul J. Smith, personal representative of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, arrived here today and conferred with Father Maguire and with union leaders. He has been assigned here from Washington to try to help obtain a settlement that will be satisfactory to the union.

OLSON STEMS OUSTER MOVE BY LANGER AIDS

Keeps a Quorum from the State Senate.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Bismarck, N. D., July 20.—[Special.]—Ole Olson, acting governor of North Dakota, scored two rounds today in his battle with William Langer, deposed chief executive.

He managed to keep a quorum from the state senate that prevented Langerites from proceeding with his proposed impeachment. Later he dealt with a group from the Farm Holiday movement—which is friendly to Langer—and refused to call a special session to consider a five year farm mortgage moratorium bill. He pleaded for "peace and order" and his courteous but hostile audience applauded him. Late in the day he began reorganization of the state government with removal of Langer appointees, to be replaced by his own supporters.

About 300 farmers marched to the ornate new statehouse to ask for the special session, which Olson regards as a "kangaroo" meeting because Langer called it before the Supreme court ousted him.

Declines to Issue Call.

First to a small committee in his office and later on the steps of the capitol Olson soberly told the farmers that he would not call a special session unless "the emergency was great enough."

National Guardsmen with fixed bayonets, who have lounged about the halls of the capitol for four days, stood curiously in the doorway as the governor, in shirt sleeves, recalled his own inability, several years ago, to pay his farm taxes, and asked his listeners to remain "peaceable and loyal."

He turned back into the capitol with cheers resounding behind him. Just then a member of the crowd yelled: "Mrs. Langer is going to speak down town. Come on," and the crowd eagerly followed.

Term Langer "Crucified."

In his office the Farm Holiday committee told Olson that Langer had been "crucified" and deserved a trial by the legislature. That could only be done by a special session.

"If he was crucified, it was done by the courts, not by me," Olson replied.

Langer was found guilty in a federal court of soliciting political funds from relief workers and fined $10,000 and sentenced to serve eighteen months in Leavenworth. The sentence is being appealed. Then the Supreme court ruled that he could not hold office and Olson took command yesterday.

Only 19 senators of the constitutional majority of 24 were present today, even though nine others were served with summonses last night. Enraged Langer leaders called Olson a "dictator" on the floor today, but that did not help matters much.

Majority in House.

The house, on the contrary, showed its strong Langer majority by mustering 72 of the 113 representatives. Any impeachment proceedings must be instituted in the house by a majority vote, which Representative W. J. Flannigan of Jamestown seems confident of accomplishing.

Senator A. F. Bonzer of Lidgerwood, Langer's leader in the upper chamber, has a tougher job. If the house should vote impeachment of Olson it would be up to him to bring the senate here to sit as a court. A two-thirds majority of 33 would be needed to convict. As soon as there is a quorum Langer is expected to make a rush trip to the capitol to read a special message. Then the impeachment proceedings would begin.

Actually the Langerites will regard their battle as two-thirds won if they can get the house to vote Olson's impeachment, for that would automatically disqualify him from sitting in the governor's office. He would be succeeded by Senator David Hamilton of Eckman, president pro tempore and a Langer man, and with Hamilton in the saddle the Langer people would continue to run the state.

Strikes at Enemies.

The temper of the Langerites was displayed today by Senator Bonzer when he found that only 19 were present in his chamber. Taking the floor on a question of personal privilege, Bonzer declared that he saw from the "prostituted press" that Olson was offering immunity from political wrath to those senators who remained away from the session. Later he explained he was striking at North Dakota papers unfriendly to Langer.

Bonzer moved that the sergeant at arms be instructed to seize every absent senator and drag him to tomorrow's session, but Senator Hamilton ruled that out of order, because of lack of a quorum. Senator Charles G. Bangert of Enderlin then asked that the committee of three be appointed "as citizens" to ask the governor if he really was trying to stop the session. But, because the farmers' committee was closeted with Olson, the committee could not see him then, and the senate adjourned until 2 p. m. tomorrow.

Olson had no hesitation in admitting to newspaper men that he was trying to keep the senators away.

Fears "Greeks with Gifts."

He also revealed that a committee waited upon him earlier today, attempting to get him to call the session.

It was indicated that this group said it would not go into impeachment but that other important matters required the assembly. The governor's attitude, as expressed by his "Boswell," John Nystul, was that he "feared Greeks bearing gifts" and refused.

"Miniature Civil War."

St. Paul, Minn., July 20.—[Special.]—T. J. Edmonds, federal emergency relief administrator for seven northwest states, termed the situation in North Dakota extremely critical and similar to a "miniature civil war" upon his return here today after a two day investigation ordered by Washington of conditions in that state.

He said that he was indirectly threatened with violence by irate supporters of William Langer, ousted governor, at a relief meeting attended by 350 persons who crowded into one room of the Burleigh county courthouse at Bismarck.

Train Smashes Steam Speed Marks at 103 Miles an Hour

MILWAUKEE RUN BY STEAM TRAIN SETS NEW MARK

C.,M.,St.P.& P.Engine Hits 103 Mile Clip.

Roaring northward from Chicago to Milwaukee, a regularly scheduled passenger train of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad yesterday broke all existing steam locomotive records for speed sustained over a distance of fifty miles or more.

For the stretch of 68.9 miles between Mayfair, within the city limits of Chicago, and Lake, Wis., the train made an average speed of 90.6 miles an hour, although the actual speed mounted at times as high as 103 miles an hour.

The previous record for sustained speed, according to officials of the railroad, was 81.6 miles an hour, made by an English train over the 77.5 mile stretch between London and Swindon, England.

Passengers Not Told.

The elapsed time of yesterday's trip from the Chicago Union station to the Milwaukee terminal, a distance of 85 miles, was 67 minutes 30 seconds, making an average speed from standstill to standstill, of 75.5 miles an hour.

Unaware of the impending speed test were passengers who boarded the train at the Chicago terminal. Beyond Mayfair, with momentum increasing to far past the ordinary, they began to suspect. Near Oakwood there no longer was any doubt. Special watchmen guarded grade crossings, and, though the test run had not been advertised, crowds lined the tracks. Thrilled and elated, the passengers left the train at Milwaukee 23 minutes ahead of schedule.

The train left Chicago at 10 a. m., daylight saving time, with Engineer William Dempsey of Milwaukee at the throttle. Dempsey is 54 years old, a 35 year veteran of the railroad. His fireman was Warren Kirby, also of Milwaukee. The conductor was Charles Albright, 62 years old, of Evanston.

Aboard, in addition to regular passengers and crew, were George B. Haynes, passenger traffic manager of the railroad; Norman A. Ryan, assistant general manager; C. H. Bilty, mechanical engineer, and A. G. Hoppo, engineer of tests.

Gains Speeds Gradually.

Out of the terminal, and through the yards, the big Baltic type engine, pulling five cars with a total weight of 390 tons, gathered speed gradually. Past Mayfair, Engineer Dempsey began opening the throttle.

Through Edgebrook, Morton Grove, and Glenview the speed mounted, until, roaring through Deerfield on an upgrade, the timer in the rear car marked 92 miles an hour. Still picking up, the train shot through Rondout, eight miles farther along, at 97 miles an hour.

Faster and faster the drivers worked at a blurring speed, until the stretch of two miles on either side of Oakwood was covered at 103 miles an hour. Dempsey took the speeding train around one degree curves at 100 miles an hour and around half degree curves at 102 miles an hour.

Then came a gradual slowing down, as the train whizzed by Lake, and into the outskirts of Milwaukee.

STORES REPORT LARGE CROWDS ON DOLLAR DAY

Large crowds took advantage of the second day's offering of dollar bargains in State street stores yesterday, the State Street council reported at the close of the day's business.

Hot weather items such as seersucker suits and iced tea sets were sought by many shoppers. One store reported the sale of fifty seersucker suits within forty minutes after opening for the day's business.

Women's accessories such as handbags and hosiery passed rapidly over the counters. Silk counters did a rushing business selling material by the yard. White hats and cool frocks were also in demand.

POISON LIQUOR SENDER GETS 1 TO 20 YEAR TERM

Oakland, Cal., July 20.—(AP)—Arthur Cleu, Oakland pressman, who admitted sending poisoned liquor to six fellow lodge members, was sentenced today to one to twenty years in prison.

The plot against the six men, all members of the Native Sons of the Golden West, failed because the poison Cleu used had an offensive odor and none of the intended victims drank of the liquor.

Cleu said he sent the liquor to the group to end a "disagreeable situation." He was charged with attempted murder.

CHILD, 6, KILLED BY TRUCK; TOLL FOR YEAR IS 659

Eleanor Goldblatt, 6 years old, of 3248 West 13th street, was killed yesterday when she darted into the path of a truck while playing in the street near her home. The driver, William Lucansky, 30 years old, of 1230 North Hamlin avenue, was held for the inquest.

Mrs. Hanna Youngquist, 71 years old, 4914 North Damen avenue, was injured fatally last night when she was struck by an automobile at Western avenue and Grace street. She died at the Martha Washington hospital. Elbert Scott, Negro, 20 years old, 2121 Foster avenue, Evanston, driver of the death car, was held by the police for the inquest.

Mrs. Catherine McLaughlin, 50 years old, 5933 Parnell avenue, died early today in the Evangelical Deaconess hospital of injuries suffered last night when she was struck at 72d and Halsted streets by an automobile. The driver of the car, who fled after the accident, was not identified.

Alvin Westland, 36 years old, of 1324 Madison street, died in the County hospital of injuries received May 22, when his automobile crashed into a Madison street car at Vedder street.

Robert Kulz, 35 years old, of 4551 South Justine street, died in the County hospital from injuries suffered July 17, when he was struck by a hit and run automobile at 44th street and Ashland avenue.

OHIO HEIRESS WEDS ST. LOUIS MANUFACTURER

Alliance, O., July 20.—(AP)—The marriage of Miss Ann Sharer of Alliance, who once was sued for $50,000 for alienation of a Wilmington, Del., broker's affections, to Harry Barnes Johansen of St. Louis, Mo., was announced here today.

Johansen, a shoe manufacturer, married Miss Sharer Feb. 3 in Waukegan, Ill. They will make their home in St. Louis.

The former Miss Sharer, niece of Col. William Morgan, millionaire Alliance manufacturer, became involved in the alienation suit in Cleveland in 1933 as the result of an alleged shipboard romance with Theodore W. Canning, young Wilmington broker.

Canning at that time was married, but had filed suit for divorce in the courts at Reno, Nev. It was reported he intended to marry Miss Sharer as soon as the divorce was granted.

However, Canning later found it impossible to obtain the divorce, and the suit by his wife against Miss Sharer followed.

TRACY, RADIO SINGER, AND WIFE SEPARATE; SHE'LL GET $20,000

New York, July 20.—[Special.]—Arthur Tracy, known in the radio field as the Street Singer, effected a separation agreement with his wife, Mrs. Beatrice M. Tracy, in which he will pay her $20,000 in lieu of alimony or other claims against his estate, according to papers filed in the Supreme court.

ARTHUR TRACY.

The Tracys were married on Oct. 21, 1932, and separated on Dec. 4 last. Mrs. Tracy instituted proceedings against her husband, and the agreement filed today ends that action. By the terms of the agreement Tracy will pay Mrs. Tracy $7,000 immediately and deposit $13,000 with the Manufacturers' Trust company, which will have custody of this sum and pay Mrs. Tracy $50 a week, beginning one year hence. Of the $7,000 to be paid to Mrs. Tracy immediately, $2,000 will go to her former attorney.

HUSBAND HANGS HIMSELF; WIFE HIDES SUICIDE

Rockford, Ill., July 20.—[Special.]—Efforts of a wife to protect her husband's name in death by concealing the fact that he committed suicide were revealed today by Coroner Walter Julian.

Swen Oscar Johnson, 67, apparently despondent over unemployment and loss of his life savings, hanged himself by a rope which he threw over a furnace pipe in his home yesterday.

His wife discovered the body when she returned home, until the knots in the rope, moved the body and called a physician. She indicated to the doctor that Johnson had suffered several heart attacks and that might have been the cause of death, and the physician, after a brief examination, reported death from this cause.

It was only when the body was being prepared for burial that marks left on the neck by the rope were noticed and a confession of the true cause of death was obtained from the widow.

LADY ASHLEY AND DOUG FAIRBANKS AGAIN ACCUSED

New Misconduct Charges Filed Against Pair.

LONDON, July 20.—(AP)—New charges of misconduct during recent months were made today against Douglas Fairbanks Sr. and Lady Sylvia Ashley on behalf of Lord Ashley, who is suing for a divorce from his former chorus girl wife.

The allegation was made that the famous motion picture actor and Lady Ashley, who now are in Monte Carlo, continued misconduct at "various places and various dates," which are cited, since Fairbanks was first named as co-respondent in the case on Feb. 5.

Fairbanks and Lady Ashley will be served, Lord Ashley's attorneys said, but "it will probably take several days." Arrangements for the service are to be made through their attorneys.

An Answer Is Required.

The supplementary petition, an attorney explained, requires an answer within 14 days if the couple wish to resist it.

Lord Ashley's lawyers explained that the new petition brings the case "up to date" and will be treated with the original documents as a whole when the case comes to trial in October.

As they did in the original case, Fairbanks and Lady Ashley are expected to take steps to put themselves in a position to defend the suit if they care to do so.

The supplementary petition was filed in the gray stone Somerset house at 2 p. m., and was filed away to be held secret until the verdict in the case is given, as required by English law. The petition was composed of approximately fifty pages, listing in detail, it was stated, the charges.

[At Monte Carlo where Fairbanks and Lady Ashley are visiting the latter's sister, a Mrs. Black, it was said today that neither would discuss the supplementary petition.]

Plans to Sail for U. S.

Friends of the actor have stated recently that it is "impossible" for him to fight the charge against him in court because of his position in the public eye.

Alexander Korda, producer of the British picture in which Fairbanks was starred, said that the actor is expected here by the middle of next week and that he plans to sail for the United States about Aug. 8.

Shortly after the suit against Lady Ashley was filed, it was reported here that a reconciliation was imminent between Fairbanks and his wife, Mary Pickford, but no move has been revealed in that direction.

Recently Lady Ashley replied when asked about reports that she would marry Fairbanks: "That is not for me to say. I know nothing about it."

Wed Against Family's Wishes.

Lord Ashley, 33 year old heir of the 9th earl of Shartsbury, married Sylvia Hawkes, mannequin and chorus girl who had become a stage star, against the wishes of his family.

The couple lived together less than a year, and the suit was filed last February naming Fairbanks as co-respondent.

Lady Ashley and Fairbanks flew to Paris in the same plane July 7 and subsequently went to Monte Carlo.

The actor's friends believe that he will remain in the United States for a long time and that he will not contest the divorce case unless heavy damages should be asked.

One view was that Lord Ashley is seeking only his freedom, under the English laws which make infidelity the only grounds for divorce, and that no damages will be asked.

AT 83 AND 68 THEY DECIDE TO GET MARRIED

Mrs. Frederick Bowman, 83 years old, and Oswald Tillis, 68 years old, both of Lovedale, a suburb of Aurora, went to Geneva, the county seat of Kane county, yesterday and got a license to marry.

Explaining their desire to wed, Mrs. Bowman said it was dictated by business reasons primarily.

"Oswald has worked for me and my late husband for thirty years," she asserted. "He was always a good farmhand. I have no heirs and when I die I want him to have my home and the land. As my husband he will be the legal heir."

When she was asked when the marriage would take place, Mrs. Bowman said she wasn't sure, that there was "plenty of time."

Mistakes His Wife for Burglar and Shoots Her

Takes Revenge for His Arson Arrest.

Joseph Levonian, one of five convicts who escaped from the McHenry county jail at Woodstock two weeks ago, made a sudden and dramatic appearance yesterday in the village of Bolon Mills, 13 miles northeast of Woodstock, and shot the man who had caused his incarceration and indictment.

The victim of the shooting is Charles Westlake, owner of a saloon and pool hall, a former business partner of Levonian. His right wrist was shattered by Levonian's shot.

Once Were Partners.

According to Sheriff Lester Edinger, Westlake and Levonian had jointly owned a saloon and pool hall, but separated after a dispute and established separate places. Levonian was arrested and indicted for setting fire to Westlake's place.

Early yesterday, while Westlake and a number of patrons were in his saloon, Levonian suddenly appeared at the back door, gun in hand.

"Now I've got you!" he cried, and opened fire.

Despite his shattered wrist, Westlake seized a revolver from behind the bar and returned the shots. Levonian, however, disappeared through the door apparently unhurt. In addition to the arson indictment, Levonian is indicted for aiding prisoners to escape, and an indictment charging assault to murder Westlake will be asked on Monday.

Recaptured Pair Sentenced.

John Enos and Henry Odenbreit, two other of the prisoners who escaped, but have since been recaptured, pleaded guilty to four charges of assisting prisoners to escape, when they were arraigned before Judge Edward D. Shurtleff yesterday.

Enos was sentenced to 1 to 5 years on each of the four counts and to pay total fines of $1,000. The sentences are to run consecutively, and to begin after he has completed a 1 year to life sentence for robbery, imposed Thursday by the judge.

Odenbreit was sentenced to 1 to 5 years on each of the counts, but his sentences are to run concurrently. He was sentenced Thursday to 1 to 14 years for forgery.

JONES PROMISES EARLY ACTION ON SCHOOL PAY LOAN

Washington, D. C., July 20.—[Special.]—Chairman Jesse Jones of the Reconstruction Finance corporation today assured Senator James Hamilton Lewis [Dem., Ill.] and Richard Folsom, Chicago school board attorney, that the RFC is ready to advance $26,500,000 to the Chicago board of education as soon as the adequacy of the board's security has been established.

Mr. Jones will leave for Chicago within the next week or ten days, it was said, to make a personal inspection of the property which the school board offers as collateral for the teachers' pay loan. This property includes the Municipal airport and the downtown block bounded by Madison, Monroe, State, and Dearborn, and is appraised by the school board at approximately 31 million dollars.

In addition to the real estate, according to Mr. Folsom, the school board is preparing to tender bonds in the amount of the loan as further collateral for the teachers' advance. Mr. Folsom and Senator Lewis both predicted that the collateral will be held ample by Mr. Jones and that the loan will be forthcoming in the near future.

ROOSEVELT GETS REPORTS ON HIS SOCIAL PROGRAM

ABOARD CRUISER NEW ORLEANS, accompany President Roosevelt, July 20.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today studied reports dealing with his social program as he cruised toward Hawaii on the cruiser Houston under a clear sky and smooth water.

He survey results of his 13,000 mile inspection trip, which has taken him already through the Panama canal after visits to Porto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

A flood of invitations has been coming from the Hawaiian Islands, and the President is eagerly looking forward to his five day visit, which will be concluded at Honolulu from next Thursday to Saturday.

Watching Pacific coast strike developments, President Roosevelt seemed pleased with progress made in negotiations and hopeful of an early settlement through his negotiators.

20 WITNESSES SUBPENAED IN RELIEF INQUIRY

Legislators Decide to Do the Summoning.

The committee of legislators investigating administration of state aid by the Illinois Emergency Relief commission has taken into its own hands the choosing of witnesses whose testimony it will hear. This became known last evening when it was learned that the committee has issued twenty subpenas directing employés and former employés of the commission to appear before it next week when it reconvenes.

The legislators acted secretly on Thursday evening after agreeing that their past method of hearing witnesses summoned by the relief officials or listening to groups of individuals on the relief rolls who had grievances but no evidence, was fruitless.

Serve Witnesses at Once.

The subpenas were placed in the hands of Harry Kirsch, sergeant at arms for the committee. Last evening more than 15 of the subpenas had been served, it was reported.

One of the first of these was served upon Attorney James A. Peterson, who resigned last February as counsel for the fraud investigation bureau of the relief commission. Attorney Peterson last evening said he was prepared to tell the legislators his theories concerning alleged mismanagement by commission officials, but he denied that he had concrete evidence to offer.

He denied that he had in his possession secret affidavits purporting to show that relief employés have been guests of large wholesale grocery concerns on liquor parties, or affidavits in which irregularities involving food orders were disclosed.

All Evidence Used.

"I have a few old statements which I used in prosecutions during the time I was working for the commission," Peterson said. "All those statements were used in convicting perpetrators of fraud. I know nothing about any more recent frauds."

Robert J. Dunham, head of the relief commission, said that Attorney Peterson while employed by the commission had been ordered to prosecute all cases of relief fraud. If secret affidavits exist, he added, Peterson should have used them in beginning new prosecutions instead of keeping them himself.

Reynolds Makes Statement.

Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the commission, made a similar statement when apprised of the committee's action in summoning Peterson as a witness.

Seven other subpenas, it was disclosed, were served on former employés in the mailing room of the relief headquarters, 1319 South Michigan avenue, who were discharged en masse after it was discovered that some of their number were forging and cashing work relief checks which passed through their hands. The legislators agreed to summon these witnesses after several of the men had asked to be allowed to testify, it was said.

Ex-Investigators Called.

Three other subpenas, it was reported, were served on James J. Stahl, Roy A. Ferris, and Miss Marie Prefer. Stahl and Ferris were investigators for the commission and Miss Prefer was a stenographer. All three were discharged recently after they appeared as defense witnesses for Louis Gillman, former relief clerk who was convicted of defrauding the commission of $2,727. There was reluctance to discharge them, but finally they were fired on direct orders from Mr. Dunham.

None of the members of the legislative committee could be reached in Chicago last evening, but it was reported that a number of relief department heads, working directly under the supervision of Mr. Dunham and Mr. Reynolds, had received subpenas.

STEGE'S PRISONER VANISHES; HE DEMANDS PROBE

Supervising Police Captain John Stege yesterday demanded an explanation of the disappearance of Arthur McGinnis from a cell in the Marquette police station Wednesday night. McGinnis, who is 38 years old and gave his address as 1015 North Clark street, was arrested Wednesday by Capt. Stege's Dillinger squad as a robbery suspect.

Capt. Stege then turned him over to the Marquette police, intending to question him further on Thursday. Policeman James Kirby, who was acting as substitute turnkey at the station, put McGinnis in a cell, using only the automatic tier lock instead of the separate lock on each cell. A few hours later Policeman Kirby discovered McGinnis was gone. The policeman said that either the door had not been slammed tightly enough or the prisoner had pried back the bolt.

HUGE WAVE HITS CONEY BATHERS; ONE IS MISSING

Coney Island, N. Y., July 20.—(AP)—A powerful six foot wave struck the crowded beach today, knocked over several hundred swimmers, and swept a score of them out into deep water on the undertow.

Frank Manghesi, 17, of New York, was reported missing.

A boy and a girl, carried out 200 feet, were rescued by Patrolmen Joseph Gonzales, who raced into the choppy sea in his uniform and swam out to haul them to safety.

Nine other patrolmen of the emergency squad also sprinted into the surf in their uniforms and brought to the beach fifteen other persons who had become helpless through fright.

Judgment Against Mother of Jack Oakie Given to Girl

Hollywood, Cal., July 20.—[Special.]—Ingeborg Hansen, 9 years old today received a jury award of a $10,000 judgement against Mrs. Evelyn Offield, mother of Jack Oakie, motion picture comedian. The judgment was awarded jointly against Mrs. Offield's chauffeur, Grant Wadsworth. The child was injured when struck by Mrs. Offield's automobile here last February.

Finding Heat Relief Is Play for These Children

100° SUN SEARS MIDWEST; LAKE HELPS CHICAGO

Forecast for Today Here Is Warm.

to Roberts. Small grain crops are a failure, he averred, pastures are fast becoming worthless, and live stock is suffering from lack of both feed and water.

The high temperature in Bismarck was 98. At Pierre, S. D., the all time heat record was broken today when the mercury crawled up to 113. The previous high of 112 was registered in 1931.

CRISIS IN NEBRASKA

Lincoln, Neb., July 20.—[Special.]—Terrific heat beat down again today upon Nebraska and intensified what has been described as "the most critical crop and live stock situation in the state's history."

The official temperature here was 110. It was the tenth successive day above 100, and since July 1 there have been seven days with maxima above 105. Omaha had a high of 110.

A. E. Anderson, state crop statistician, was pessimistic about the prospects for a corn crop. That planted late is so shriveled by the heat and insufficient moisture that much of it has been abandoned. It is figured that abundant rains must come soon if half a normal Nebraska crop is to be matured. The Burlington railroad has made a survey that indicated only one-third to one-half a crop.

The shortage of water for live stock and even for human consumption has become acute in many parts of the state. Falls City is practically without supplies since the Nemaha river dried up. The city is now pumping from a small lake and is making preparations, if this emergency water fails, to ship in tanks by railroad. Several other towns have placed restrictions on the use of water.

NEW MISSOURI MARK

St. Louis, Mo., July 20.—[Special.]—The all time heat record for St. Louis was broken with a mark of 109, degrees late this afternoon. It was still hotter in Mexico, Mo., where 114 degrees was registered.

Observers reported that the drouth in the state has passed beyond the critical stage into one of tragedy. The average rainfall in Missouri for the past two weeks has been less than 20 per cent of normal. Pastures are dried up. Water supplies are so low that a brisk business has been developed in hauling from the larger streams and selling by the tank.

Lean and hungry cattle are becoming a liability in the hands of owners unable to feed and water them. A large part of the early corn crop is lost, the tassels having been blighted by the torrid suns. Late corn is not yet lost, but rains must come if much of it is to be saved. Fruits and vegetables are in poor condition.

Today was the twenty-fourth of the summer on which the mercury has reached 100 or more in Kansas City. To show how unprecedented this is one needs only to consult the weather records of forty-five years. In twenty-two of these years there were no marks of 100 noted. In 1899 the maximum for the year was 92 and in 1906 it was 94. Until this year, 1901 was the hottest, with nineteen days above 100. Today was the ninth in succession with such heat.

KANSAS STREAMS DIE

Wichita, Kas., July 20.—[Special.]—Rivers and creeks in the central part of Kansas are drying up. The Big and Little Arkansas rivers are mere trickles, and Gooseberry and Jester creeks, usually carrying a strong flow of water, are mere strings of small pools. The Ninneschah and the Little Walnut rivers have ceased to flow.

The drouth has brought a new plague of jackrabbits. These animals, deprived by the drouth of their usual wild forage, have descended on and destroyed the corn and sugar beet fields along the Arkansas valley.

The usual heat prevailed in Kansas today. At Concordia the high was 108; at Dodge City, 104. Wichita's maximum was 104.

FEAR FOR IOWA CORN

Des Moines, Ia., July 20.—[Special.]—Today was the fifth day in a single week of temperatures above 100 in Iowa. The maximum here was 108. Ottumwa reported 110 and Keokuk 110.

In parts of the state which were favored with heavy rains recently, corn is growing at a tremendous rate. Continued heat, it is feared, will cause this corn to fire. The crop is poor in sections where rains have been light.

Two Die in New York.

New York, July 20.—[Special.]—Two deaths were attributed to the heat in New York today. The maximum temperature of 90 degrees was accompanied by high humidity. The official forecast is for more torrid weather tomorrow.

New High in Oklahoma.

Vinita, Okla., July 20.—[Special.]—The temperature soared to 113 here today, a new maximum for the summer. It was the thirty-first consecutive day here with a temperature above 100.

END VICE OR GET OUT, NEW ORLEANS HEADS TOLD BY GOVERNOR

Baton Rouge, La., July 20.—(AP)—Twenty-four hours after a conference with Senator Huey P. Long, Governor O. K. Allen today threatened city officials of New Orleans with prosecution and removal from office unless they acted to rid the city of gambling, vice and "other crimes."

The governor's warning went to Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley, Superintendent of Police George Reyer, and District Attorney Eugene Stanley.

The warning was made in a letter signed by Governor Allen and Attorney-General Gaston L. Porterie. Apparently it carried out Senator Long's earlier radio announcement that "something is going to be done about the cesspool of iniquity in New Orleans."

NEW ENGLANDERS ARE ALARMED BY DROUTH DANGERS

Boston, Mass., July 20.—(AP)—Shriveling crops and tinder-like forests in the six New England states today caused grave alarm to farmers and foresters as the drouth tightened its grip on the section. The weather bureau reported no rain of consequence was likely for three or four days.

Despite a let-down in the fires burning through the Cape Cod area, motor patrols reconnoitered the forest outskirts and woodland roads on sharp lookout for new blazes.

Heavy air and thick fog obscured visibility of vigilant towermen who could see only two and a half miles.

Scores of men fought conflagrations in New Hampshire where the forestry department said 60 fires had occurred this season, an unusually higher number.

A fire in Battell forest at Middlebury, Vt., brought out a crew of fire fighters yesterday. Another gang of men succeeded only today in controlling a fire at Lake Dunmore, Vt.

The thirsty ground of Connecticut has prevented farmers from planting fall crops and forced them to dig potatoes two or three weeks earlier. Rhode Island entered its twelfth day without rain with its farm products and pasture lands menaced.

LINCOLN PARK ZOO'S VISITORS TO BE COUNTED

For the first time in the history of the Lincoln park zoo a count of the attendance will be made Sunday, according to Robert J. Dunham, president of the new consolidated park board. Mr. Dunham has arranged with the Illinois relief commission, of which he is chairman, to provide fifteen workers to take a count of the visitors at all entrances.

Officials have estimated that between 150,000 and 200,000 persons visit the zoo buildings every Sunday. No actual count has ever been made of the attendance since the zoo first opened in 1868 with a pair of swans donated by Central park in New York, says L. G. Ross, who is preparing a history of the zoo at the direction of the park commissioners.

Cursory surveys in the past indicated that visitors from Chicago's west side outnumbered the north siders. As the crowds increased in size from year to year it was often found necessary to rearrange the buildings, which now cover 25 acres. Most of the family parties which come to the park on Sundays make at least one stop in the zoo, officials observed.

Former City Fireman Acquitted of Murder

John Kavanaugh, 31 years old, 1010 South Mayfield avenue, a former city fireman, was acquitted by a jury before Judge Walter P. Steffen last evening of killing John Seskas, owner of a tavern at 5001 Roosevelt road, Cicero, in August, 1929. The killing was the result of a dispute over a baseball game. Kavanaugh pleaded self decense. He was not arrested until last May.

DIES OF FALL INJURY.

DATA SHOW LAKE LOWERS CHICAGO HEAT 5 DEGREES

Weather Man Points to Other Cities.

Chicago has experienced plenty of heat during the last 48 hours, but in spite of a few hot days, Lake Michigan, over the period of a summer, keeps this city many degrees cooler than the greater part of the middle west, Weather Forecaster Charles A. Donnel pointed out yesterday.

"That 96 degree heat of Thursday was hot enough," Mr. Donnel said, "but a look at temperatures in the rest of the country on that day will give you some idea of what heat we might have had if the lake hadn't been here. We estimate that the lake lowers Chicago temperatures by 5 degrees."

On the day that Chicago had 96 degrees, Minneapolis, far up north, had 98; Kansas City, Mo., 108; Omaha, 110, and down in our own state Springfield sweltered at 100 degrees.

Cites Tuesday's Contrast.

Mr. Donnel then produced a chart showing the maximum temperatures of each day so far in July for Chicago and fourteen other selected cities throughout the middle west and invited comparison.

On July 17 the corn belt perspired in such temperatures as 104 degrees in Wichita, Kas.; 108 in Kansas City, Mo., and 88 in Minneapolis. At the same time Chicago's lake breezes kept this city comfortable at 74 to 76 degrees.

With the exception of Thursday, the hottest day Chicago has had in July was on the 2d, when the mercury hit 93. But, on the same day, Indianapolis had 94, Springfield had 98, Omaha had 100, Kansas City 104, and Wichita and Oklahoma City each 98.

Averages Show Facts.

Averaging up these daily maximum temperatures, Mr. Donnel discovered that Chicago's was the lowest of any of the cities tabulated—including points in Minnesota and the Dakotas.

The average here was 82.8 degrees. That, of course, is the average for maximum temperatures, not the average temperature, which would be much lower.

The others were Louisville, Ky., 89.8; Cincinnati, 90.9; Indianapolis, 89.2; Springfield, 93.1; Minneapolis, 85.2; Bismarck, N. D., 86.7; Huron, S. D., 88.8; Omaha, 96.9; Des Moines, 93.8; Kansas City, 101.5; St. Louis, 97.1; Wichita, 100, and Oklahoma City, 100.

Praises Tribune's Air Cooling.

Forecaster Donnel yesterday visited the Tribune Tower and praised the air cooling system. He was escorted by Holmes Onderdonk, manager of the building.

"It is delightfully cool in here," Mr. Donnel said. "It certainly is a pleasure to walk into an air cooled building from the outside."

TWO WHO SHOT WITNESS START TO U. S. PRISON

Edwin J. Cusack, a former policeman, and James J. McCarthy, a garage owner, who recently were sentenced to seven years in federal prison for intimidating a government witness in a hijacking case, left last night in the custody of United States deputy marshals for Leavenworth penitentiary. Ten other federal prisoners were included in the shipment.

After they complete their federal terms Cusack and McCarthy must serve a state sentence of 1 to 14 years for assault with attempt to kill in connection with the same case. The witness against them was John Joseph French 4903 Lake Park avenue, who was taken for a ride and shot by Cusack and McCarthy but lived to tell about it.

Also included in the shipment of prisoners was Samuel J. Somberg, formerly president of the Motor Parts corporation, 1617 South Michigan avenue, who was convicted of concealing $93,000 assets in bankruptcy. He will serve a five year sentence.

Four Men and a Woman Seize Truck of Butter

Charles Bretz of 3418 Lincoln avenue reported to Marquette police last night that four men and a woman had robbed him of his truck and its load of 150 tubs of butter, weighing 63 pounds a tub, and valued at $2,250. Bretz said he was stopped at Damen avenue and 18th street and forced into the hijackers' car. He was held for four hours, he said, while one of the gang disappeared with the truck, and was then released at May street and Carroll avenue.

FIRST STORY OF SCHOOL GUARD, BEATEN BY MOB

Tells How Hoodlums Had Still on Grounds.

John Gelbert, a watchman at the Adams branch of the Lane Technical High school, 849 Townsend street, who was beaten by a mob last week, yesterday made his first coherent statement on the attack from his bed in the County hospital.

Gelbert was blinded for four days by the blows of the mob and his left side is still paralyzed. For a time physicians feared for his life, but yesterday they predicted he would recover. Giuseppe Niscia, accused of leading the attack on Gelbert, is now free on $50 bond. He is to appear in the court of Municipal Judge Francis Borrelli on July 30.

Distillery on School Grounds.

In his statement yesterday, given to Dr. S. B. Conger, school board physician, Gelbert charged that hoodlums in the neighborhood of the school assaulted him because they feared his activities would interfere with the operation of a distillery and a disorderly house in the portable school buildings on the Adams branch grounds.

"On Friday, July 13, between 8 and 8:30 p. m., I was in the Adams branch of the Lane Technical High school when a crowd of about 200 people attacked me," Gelbert said. "I was hit on the head, back and face by baseball bats and stones. They carried me by my arms and legs over the desks in one of the rooms and dropped me to the floor.

Beaten in Street.

"When I ran out of the building they hit me and beat me in the street, breaking my glasses. They tore all my clothes off. I understand that I was brought to the County hospital in an unconscious condition.

"The reason I was attacked was that there had been several thefts in the school building recently by hoodlums and they thought that I was a detective. They were using the portable school buildings on the Adams branch grounds for a distillery and disorderly house."

Harry L. Yale, of the school board's legal staff, said that he is preparing more serious charges against Niscia, to be filed before his hearing.

John Howatt, school engineer in charge of grounds and buildings, said the portables at the Adams branch will be removed.

CRIMINAL COURTS.

John Novak, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary; Ray Smith, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Harry B. Miller.

William Rossner, automobile larceny, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary by Judge Walter P. Steffen.

John Bator, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary by Judge Michael Feinberg.

Harold Williams, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary; Frank Pratt, larceny, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell by Judge Walter P. Stanton.

William Massenberg, attempted burglary, sentenced to 1 to 5 years in the penitentiary by Judge Peter Schwaba.

Two real estate agents, who represented themselves as lawyers in dispossess actions brought by landlords, were ordered jailed yesterday by Municipal Judge Samuel Heller in the Renters' court. Both were charged with direct contempt of court. Prosecution was directed by the Chicago Bar association in its effort to clear the courts of such unauthorized practitioners.

The two sentenced are John J. Gburek, 2240 North Leavitt street, who was ordered to serve 20 days in the Bridewell, and Lee J. Degen, 5779 Milwaukee avenue, who was sentenced to 10 days in the county jail and fined $50.

Both had brought suit in the Municipal court on behalf of landlords seeking to eject tenants. Degen pleaded ignorance of the law and said he was merely trying to help Helena Bierand, 73 years old, owner of a building at 3715 North Troy street. Gburek asserted the legal papers were drawn up by the holder of the mortgage on the property he represented.

L. Duncan Lloyd, vice chairman of the committee on unauthorized practice of the bar association, showed that Gburek advertised as a "conveyancer," one who has the authority to draw up legal documents. Lloyd was aided in the prosecution by Attorney Andrew F. Kucharski, chairman of a similar committee of the Polish Bar association.

40,000 CHICAGO MILK BOTTLES FOUND IN IOWA

About 40,000 milk bottles belonging to Chicago distributors were discovered in Des Moines and other Iowa cities yesterday by A. G. Berndes, a Cook county deputy sheriff and an investigator for the Chicago milk dealers' bottle exchange.

Officials of the bottle exchange said the investigators were sent to Des Moines on a clew the missing bottles had been taken there by a trucking concern for a Des Moines junk dealer. They declined to give further details.

In Des Moines Deputy Sherif Berndes said the bottles bore the names of nearly 150 Chicago distributors. Their value is about 5 cents apiece, or $2,000.

Iowa Paper Bemoans Heat and Drouth—in 1894 Item

Monona, Ia., July 20.—[Special.]—How well off was Iowa forty years ago? Here is a report quoted in this week's Monona Leader from the files of that newspaper for July 19, 1894: "Hot! Well, we should remark! 106 in the shade at this writing. Vegetables of all kinds baked by the hot sun and for the want of moisture. Pastures are barren. Farmers are obliged to feed their stock. Corn and potatoes are dying from the effects of a long continued drouth."

ITALY EXPANDS

ROME, July 20.—(AP)—Italy's power in Africa will be substantially enhanced through land concessions it received today from England and Egypt and is said to be about to receive from France.

In addition to a piece of territory in the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan, well informed circles said today that an agreement has been reached whereby the French will cede the territory of Tibesti, in the Sahara desert, to Premier Mussolini's government.

The British and Egyptian gift was presented in an exchange of notes by Mussolini, Sir Eric Drummond the British ambassador, and Sadek Wahba Pasha, the Egyptian minister.

The territory adjoins and complements the Tibesti region, and like the latter gives Italy a control over part of the important caravan route to central Africa.

Although Tibesti is a desolate region which the natives call "Tu," meaning "rocks," for years it has been cherished by Italy as a complement to its Libyan possessions. It would bring Italy nearer Lake Chad and the commercial possibilities of that region. It has been traversed for centuries by camel caravans carrying principally ostrich feathers, ivory, and leather goods.

A heavy shipment of arms was sent recently to Bengasi in preparation for a military expedition ostensibly to occupy the interior of Libya, but also, probably, to enter the new Tibesti territory when France gives the word.

SKOKIE MURAL NO SECRET; BUT TRY TO GET A PEEP!

Red? Only Esthetic, Says School Artist.

The mystery about the 400 square foot mural being painted in the library of the Skokie Junior High school in Winnetka was only slightly lessened yesterday, despite the fact that the Winnetka school board and the Emergency Relief commission officials insisted there wasn't any mystery.

The painting, planned under the Public Works Art Projects administration, is now being executed under the relief commission which has suceeded the PWAP as an agency of the New Deal in aiding indigent artists.

A reporter who attempted to view the partially finished work was pushed promptly out of the library by alert attendants.

It was learned, however, that the artist is Raymond Breinan, who was once a student at the Art institute. He refused to discuss his painting, or tell what it depicted, other than to deny that it had anything of a socialistic or communistic nature.

Only the Esthetic View.

"Nobody has made any complaints like that," he said, "I am sure the Winnetka people regard this entirely from the esthetic viewpoint."

Assistant Principal S. R. Logan of the school said he had seen the preliminary sketches of the mural and judged that it represented the subjugation of machinery to the uses of mankind.

"There is also something in the background that seems to represent agriculture or something," he added. He said that several persons had seen the mural, and that some thought one thing, and some thought another, concerning its merits.

Tells When She Has To.

Mrs. Increase Robinson, former regional director of the PWAP, and now an official of the relief commission, indignantly refused to discuss the mural. Mrs. Robinson previously had refused to tell the name of the artist until Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the commission, ordered it.

Charles Randall, president of the school board, viewed the affair philosophically, and remarked that the painting would be done in two weeks.

"Then," he said, "we'll have a look at it and decide whether to keep it, or paint it out. We can always do that, you know."

FRENCH CABINET ASSAILS TARDIEU; DEMANDS HE QUIT

Move May Nip Crisis; Call Doumergue to Paris.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

PARIS, July 20.—Prospects appeared brighter tonight after a day of feverish political activity of saving the government of Premier Gaston Doumergue from a complete breakup over the row between Andre Tardieu, conservative minister without portfolio, and Camille Chautemps, leader of the Radical Socialists. Henri Cheron, minister of justice, has rushed off to Tournefeuille, presumably to bring Doumergue back to Paris.

The best informed opinion is that while a cabinet crisis is imminent it is not likely to produce anything more drastic than the forced resignaton of Tardieu, who precipitated the row by accusing the late Radical Socialist government, and Chautemps in particular, of having protected the late swindler, Serge Stavisky. Observers believe Doumergue will reorganize the government along the present lines without Tardieu.

Cabinet Cool to Tardieu.

As far as can be learned at the cabinet meeting today Tardieu met with virtually no support, even from the right wing members, so the expected battle between him and Edouard Herriot, also minister without portfolio and former Radical Socialist premier, did not occur.

The Radical Socialists, at a meeting of the party's executive committee, had persuaded Herriot to deliver an ultimatum announcing that either Tardieu must resign or he and other Radical Socialist members would. Instead of splitting the cabinet into two rival camps Herriot found that he had the whole company with him.

Virtually all the ministers agreed that Tardieu's attack on the Radical Socialists had rendered him ineligible to sit in a national union cabinet..

Tardieu Stands Pat.

Tardieu, as far as can be learned, refused to back down and apparently is not thinking of resigning—for the moment, at least. This is believed to be the reason why the cabinet decided to dispatch Cheron to Tournefeuille. It is expected that he will come back with Doumergue early next week, and that another cabinet meeting will probably be held Tuesday, at which the question of Tardieu's resignation will be thrashed out.

Political circles believe Tardieu will be forced out, thus preventing a general walkout of Radical Socialist ministers, which would be the end of the ministry.

The only other danger is that a section of the parliamentary right would withdraw support of the government if Tardieu were forced out. In view of the almost unanimous disapproval of his maneuver, however, it does not seem that his departure will necessarily split the government party.

300 LABORERS GO ON STRIKE UNDER BANK OF SPAIN

MADRID, July 20. — (AP) — Three hundred laborers went on strike today—under the bank of Spain.

Possibly influenced by thoughts of the amount of money above, they refuse to emerge from their subterranean workings until contractors give them double pay for working underground. The men are installing new American safes in strong rooms in an addition to the bank.

Hunger later induced about eighty of the strikers to come out of their subterranean retreat, but most of them remained in the workings. Some food had been smuggled past government guards at entrances. Other construction workers threatened to strike if the guards are not removed.

100 More Suits Filed to Collect Back Taxes

Continuing the drive to collect delinquent 1932 personal property taxes, Assistant State's Attorney James F. Ashenden yesterday filed in Circuit court the second batch of 100 suits seeking to collect $263,741 from delinquent taxpayers. Among those named in the suits were S. A. Maxwell & Co., Inc., 3636 Iron street, $12,870; Harris Brothers, 1349 West 35th street, $8,144, and the Mohawk Securities corporation, 105 Madison street, $11,440.

THERE'LL BE NO WAR, MUSSOLINI INFORMS BUENOS AIRES BISHOP

ROME, July 20.—(AP)—There will be no general European war in the near future, Premier Mussolini told Bishop Miguel D'Andrea of Buenos Aires today.

"I can affirm," Mussolini said, "there will be no war, at least for several years, because the world powers are making prevention of war their first thought.

"I can say that if war comes Italy will never be the first to bring it on. Italy cannot think of war, because she is too much engaged in a vast amount of public work and other national endeavors seeking the greatest good for her people."

"And if it comes," observed Bishop D'Andrea, "it is likely to be a terrific social upheaval, isn't it?"

"You struck the very center of my thought," said Il Duce. "It will bring absolute chaos. Therefore the responsibility of those who provoke war will be of the very gravest."

ECKENER CLAIMS CRUDE OIL MOTOR FOR ZEP SUCCESS

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, July 20.—Dr. Hugo Eckener, veteran Zeppelin commander, announced today that the crude oil motors to be installed in the new Zeppelin, IZ129, have proved a complete success and that the mammoth ship will be ready for its maiden flight in five or six months.

The successful performance of a model motor in a 300 hour test represents another major advance in aircraft development. Experiments have been made with crude oil for aviation purposes, but this is the first time such motors have survived a severe test. The new Zeppelin will be the first airship to enter regular service with crude oil motor equipment.

Dr. Eckener claims that by the use of crude oil the carrying capacity and speed of the ship can be increased and its initial weight decreased.

Hitler Worried by Economic Crisis; Acts.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, July 20.—Owing to a shortage of foreign currency and a consequent shortage in raw materials, Minister of Economics Kurt Schmitt today ordered the textile industry to introduce a 36-hour week. He also prohibited the establishment of new textile factories or the enlargement of existing plants. Schmitt is empowered to impose fines up to $4,000 on offenders without turning to the courts.

Many persons are attempting to buy imported woolen cloth to hoard. They fear the textile will not be available the coming winter because of Chancellor Hitler's growing insistence of self-sufficiency.

Crisis Worries Hitler.

The economic crisis occupied the attention of the chancellor and his advisers today. They are frankly worried, and are beginning to realize that out of the potato shortage, curtailed crops, limited exports and exchange restrictions may come the Nazi dictator's biggest problem.

Hoarding of foodstuffs already is apparent.

In order to curb hoarders the government has instructed newspapers to denounce the practice. Dealers, too, have been warned that punishment for price raising will be severe.

The weeks' long drouth also adds to the critical situation.

In an effort to prevent consumers' prices being raised, at least for the present, the government today introduced measures reminiscent of the prewar "cartel" system.

Rules Metal Industry.

An order designated the Wuppertal-Elberfeld Union of Industrialists in western Germany as the sole organization for the nation's metal industry. All producers must enter as members. The organization is under the direct control of the government.

A similar organization was set up for the rubber tire industry. This follows an earlier order that all waste rubber must be carefully conserved. Rubber is one commodity which Germany cannot produce in the raw.

Although the reich's economic condition is of paramount importance at the moment, considerable interest was manifested in today's visit of Foreign Minister Konstantin von Neurath with President Paul von Hindenburg on the diplomatic situation. Von Neurath flew to the president's summer retreat at Neudeck, East Prussia.

Excited Over Memel.

The Germans are especially excited about the alleged violation of the statutes controling the international city of Memel. They complain that Great Britain and other signatory powers of the Memel statutes have failed to compel Lithuania to respect the agreement they guaranteed. The Germans demand that wholesale dismissals of Germans from the government of Memel be retracted. They also are asking that Lithuania abandon her efforts to compel the citizens of Memel to speak the Lithuanian language.

The question of an eastern Locarno pact has been shelved by the German government despite the fact that the British ambassador, Sir Eric Phipps, urged the Germans to coöperate. The Nazi government feels that during the last 10 days the world powers have discovered the cloven hoof in the plans for the pact offered by Foreign Minister Louis Barthou of France. Consequently, the Nazis insist it is unnecessary for them to indulge in lengthy discussions on the subject.

Find Pastorates Vacant.

Although Reichsbishop Dr. Ludwig Mueller has informed Hitler that the reorganization and unification of the Protestant church is almost completed, the case of the province of Brandenburg seems to indicate that Dr. Mueller has failed in his mission.

Almost one-third of all the pastorates of this district, or 532 ecclesiastical posts, are vacant, presumably because of the wholesale dismissals of opposition pastors. A shortage of pastors is also experienced in the province of Brandenburg.

In order to comply with the law that divine service must be held in every church at least once in every fortnight, Bishop Mueller has empowered the Brandenburg church authorities to appoint laymen to officiate.

TRACTOR LEAVES TODAY TO PICK UP ADMIRAL BYRD

LITTLE AMERICA, Antarctica, July 20.—[Via Mackay Radio.]—(AP)—Arrangements were completed today in a radio conversation with Rear Admiral Byrd for a tractor with a crew of five men to leave tomorrow for the Bolling advance weather base where the admiral has spent four months in the world's southernmost meteorological station.

The tractor journey is for the purpose of bringing Admiral Byrd back to Little America and leaving two observers at the advance base in his place.

The observers are Carl O. Peterson, a veteran of the first Byrd expedition, and Bernard Fleming of New Zealand, a skilled radio operator, who also will assist in the meteorological work. The two men will be isolated until October, when the southern party is scheduled to pass the base on its way to the Queen Maud mountains.

The admiral remarked that he had a "bad arm," but did not say whether it was injured or was "bad" of some other cause.

Copies of London and Paris Papers Seized in Berlin

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, July 20.—Yesterday's edition of the London Times and the Times' weekly edition were confiscated from newspaper kiosks, cafés, and hotels in Berlin tonight. This was the first action of its kind in Berlin, although the London Times occasionally has fallen a victim to local zealots. The Temps of Paris also was confiscated. No information regarding the reason of this action could be obtained in official quarters.

RESTORE THRONE IN AUSTRIA, PLEA OF MONARCHISTS

Dollfuss Is Urged to Act Speedily.

VIENNA, July 20.—(AP)—In the midst of bombings and other forms of terrorism, monarchists today published a strong appeal to Chancellor Dollfuss for quick restoration of the monarchy.

The appeal was published by the Staatswehr, organ of one wing of the monarchist movement, but the fact that it was circulated in Austria at all was regarded as highly significant.

The text of the document, which recently was submitted to Dollfuss, charged that a "camirilla" of high officials around the chancellor as sabotaging all his efforts to build up the country and that the economic plight of the country is "worse than in 1918."

Blast Wrecks Power Plant.

The monarchist charges came as opponents of the government—Nazis or Socialists, or both—were demonstrating again and more powerfully that they are not to be suppressed by threats of the hangman.

The dynamiters used a larger quantity of explosive than ordinarily and wrecked the electric power plant at Reuite in the Tyrol, paralyzing industry over a wide area.

Several Nazis were arrested on charges of possessing explosive, a capital offense.

In the midst of all this trouble police were given a new duty—examining men's stockings—after a report went out that Nazis had adopted white golf hose as a secret emblem. Numerous persons were taken into custody and those who proved they were not Nazis were released with a warning to wear hose of another color.

Hitler-Duce Pact Collapses.

ROME, July 20.—(AP)—The Hitler-Mussolini informal agreement that tranquility should be restored to Austria on the basis of complete independence was semi-officially admitted tonight to have collopsed.

Outward evidence of the present state of affairs was an editorial in the authoritative Giornale d'Italia stating that relations between Italy and Germany are becoming increasingly difficult, because "Germany still backs terroristic activities."

The editorial calls on Germany to "return to reason."

"It is now evident that Germany is still on the ground floor in Austrian terrorism," said the newspaper. "Does the German government participate in this action? If it does, does it not perceive its responsibility in the face of all Europe?

"If it does not, does it not perceive its inadequacy as an international authority, which shows it does not know how to stop a movement that is no longer an episode and has been denounced by all the civilized world?"

GIRL APPEALS UPSET IN $15,000 LOVE VERDICT

EDMONTON, Alta., July 20.—(AP)—A notice of an appeal from the decision of Justice W. C. Ives in the civil action brought against J. E. Brownlee, former premier of Alberta, by Miss Vivian MacMillan and her father was filed here today.

Miss MacMillan, Brownlee's former stenographer, and her father sought damages from the premier on a charge that the girl had been seduced by him. A jury awarded them $15,000, but the verdict was set aside by Justice Ives. He refused to enter the jury's verdict.

The appeal is being taken in the Appellate division of the Supreme court of Alberta.

Brownlee resigned the premiership after the finding of the jury in the civil court.

Japan Jails Ex-Cabinet Member in FinanceScandal

TOKIO, July 21.—[Saturday.]—(AP)—Baron Kumakichi Nakajima, former minister of commerce and industry, was placed in jail today in connection with a deal in shares of the Imperial Rayon company. The baron's arrest was an echo of the recent scandal in the ministry of finance which caused the downfall of the Saito cabinet. Last February Baron Kumakichi was ousted as commerce minister ostensibly because he indorsed, in an article years previously, a coup d'etat which took place 600 years ago.

Builds Nest in Yard

Wild life comes right up to the front doors in Rogers Park.

In a flower bed in front of an apartment building at 1135 Lunt avenue a mother rabbit dug a nest some time ago. Three days ago residents of the building, going to view the flowers, discovered that two little rabbits with their eyes just opened occupied the nest.

No effort was made to interfere with their presence. Mrs. Revell Scott, who lives in the building, said that presumably the mother of the infants feeds them at night. The mother has not been seen by the residents of the neighborhood.

Court Hears Story of His Widow.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 20.—Arnold Bennett's gifts to the woman who lived with him, and of whose baby girl he is the father, were described today when the hearing on the lawsuit brought by Mrs. Marie Marguerite Bennett, widow of the famous novelist and playwright, to recover part of his $122,000 estate was resumed before Justice Sir Charles Clauson in the chancery division of the high court.

MRS. ARNOLD BENNETT.

It was said that the gifts, consisting of securities and copyrights on certain plays and manuscripts, valued altogether at $95,000, had been made to Dorothy Cheston Bennett, the woman in question. Frank Swinnerton, well known author and critic, and Alastaire Norwich Tayler were named as co-defendants in the suit.

Child Involved in Action.

The child, Virginia Mary, is also affected by the case, but during today's hearing counsel for the widow intimated that she will not proceed with that part of the action, as she does not wish in any way to disturb any enjoyments which the child might have.

Justice Clauson, expressing approval, dismissed that part of the action. He said it could never be raised again.

Mrs. Bennett, the widow, asked for a ruling that gifts made by her husband to Miss Cheston Bennett be declared void. She contended that under a deed of separation she is entitled to about two-thirds of her late husband's estate, and that he had no legal right to make the gifts.

Dismisses Part of Claim.

The widow sued Tayler as sole executor and trustee of the will, and Swinnerton as trustee under a voluntary settlement made by Miss Cheston Bennett in October, 1927.

Only two witnesses were called at today's hearing—one for each side.

Announcing judgment, Justice Clauson dismissed the widow's action in respect to a claim to securities, stayed all proceedings against Swinnerton, but granted a declaration that the property comprised in deeds of gift formed part of the testator's estate at the time of death.

U. S. Turning in Favor of Prohibition, W.C.T.U. Told

STOCKHOLM, July 20.—(AP)—Mrs. Ella A. Boole of Evanston, Ill., told the opening session of the world's women's temperance union congress today that the general opinion in the United States now is turning in favor of prohibition. Mrs. Boole, presiding over the 1,100 delegates, said drunkenness, rum-running and bootlegging was flourishing in America today. Crown Prince Gustav Adolf and Premier Hansson were guests of honor at the session.

Tipsy Autoists Warned in Judicial Rebuke.

Municipal Judge Edward S. Scheffler announced yesterday, in the new Safety court, that taxicab drivers who operate their machines while intoxicated can expect no mercy in his court. Suiting action to word, he fined Floyd Marshall, 35 years old, 4307 Lincoln avenue, a Yellow cab chauffeur, $100 and sentenced him to 30 days in the county jail after the defendant pleaded guilty to a charge of drunken driving.

"I want this to be a lesson to all taxicab drivers," said the judge as he pronounced sentence. "I've had representatives of taxicab companies and taxi drivers themselves ask me to be especially severe on chauffeurs who drink while they are on duty."

Crashes Into Squad Car.

Marshall, who less than a week ago had appeared in the Safety court charged with speeding, was arrested Thursday after his cab crashed into a police squad car in front of 1830 Irving Park boulevard. Policeman Joseph Lishamer and Glen Martin, who were in the squad car, appeared in court.

"Both cars stopped after the accident," explained Policeman Lishamer. "I jumped out of our car and walked over to the cab and I found this man sound asleep. At that moment the cab was on the street car tracks, exactly in the center of the thoroughfare."

"I awakened him, and when he tried to drive his car to the curb he managed to strike the squad car once more. He talked incoherently and he staggered. I'd say that he was drunk."

"What do you say about this?" asked the judge, turning to Marshall. "Had you had anything to drink?"

"Your honor, I wasn't drunk. I'd had only five or ten beers," Marshall replied.

"How big were the beers?" asked the judge.

"They were 26 ounce steins," admitted Marshall.

Worse than a Gun.

"That makes all the difference in the world," said the judge. "A drunken man with an automobile is a worse menace than a man with a gun. A bullet has a good chance of being harmless, but an intoxicated man with a big machine like an automobile can hardly help injuring some one or some one's property.

"I want your sentence to be an example to all taxicab chauffeurs."

Condition Still Serious.

The unconscious man is Peter Speaker, 26 years old, 3425 North Ashland avenue. Physicians said that his condition was critical.

Police yesterday informed Judge Scheffler that if Speaker dies the charges against Berntsen will be changed to manslaughter. The other two who were injured by Berntsen's automobile were Carl Johnson, 31 years old, 1829 Farragut avenue; and Joseph Fribeis, 44 years old, 2016 North Leavitt street. Berntsen is now at liberty on a $100 bond.

Saar Documents Stolen; Nab German in Spy Hunt

SAARBRUECKEN, Saar Territory, July 20.—(AP)—Fears that spies are operating extensively in the Saar basin spread throughout the region today after it was revealed that numerous documents have been stolen from the Saar commission. A German citizen named Schaffer was arrested, police saying many documents were found at his home. A Saar policeman also was arrested, and headquarters of the German front organization were searched. Twenty daily newspapers in the territory were suspended for three days by the commission under the public security law.

Ernst Udet Saves Self with Chute in Air Crash

BERLIN, July 20.—(AP)—Ernst Udet, the German air racer, escaped death for the second time in two weeks today by making a parachute descent from a plane over Templehof airport. Udet's machine, a new American double winged sport's plane, suddenly lost power at an altitude of about 3,000 feet. He jumped from 2,400 feet. The plane crashed on the field and was completely destroyed.

FIND DIXMOOR'S ARRESTS STAGED ON HARVEY SOIL

Prosecution and Suits Face Mayor Special.

Mayor Charlie Special of Dixmoor, whose village police specialize in arresting motorists passing through his town, may face civil if not criminal prosecution unless he surrenders the revenue from many of the fines collected. It was discovered yesterday that an obscure state highway department stop sign at Western avenue and 147th street, where many of these arrests have been made, is not in the village of Dixmoor but is 18 inches inside the boundaries of the city of Harvey.

Mayor Frank Bruggeman of Harvey promptly announced that he will do all in his power to recover these fines from Dixmoor, which used to be called Specialville, and to return the money to the victimized motorists. Wilbert Crowley, first assistant state's attorney, said the prosecutor's office will coöperate with the Harvey mayor.

Proof that the stop sign is not in Dixmoor was established by Raymond Robinson, assistant engineer of Harvey.

Use of Fines Specified.

"The motor vehicle code," said Joseph H. Braun, general counsel for the Chicago Motor club, which has been probing or prodding Mayor Special as a speed trap operator since 1925, "specifically provides that fines collected for traffic violations within a municipality shall be turned over to the treasurer of that municipality for the improvement of streets and roads.

"If the Dixmoor police made arrests for violations at a stop sign in Harvey, the fines are the property of Harvey and not of Dixmoor. The village of Dixmoor and its officials may be sued for a recovery. Or, if the officials decline to surrender the money, they might be indicted for misappropriation of public funds."

Mayor Special was asked for a statement. His reply was that the state's attorney's office had nothing against him and that the less he saw of newspaper men the better it would please him.

Ordered to Bring Records.

Capt. Daniel Gilbert, chief investigator for the state's attorney, has ordered Special, his chief of police and their favored justice of the peace to appear at the Criminal court building this morning with their records of arrests and fines.

The favored justice of the peace is not the Dixmoor magistrate, Charles Rajsl. He was boycotted by Mayor Special two summers ago after refusing to support the Dixmoor police during a Chicago Motor club speed trap investigation. Justice Rajsl is now on the relief rolls and Mayor Special is sending his traffic cases and the fees for convictions to Justice of the Peace F. Ralph Grazadzinski of Posen, a neighboring village.

State's Attorney Courtney opened the present investigation after THE TRIBUNE published a letter from J. C. Carlin of Racine, Pa., reporting his arrest and $5 fine while driving to Chicago for the World's Fair. Mr. Courtney has directed Capt. Gilbert to look into the activities of all the villages that skirt Chicago to see that visitors to A Century of Progress are not molested.

In the meantime the state highway department has been asked to remove the troublesome stop sign. It halts the heavy flow of north and south bound traffic in Western avenue for the benefit of the comparatively light flow in 147th street.

Ask Permit to Run Buses Through Stockyards Area

The Chicago Rapid Transit company has filed with the Illinois commerce commission at Springfield a petition for authority to operate buses between the intersection of Halsted and Root streets and the intersection of Gross avenue, Exchange avenue, Laflin and 46th streets, according to an announcement yesterday.

[Acme Photo.]

PARIS, July 20.—(AP)—Men high in the nation's official life attended the wedding yesterday of Mlle. Marie Leon Van Houtte, "France's Edith Cavell," to Andre Rieder, a writer.

Gen. Maxime Weygand, head of the French army; former Premier Andre Tardieu and Gen. Henri Gouraud were at the ceremony.

Mlle. Van Houtte was cut off behind the lines in 1914 by the German invasion. She aided many allied soldiers to get back to their own forces by driving wagon loads of hay, under which they were secreted, into Holland.

She was arrested in Brussels as a spy and sentenced to death, but by the intervention of the Spanish consul her sentence was modified to life imprisonment.

At the end of the war she was released and France awarded her the Croix de Guerre and a knighthood in the Legion of Honor.

YOUTH, 19, GETS TWO YEARS FOR AUTO TAMPERING

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Automobiles stolen, 30; recovered, 28; stripped, 1 [from police records for 24 hours ended at midnight Thursday].

Roland Hughes, 19 years old, 2104 Lincoln avenue, appeared in the Automobile Theft court yesterday for the second time in three weeks and was sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell and fined $200 on each of two charges. Judge Joseph A. Graber ordered the Bridewell terms to run consecutively. Hughes was accused of tampering with the automobile of Fred Bauer Jr. of Memphis, Tenn., who is honeymooning at the World's Fair with his bride, and of stealing Mrs. Bauer's wedding ring, engagement ring, and wrist watch from the car while they were swimming. Hughes was arrested when he attempted to dispose of the jewelry in his neighborhood.

Three weeks ago Judge Graber placed Hughes on probation on a similar charge of tampering.

Germany Refuses C. O. D. Parcel Post from U. S.

Postmaster Ernest J. Krueigen received yesterday an order from the postoffice department in Washington saying that postal authorities of the German government have refused to accept C. O. D. parcel post packages sent from this country until further notice. No reason for the action of Germany was stated in the order.

Drive Launched in Suburbs Against Noise Making Autos

BY HAL FOUST.

At dawn yesterday four sweaty, mosquito bitten state highway policemen ended a night's activity in Roosevelt road in the first offensive of a campaign against the rumble, thunder, and clatter of motor traffic that is disturbing urban and suburban residents within a half mile of an automobile thoroughfare.

The squad, under Sergt. Charles A. Stanton, selected Glen Ellyn as the scene for the first battle against avoidable traffic noises because Howard J. Rowe, chief of the village police, has received numerous complaints of booming engine exhausts and grinding gears in Roosevelt road.

Many Unnecessary Noises.

The squad began its vigil at 10:30 in the evening, an hour when farmers and suburbanites are courting slumber. On this hot, humid night there was a steady stream of pleasure drivers with a hum of tire impact, pop of engines, and tap of valves, a cacophony as restful to the nerves as the buzz of a dentist's drill.

There were many old automobiles, evidently with leaking gaskets, burned exhaust pipes, or trick mufflers contributing more than their share to this nuisance melody, but they were within the law. Typical of these was a sedan with license 73-343. The driver, Meyer Rudman, 4501 North Central Park avenue, said he purchased his ineffectual muffler because the stock equipment had burst. He was told to have a mechanic quiet his exhaust.

Machine Gun Clatter.

About 11 o'clock a distant bang-bang-bang reverberating through the neighborhood announced the approach of a truck. As it came closer the noise was like machine gun fire. The freighter, loaded with hogs, was halted. The driver was given a summons to appear before Justice of the Peace Joseph Wagoner in Glen Ellyn Wednesday afternoon for operating a vehicle without a muffler. The license number and owner were Ill. 7399-D, William Gueffory, Dixon, Ill.

Several other noisy trucks approached with heavy roars. Many clashed transmissions and thundered in low gear at 3 or 4 miles an hour climbing the slight grade of Baker's hill in Roosevelt road in Glen Ellyn. Their power plants were too small to carry their loads at a speed consistent with safety on an express highway.

Drivers Given Warning.

Drivers were warned that they must quiet their vehicles, that a mere pretense of a muffler was not sufficient to comply with the law. A Keeshin Motor Express company truck, license Ill. 10-36X, was about as loud as the vehicles with smooth exhaust pipes. It had a four inch exhaust pipe pinched on the end and with holes punched in the side. The driver was given a ticket to appear before the Glen Ellyn justice of peace.

The moon had set and the morning star was bright as a high pitched hum, increasing in intensity, rose above the other traffic noises of the night. A shiny truck whizzed by headed for Chicago. It was overtaken by the police and halted.

Find Tires Are Cause.

"It's the tires on this new truck," said the driver, L. J. Deets of Emerson, Ill., carrying sweet corn to market. "I don't blame folks for kicking about the noise but what can I do about it when this is the way the truck was sold?"

The tire tread included a small cross bar in the grooves between ribs. Engineers in Detroit a week ago said that such cross bars trap currents of air and that these pockets act like tiny base drums. After a word from the police advising him to keep to the right of the pavement, Deets was told to proceed with his load.

Even Buses Offend.

About 3 a. m. Sergt. Stanton and this reporter drove to Geneva and St. Charles for coffee. Two buses boomed into the sleeping Fox valley towns. They were especially noisy when accelerating through the gears. An inspection, by crawling under one of them with a flashlight, showed they had something with the external appearance of a muffler on the exhaust pipes, but it was obvious that the mechanism was inadequate. The buses belonged to the North Western Stages.

Later, back in Roosevelt road at Glen Ellyn, a cattle truck approached firing like a machine gun, an apt simile that bears repetition. It was loaded with cattle and carried Iowa license 10-266 and the name May Brothers, Josur, Ia.

Iowa Truck Warned.

"We took off the muffler," said the driver, "because spark plugs were burning from the back pressure."

"Don't come into Illinois again without a muffler," Sergt. Stanton warned. "We're going to continue this campaign," the sergeant said after the truck had proceeded, "until folk along the busy highways around Chicago can get some sleep. Advise owners of noisy trucks that they are subject to arrest."

REPORT 5 NAMED BY GRAND JURORS IN OIL TAX CASE

True bills charging five men with conspiracy to evade the state gasoline tax law were reported yesterday by the grand jury. Four of the men already are under indictment. All were concerned with the management of the Active Oil company, 3711 South California avenue, which allegedly failed to pay a $50,000 gasoline tax for the period from March to June of 1933. The company went into receivership June 21, 1933.

Those reported named in the true bills yesterday are Max and Al Johnson, brothers, David and Alvin Block, brothers, and Frank Geller. The Johnsons and Blocks already are under indictment. Separate indictments were voted during the last several months. The true bills reported yesterday supersede the others.

N. Y. BAR URGES NEW REFORMS IN CRIMINAL TRIALS

Seeks to Improve Law's Administration.

New York, July 20.—[Special.]—A series of recommendations for reform and improvement of the administration of criminal law in the United States was contained in a report, made public today, of the committee on criminal courts of the New York County Lawyers' association.

One of the proposed reforms suggested that courts employ a more vigorous use of the power to punish for contempt newspapers which print crime stories of a "lurid or sensational nature" which tend to create an atmosphere of prejudice. "Vigorous use of this inherent authority," the report suggested, "will render unnecessary administrative censorship."

To Be Offered to U. S. Bar.

The report was described by Terence J. McManus, secretary of the Lawyers' association as being largely the work of George Sylvester, one of the members of the committee. The chairman was Irving I. Goldsmith. Other members included George Z. Medalie, former United States district attorney; Jacob Gould Schurman Jr., and Louis Waldman. The report will be offered at the national meeting of the American Bar association on Aug. 27, as a basis on which to consider criminal law reforms.

The report suggests that the right of a defendant to waive trial by jury be established, and approves the establishment of a "less than unanimous" jury verdict. Both are offered as aids in clearing congested court calendars.

Would Have Judge Pick Jurors.

The report approves proposals that jurors be selected by judges, with counsel given the right to suggest or take part in the interrogation of the jurors. It also approved proposals that the Appellate courts be given authority to modify a judgment where a lesser crime than that charged has been proven. This would mean that, if in the court of a trial for first degree murder a second degree murder case were clearly established, the Appellate division could alter the charge to second degree murder rather than order a new trial.

The committee recommended that proposals to permit waiver of indictment be approved, and that grand jury activities be limited to the more serious crimes also be approved, but disapproved suggestions that prosecutors be given the right to choose whether they would proceed in a case by indictment or information, or that grand juries be abolished.

Would Aid Prosecutor.

The committee recommended that privilege against self-incrimination be abolished, which would make it possible for a prosecutor to examine a defendant and check his story closely.

Also approved was the proposal, made many times in the past, that the laws on trial procedure be changed so that a witness who changed his story from one previously told could be impeached by the party calling him. In order to cope with perjury the committee suggested the creation of a crime of "false swearing," making it punishable with lesser jail sentences than now in the code, and removing the provision that the perjury must be on a material point in the case at issue.

The shotgun slaying of Harry J. Hutchings, 29 years old, Gary beer salesman and alleged whisky dealer, was chalked up yesterday by Gary police as the eleventh slaying in the illicit liquor trade in northern Indiana since Jan. 1. Identity of the killers remained a mystery.

Hutchings was shot to death early in the morning in the home of L. B. Clayton, chief deputy sherif of Lake county and Democratic candidate for mayor of Gary, at 3685 Pennsylvania avenue. The assassins fired through a window of the Clayton home, where Hutchings resided.

Police working on the case declared they had a clew as to the identity of the two slayers and the motive of the murder, but declined to tell its nature.

According to police, before Hutchings became a salesman for the Gary Beverage company several months ago, he had been selling whisky which was not covered by a state license, and it was rumored he continued in that business on the side.

COOK COUNTY CONVICT FLEES JOLIET PRISON

William C. Dale, 28 years old, committed to Joliet penitentiary in 1930 for robbery in Cook county, escaped yesterday from the diagnostic center of the prison, where he had been working as a painter during the redecoration of the building.

The center is in the old women's prison, just across the road from the old prison in Joliet. Dale was working on the second floor, and seized an opportunity to clamber to the roof through a trapdoor.

There he fashioned a rope out of bed sheets and cord from the sashweights of windows. It broke as he was about half way down, but he was apparently unhurt and fled on foot. A search started at once, but it is believed that Dale fled in the automobile of an accomplice waiting for him.

Boy, 13, Drowns Swimming in an Old Quarry Pool

Marden Beardsley, 13 years old, of 130 North Washington street, Westmont, in Du Page county, was drowned yesterday while swimming in a pool in an abandoned quarry at Archer and 127th street, in Lemont township. The body was taken from the pool by William Kueffer, 19 years old, of 4516 Elm street, Downers Grove, who summoned the Willow Springs highway police.

SLUG AND ROB MERCHANT.

Three men stepped out of an automobile at Ravenswood avenue and Melrose street yesterday, struck Louis Guelsi on the head with a gun butt and took $311 which he had just withdrawn from a bank to take to his confectionery store at 2762 Belmont avenue.

UNION IS WARNED TO END STRIKE AT FRENCH CASINO

State's Attorney Office Threatens Action.

Union officers were warned yesterday by Capt. Daniel Gilbert, chief investigator for State's Attorney Courtney, that unless steps are taken soon to settle the strike which has closed the French Casino, night club, the state's attorney's office will take action.

The Casino, at Clark street and Lawrence avenue, has as its featured entertainers a group of girls from the Folies Bergeres, in Paris. It was closed Tuesday night when a score of union representatives of cooks and waiters entered and called an immediate strike.

Police Hold 4-Hour Conference.

As a result of a complaint by Jack Huff, manager and part owner of the place, Capt. Gilbert called the union officials to his office yesterday. He held a four hour conference, during which the voices of the participants grew loud at times.

Leaders of the union group present were Max Caldwell, president of the waiters' union; Meyar Adelman, president of the cooks' union; Micual Garrido, president of the pastry cooks' union; John Ryan, president of the bartenders' union; George Swinehart, president of the miscellaneous hotel and restaurant employes' union, and George McLean of Cincinnati, international vice president of the bartenders, waiters, and hotel employes' union.

Food and Pay Cause.

Capt. Gilbert asked what complaints the unions had against the Casino, which was fully unionized. The bartenders, he was told, objected to the food served them, and Caldwell asserted the waiters should be getting $2 a day, instead of $1. Huff said he had received such a demand from Caldwell a week before the strike, but that no strike threat was coupled with it.

The principal owner of the Casino is said to be Jules C. Stein, who, with his brother, W. H. Stein, controls the Music Corporation of America, which books many of the leading dance bands in the country. The musicians at the Casino, incidentally, did not strike. Capt. Gilbert asked concerning a feud between the waiters' and musicians' unions, and received some vague replies, he said later, concerning trouble over musicians at the Edgewater Beach hotel.

Musicians' Action Alleged.

There have been reports that the strike at the Casino was called in an effort to force Stein to interceded with James C. Petrillo, head of the musicians' union, and ask him to call a musicians' strike at the hotel in sympathy with the waiters, who have been striking there for a year. Petrillo, however, is in Europe at present.

"The state's attorney is opposed to unjustified strikes," said Capt. Gilbert at the close of the conference, "and so far as I can see, there is no justification for this one. If it persists, the state's attorney's office will step in."

Following that warning union officials and representatives of the club talked over terms of a settlement. Late in the evening it was announced they could not agree and the state's attorney would be asked to take further action today.

50 BURGLARIES TOP YOUTH'S 4 YEARS OF CRIME

Joseph Plachno, 17 years old, of 1410 North Campbell avenue, whose four year career of crime has included two escapes from the St. Charles School for Boys, was in custody of West North avenue police last night and is reported to have confessed 50 burglaries.

He was arrested shortly after he had robbed the flat of Martin Sexton, 1645 North Artesian avenue. Later he admitted burglaries in the homes of Mrs. Anna Boyle at the same address and Peter Drucinski, 1654 North Artesian avenue, as well as a number of others.

Police also said Plachno had revealed the names of two "fences," to whom he sold the stolen goods. He will be held for the police showup and booked for the Boys' court.

EVANSTON MAN IS ARRESTED ON BIGAMY CHARGE

Otto Komm, 51 years old, 1909 Lincoln street, Evanston, was arrested last night and locked up in the Evanston police station on charges of bigamy and adultery.

One complainant was Mrs. Anna Knodel Komm, to whom he was married about a year ago. She was the widow of Ernest Komm and possessed of considerable property, which Komm has been administering. The bigamy charge was brought by her.

Mrs. Eva Krumm, 4533 Dover street, was another complainant. She averred that Komm, formerly known as Krumm, had deserted her and that there had been no divorce. Bonds of $5,000 were fixed on each charge and Komm, unable to furnish the amount, was held.

FAIR WELCOMES LIONS CLUB AND MEXICANS TODAY

Dedication and Military Ceremonies Planned.

BY EARL MULLIN.

Mexico will be honored at the World's Fair today in a program of music, speeches, and diplomatic ceremonies. While much of the ceremony will deal with the good will between the United States and Mexico, the only country touching continental United States in which a foreign tongue is spoken, the events of the day have a decided economic significance.

Chairman of the day is Edward Eagle Brown, president of the First National bank. Among the honor guests will be twenty-six representatives of Mexican industries. Visiting Mexican officials will include Louis Lupian, inspector general of consulates; Rafael de la Colina, consul general at San Antonio, and Enrique D. Ruiz, consul general at New York.

Merged with the Mexican day celebration will be observance of Lions day. Many of the Mexican envoys represent the Lions club in Mexico City.

Get Escort to Grounds.

Ceremonies will start this morning when the Mexican visitors arrive and go to headquarters of the Lions International at 332 South Michigan boulevard. There they will join city, state, and Fair dignitaries and be escorted to the Court of Honor at the 14th street entrance.

Representatives of the Mexican government will dedicate a world clock on arrival at the Fair in the International Business Machine exhibit in the General Exhibits building. The clock tells the time of day in any section of the globe.

A formal luncheon will be held at 12:30 p. m. in the Mexican village. President Dawes of the Fair will welcome the visitors, and speeches will be made by Mr. Brown, Lieut. Gov. T. F. Donovan, Maj. Gen Preston Brown and Rear Admiral Wat. T. Cluverius. Senator James Hamilton Lewis will represent the American government. The Mexican Tipica Police band will play during lunch.

Mexicans to Join Lions.

At 3 p. m. the Mexicans will attend the program of the Lions club in the Court of States. The Tipica police band will participate in this program, but will give its first official concert at 8 p. m. At 6 p. m. the party will dedicate the official governmental exhibit in the Mexican Village.

The visit of the Lions club members was made possible by the closing one day early of the international convention in Grand Rapids. Vincent C. Haskell of Omaha, newly elected president, will be in charge of the day's events.

With more than a thousand Lions' club members and the diplomatic ceremonies of Mexican day as a lure to Fair goers, officials are hopeful of setting a new Saturday record. Many business leaders of Chicago have signified their intention of attending the Mexican ceremonies.

Florida day celebrations yesterday failed to draw as many visitors as Indiana day, Thursday. The official reading was 59,189 at midnight.

Honor Florida Governor.

Gov. Dave Sholtz of Florida was the guest of honor. Following an official 19 gun salute and a reception by the Black Horse troop and soldiers, sailors and marines from Camp Roosevelt Gov. Sholtz smilingly discussed economics with reporters.

"Why shouldn't I be happy?" he said. "Florida is in great financial shape. It has balanced its budget and has paid all current bills. State taxes are being cut 15 per cent. Wouldn't that make any governor happy?".

After presenting the Florida exhibit and tropical gardens to the Fair, the official party made a tour of the grounds as guests of Mr. Dawes. The governor was particularly interested in the radio auditions sponsored by newspaper row in the Hall of Science. Two girls from the Florida exhibit are entered in the contest. An official reception was held at 4 p. m. in the Florida tropical home.

World's Fair Notes

Dr. Edgardo Simone, professor of sculpture in the Royal Academy of Art in Naples, will give free lectures and demonstrations in sculpture every Tuesday and Friday from 4 to 5 p. m. at the Horticultural building.

To feed the sixty-seven horses, seven mules, two goats, four oxen, and one pony, and otherwise partially supply material for a week's showing of the Wings of a Century, a shipment of eight tons of hay, sixty bushels of oats, two rolls of tar paper, and five thousand blank cartridges are needed. The tar paper, incidentally, supplies the dark clouds of smoke which emerge from the stacks of the steamships used in the drama.

The Daughters of '93 will drill in Merrie England tomorrow at 5:20 p. m. They are the daughters of Spanish-American war veterans and range in age from 17 to 24 years.

Several hundred girls and boys from Wilmington, Del., winners of the Wilmington World's Fair educational tour contest, will arrive July 24.

Beauty queens of the Fair next week will make a good will tour of the central states. Governors of 11 states and mayors of 100 cities will be invited to attend the Fair. The queens are Patricia Marquain, representing the Exposition; Dorothy Lefold, Wilson Packing company exhibit, and Kay Griffith, representing the Firestone exhibit.

And now the men have their "beauty kings." Selected after a long and heated argument by three girls employed in the Fair offices, the winners are John Harkins, William Peck, and John Kintz, all 23 years of age and members of the Guide force.

TAMMANY BUSY ON REMAP JOB; ASKS SMITH AID

Reapportionment Bill Is in Legislature.

New York, July 20.—[Special.]—Apparent loss of prestige and power for Tammany Hall faced James J. Dooling, the new boss of the Wigwam, when he turned today to the vexatious problem of carving out new districts in this city under a reapportionment act now pending in the special session of the state legislature.

Tammany has been evading this issue for five years, and its obstructions have stalled every effort to work out a new political map for the city. Mr. Dooling has tackled the problem by calling for a meeting of the county leaders of the five boroughs for next Wednesday, when an effort will be made to perfect a reapportionment plan on which all can agree.

Dooling Turns to Smith.

Again Mr. Dooling has turned to Alfred E. Smith for advice and again is getting it. The former governor has pronounced ideas on the matter of representation apportioned on the basis of population and made it one of his major issues in his battle for reforming the state and local governments.

Besides going to Mr. Smith for guidance, Mr. Dooling has indicated that he seeks to bring his organization into step with Gov. Lehman on this question as well as others and has arranged that the Democrato leaders in Albany consult the former governor and the county chiefs before determining upon their own procedure.

New York May Lose Place.

Shifting populations and the migration of large numbers from Manhattan to the boroughs across the Harlem and the East rivers may cost old New York its place at the head of the line. This island may lose five assemblymen —three senators and two or three representatives. The representation in conventions will be affected and, as long has been predicted, the time may not be far distant when Manhattan will cease to dominate numerically the party gatherings.

Four Bandits Take $800 from Wiebold's Garage

Four bandits wearing smoked glasses menaced with pistols five employés of the garage in the Wiebold store at 839 West 63d street and escaped yesterday with $800 in cash. William Baum, 7328 Indiana avenue, a cashier who collects money from the drivers as they come in, was forced to open and surrender his cash box. Two policemen on guard at the main cashier's office on the sixth floor were unaware of the holdup.

ICKES BLOCKING CALUMET RIVER PLAN IS CHARGE

Meeting Assails Demands as Impossible.

Conditions which Secretary of the Interior Ickes has laid down as essential before a grant of $2,814,000 of Public Works administration money will be allowed for the Calumet-Sag channel improvement were termed "impossible" and roundly assailed last night at a meeting held in the union hall at 92d street and Houston avenue.

At the gathering, sponsored by the Federation for the Improvement of Lake Calumet Harbor, were the representatives of about 40 labor unions. Also present were Ald. William A. Rowan [10th], who is a Democrat, and Congressman Patrick L. Moynihan, Republican, representing the Third Illinois district.

Fixes Six Conditions.

The project as planned contemplates the straightening of the Calumet river and the Sag channel so that barges may readily negotiate the distance between Calumet harbor and the Illinois waterway west of Blue Island. Mr. Ickes has laid down six conditions that must be fulfilled by local governing bodies.

Most important of these are the questions of easements and bridges. The secretary has ruled that all easements, or right of way permits, must be obtained at once. Only about 50 per cent of these are now settled satisfactorily. As for bridges, Mr. Ickes has decreed that a total of twenty along the Illinois waterway, all of the fixed type, must be replaced by the kind which can be moved to let boats go through.

On Illinois Waterway.

The peculiar part of this demand, it was pointed out, is that sixteen of the bridges are on the Illinois waterway above the junction with the Sag channel and hence have no bearing on the central idea of the proposed improvement, which is to allow a free movement by water from Calumet harbor to the Mississippi. Oscar Hewitt, Chicago's commissioner of public works, has estimated that the construction of sixteen movable bridges would cost $3,000,000, or more than the PWA grant.

"The government is spending money like water to improve Calumet harbor," said Ald. Rowan, "because it is needed to support the St. Lawrence waterway, which is a pet project of the administration in Washington. These improvements are being made without stipulation. But Mr. Ickes is placing all these restrictions, including the discussion of bridges many miles from the channel we want to work on rather than help along the lakes to the gulf waterway."

Spend Money Is Plea.

"He says to us, 'You spend so much and you'll get $2,800,000.' We should let the President know that more men are idle in this district than there were two months ago, and that 10,000 to 15,000 men could go to work here at once if this grant were made. Mr. Ickes seems to think that Mayor Kelly and Chicago can settle all these things he demands, whereas much of the channel passes through suburban areas where the city has no control."

Mr. Ickes, it was reported recently, informed the mayor that unless his conditions were met by July 31 there would be no further possibility of getting the Calumet-Sag grant.

"The secretary of the interior is demanding impossible things," declared Congressman Moynihan. "I fear he is not interested in the Calumet-Sag. He is not ignorant of the circumstances. They have been explained to him."

Something Wrong Somewhere.

Herman Diehl, labor union representative who presided at the meeting, added the observation: "I don't know what's wrong, but there is a nigger in the woodpile somewhere."

Another speaker, H. W. Lee, publisher of an industrial newspaper, urged that the absurdity of the bridge demand be stressed.

At the end of the meeting a telegram urging the money be granted and work started on the project at once and with a minimum of red tape was sent to Ickes. A cablegram to the same effect was sent to President Roosevelt, somewhere in the Pacific on a warship.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 20.—Federal easy money totaling 31 million dollars was allotted by Public Works Administrator Harold Ickes today to 256 nonfederal construction projects throughout the country. Fifteen Illinois communities participated in the allocation to the extent of $1,217,000.

Allocations today brought the total thus far earmarked out of the 500 million dollar public works fund approved by the last congress to 236 million dollars. In addition, more than 100 millions has been allotted to federal projects.

The day's allotments in Illinois were as follows: Iliopolis, waterworks, $42,500; Macomb, sewage plant, $89,000; Williamsville, waterworks, $43,000; Hartford, water softening plant, $29,000; North Chicago, electric station, $382,000; Altamont, waterworks, $41,000; Rock Island county, school, $38,500; Kenilworth, sewer, $340,000; Knox county, school, $21,000; Logan county school, $26,000; Peoria county, school, $42,000; Sangamon county, gymnasium, $3,500; Lawrence county, school, $28,500; Moore township, high school, $46,000.

Here's Another 'Earthy' Novel if You Like 'Em

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Lift Up the Glory," by the author of "This Bright Summer." [Covici-Friede.]

THE announcement that Stella Gibbons has been awarded the Femina Vie Heureuse prize for her incomparable satire, "Cold Comfort Farm," is a cause for celebration to me, because ever since it came to my notice I have been an evangel for it.

With supreme deftness, and with a humor that is more deadly than all of the barrages ever turned on them, "Cold Comfort Farm" ends forever for its readers any solemn belief in the earth-earthy novels which have thrown some critics into the same sort of thesauric epileptic fits that were usually the privilege as well as the pleasure of at least one of their characters.

The announcement of the prize, and the subsequent renewed memory of my gleeful joy in "Cold Comfort Farm" unfortunately came just as I was finishing "Lift Up the Glory." Stella Gibbons is the Annie Oakley of the literary business. She has shot into shatters the tale of earthy elemental passions, sick with madness and lust. "Lift Up the Glory" just naturally falls to pieces in memory of "Cold Comfort Farm." It has everything that Miss Gibbons so supremely derided, the fanatically religious old father, one son a giant who goes mad when in a murderous fight with his father he is plunked over the head with a log, another son who loves a moron, brings her to childbed in his ice cold loft where she dies in agony, a beautiful girl "strange" to the natives who lives with the mad son in defiance of the whole countryside because she loves him, and the final grand finale which is even more spectacular than Miss Gibbons' target.

When the floods come and threaten to sweep away the only bridge over which the families of the valley can cross to safety the maddened son in his "alrighty" strength alone and unaided holds the bridge by his shoulder until every one has crossed except his God-hollering old father. In the subsequent flood the old man drowns, but the son miraculously regains his sanity and the end of the book finds him looking with shy longing toward the girl he has been living with (in the Biblical sense) for a year or more.

"Lift Up the Glory" has one of those "powerful," "elemental," "earthy" plots that delight certain readers and practically all movie fans. It may well become one of the year's thrillers in pulp and celluloid. Its author, I notice, despite the fact that he or she is said to be a very successful novelist under his (or her) legal signature, and although "This Bright Summer" caused a stir, still prefers anonymity to the public acknowledgment of "Lift Up the Glory."

Mystery of the Week

BY MORTIMER QUICK.

Though there is very little that is mystifying about "Ransom" [Lippincott], by Charles Francis Coe, it is crammed full of crime and punishment and is really about as good a book of the hard egg variety as you are likely to run across.

The narrator is tough as they make 'em, but there is something about his frank claims to general depravity and honest understanding of his own atrocities that makes you wish he might escape their consequences. He steals, he swindles, and he kidnaps to the laudable end of establishing himself as an English country gentleman.

The kidnaping is to be his masterpiece and has just been successfully pulled off when one of his lesser crimes rises up and smites him and he goes to jail for twenty years. How the invaluable baby girl who he has appropriated spends those twenty years, how he puts himself in the hands of desperate racketeers, how luckless he is in every crisis make a thriller of the first water.

It would almost seem that Mr. Coe himself must some time have stolen an only child of a rich but honest father, hijacked, and blackmailed, so true is the ring and so authentic the style. The various incidents couldn't be more lurid, nor could most of the people concerned be more vile, and yet there seems nothing melodramatic nor unreal in the whole evil mess. How a man can do everything on earth that is lawless and dishonest and yet somehow keep his integrity and sense of decency is here set forth without one maudlin touch and in a book that you'll finish, if you have your way, at one sitting.

ABOUT AUTHORS

Malcolm Cowley's "Exile's Return" (Norton) is a cerebral exposition of the wo.k and ideas of the generation of American writers who have traveled farther technically than in any other period of American literary history. It is the sort of book every writer must read and every intelligent reader would wish he could write.

Wanta Write? These Prizes Should Tempt

Here's good news for nascent novelists. There are four prize novel contests for you to enter. A prize of one thousand pounds or its equivalent in dollars at the rate of exchange at the time of the award is offered jointly by Dodd Mead & Co., 443 Fourth avenue, and Cassell, Ltd., & Co. of London. It is open to any author writing in English, but no manuscript previously submitted to a publisher is eligible. The competition closes Sept. 1, 1934.

One thousand pounds is a tidy sum and international publishing would set an author up in business for life. As a matter of fact, the actual prize in any literary contest is usually a mere fraction of the monetary reward the lucky author receives.

Harper & Brothers have recently announced their seventh biennial competition open to any author who is a citizen of the United States and who has not published a novel in book form prior to Jan. 1, 1921. The prize in the good old days was $10,000. What it is to be this time has not been announced, but the Harper prize novel in the past has always been spectacularly successful. The judges will be three of America's most popular and distinguished novelists, Sinclair Lewis, Dorothy Canfield, and Louis Bromfield. You have until Feb. 1, 1935, to get your manuscript into Harper & Brothers, 49 East 33d street, New York City.

Doubleday Doran company of Garden City, N. Y., will give a thousand dollar award for the best novel written by any author who has had a story published in the magazine Story, Nov. 1, 1934, ends that opportunity.

Novelists have until April 1, 1935, to submit manuscripts for the $750 prize offered for the best novel on an American proletarian theme by the John Day company in conjunction with the magazine The New Masses, 31 East 27th street, New York City.

You'd better write for the complete details of the contests before you send any manuscripts. Here's luck to you.

Critic Pleased with Award to James Hilton

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON. — [Specia. Correspondence.]—The award of the Hawthornden prize to James Hilton for his book "Lost Horizon" [Macmillan] is an interesting event This prize, on the whole, has been given more intelligently and with greater catholicity of taste than most others, at any rate in England, where prizes are hardly important, and Mr. Hilton, who wrote the book just honored without having visited the scene it so vigorously and vividly describes, well deserves to be known for his originality.

He began publishing novels when he was only 20, and his new short novel, "Goodbye, Mr. Chips," first published in the April Atlantic Monthly, is the latest fruit of a genuine and noteworthy talent. He is reviewing [I regret it, since such work keeps him from more important tasks] for the London Daily Telegraph, and will very soon have a reputation to conjure with.

But a glance at the list of previous awards of the Hawthornden prize has suggested to me that the committee has a decided tenderness for what may be called rural and animal subjects. As, for example, Edmund Blunden's "The Shepherd," Miss Sackville-West's "The Land," Sassoon's "Memoirs of a Fox Hunting Man," Williamson's "Tarka the Otter," Garnett's "Lady Into Fox," and even Lord David Cecil's "The Stricken Deer" [although that was one of the recently fashionable fancy titles given to biographies—in this case a life of the poet William Cowper].

These give a countrified air to the list. But there is hardly a book [I should personally have rejected three of the fourteen chosen] which has not added at least interest to the year in which it appeared. A good average. The committee now consists of Miss Alice Warrender [the donor of the prize], Lord David Cecil, Robert Lynd, Edward Marsh, and J. C. Squire.

A young writer of distinction who has hardly yet received all the recognition to which he is entitled is Adrian Stokes. He may get this recognition with his new book, a study of the art of ballet which is issued simultaneously with the opening of the new ballet season in London. The book is called "Tonight the Ballet" [Faber].

The publishers claim that no comparable book exists, which seems to me to show some shortage of memory, but there is no doubt that as there is a most fashionable audience for the Russian ballet, Mr. Stokes may well have written a book with a wide appeal. He is the author of two very intelligent essays, one a reply to Spengler and the other a little read work on the Quattrocento, and is a friend of the Sitwells, who are having a pleasant revival in public interest at the moment, and of William Walton, the composer, and is a very sensitive, fastidious critic.

MOTHER DEFIES NRA; WILL WORK IN HUMBLE HOME

Woman Battles for Right to Support Children.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 20.—[Special.]—Against the power and the glory of the National Recovery administration, Mrs. Kathryn Budd of Brooklyn will pit her feeble strength next week. Her attorney announced today that Mrs. Budd, made valiant by the necessity of supporting two small children since she was deserted by her husband three years ago, will resume the making of artificial flowers in her home in defiance of an NRA code.

There will result, it was predicted, a titanic contest of wills between the destitute mother and the wealthy Nathan Straus Jr., state director of the National Emergency council, who sternly ruled two days ago that Mrs. Budd must not make flowers in her home. She had earned some $20 a week by this occupation and had been able to support her children without recourse to federal charity.

Straus Maintains Stand.

Mr. Straus yesterday pointed out that he was only carrying out President Roosevelt's executive order of May 16 which allowed the aged and crippled to work in their homes, but barred mothers with dependent children. But he was firm in his insistence that the order would be carried out.

Mrs. Budd will be armed with a legal permit from the New York industrial commission to work in her home. It was revealed today at the office of Industrial Commissioner Elmer Andrews that his permit had not been revoked despite Mr. Straus' grim insistence that it should be taken away from the mother. A small matter of the state law stood in the way of revocation, it was learned. Only after a hearing at which evidence could be presented showing that Mrs. Budd was working under unsanitary conditions or some other handicap could the permit be revoked, it was stated.

Permit Good for Year.

Moreover, the permit is good for one year and is not a "temporary" permit as Mr. Straus has contended.

At present, Mrs. Budd, alarmed at the furore aroused by her desire to earn her own living, is staying with relatives on Long Island. Under the advice of her lawyer, Julius W. Hochfelder, she will return next week and resume the manufacture of flowers under the authority of the state permit.

Mystery enveloped Mr. Straus' reaction to the announcement of this bold rebellion. He remained as before, secluded behind the press agents in NRA headquarters, and refused to discuss the situation. There were many veiled hints from the press agents concerning the awful consequences which might befall Mrs. Budd and her lawyer if they go through with their challenge.

Betrays Lack of Interest.

Attorney Hochfelder betrayed a lack of respect for the majesty of the NRA and its wealthy New York enforcement agent.

"What jurisdiction over a state labor permit has Straus got anyway?" he inquired. "He can't order a regularly issued permit to be revoked. The state has a right to license home work under the law. It has done so in Mrs. Budd's case and can't revoke the permit without a hearing at which sufficient cause is given for the action."

The lawyer also voiced some sentiments about the "constitutional rights" of his client, confessing that he was not up on the most recent developments of the New Deal. He even went so far as to quote articles 5 and 15 of the Constitution and mentioned the fact that a person cannot be deprived of his rights without due process of law.

Charges Discrimination.

"With all due respect to President Roosevelt, he issued an order discriminating against certain persons in regard to this situation," he said. "He might as well have said that a woman with black hair cannot work in her home as that a woman with dependent children cannot."

To lend emphasis to his contention that Mrs. Budd is legally entitled to resume work, the attorney today withdrew in the Superior court his petition for a mandamus forcing the issuance of a state permit, pointing out that the permit had been issued and could not be revoked.

"I suppose Straus can arrest Mrs. Budd and drag her before the district attorney for violation of an NRA code," he remarked. "I should like to see him do it. We might get the whole problem out in the open air that way.

"Cruel and Inhumane."

"The executive order, as it stands at present, is cruel and inhumane. Mrs. Budd has these two children, 7 and 10 years old, to support since deserted by her husband three years ago. She has been courageous enough to fight for a living since then, disdaining to accept charity. Why should the NRA prevent a woman like that from working?"

Attorney Hochfelder has a suit pending in the federal courts here which asks a judicial interpretation of the codes relating to home work. He is counsel for the home work league composed of 300,000 persons who have been making their living by working in their homes. More than half of these are barred from future working under the executive order of the president. The federal suit is scheduled for a hearing next Tuesday.

NRA RESTORES BLUE EAGLE TO HARRIMAN MILLS

Union Workers Assail Pact as 'Squeeze.'

Washington, D. C., July 20.—[Special.]—Over protests by organized labor that it was being frozen out, the NRA today surrendered in its long battle with the Harriman Hosiery company of Tennessee and ordered that the company's Blue Eagle be restored.

Return of the Harriman Blue Eagle marks the end of one of the hardest tussles in NRA history and the collapse of another one of Gen. Hugh S. Johnson's "do or die" proclamations. The recovery chief two weeks ago had insisted he would not yield another inch to the company.

Surprises Many at NRA.

Settlement of the controversy was announced by A. R. Glancy, Gen. Johnson's field assistant. Glancy also ordered return of the Blue Eagle. His actions were a complete surprise to many NRA officials, who frankly regarded them as a "repudiation" of Johnson's original stand against Harriman.

Union workers at Harriman today bitterly protested Glancy's "compromise" agreement and refused to abide by it. It definitly "put the squeeze" on them.

If the strikers ratify the Glancy agreement within thirty days they are guaranteed that twenty-five of their members will be taken back immediately and perhaps another twenty-five by Jan. 1. At the same time the company will agree to drop all prosecution of offenses against the state court's strike injunction.

Before the Glancy settlement, the Harriman case had been rejected by the department of justice with the comment that there was not sufficient evidence to show NIRA violations.

Workers Await Jobs.

Harriman, Tenn., July 20.—(AP)—The Blue Eagle, in disrepute in this strife torn mill town the last three months, got a welcoming return today. Assured the NRA was returning the Blue Eagle to the Harriman Hosiery mills and that the plant would reopen Monday, merchants who had taken their NRA insignia down in sympathy with the mills plastered them on window fronts again.

More than 600 workers who lost their jobs when the mills closed June 25, after losing its Blue Eagle for alleged violation of labor provisions of the National Recovery act, looked forward to employment again.

Mayor J. D. D'Armand declared that "everything is lovely in Harriman again."

"I want to congratulate the government on restoring the emblem to the mill and bringing peace to Harriman," he commented.

TAX APPRAISAL IS LAST CHAPTER OF MURDER PLOT

New York, July 20.—[Special.]—The final chapter in a murder story which began some time before August, 1927, with plans, went on in the latter days of that month to tragedy in Gravesend bay and culminated the next summer in the Sing Sing deathhouse, was written today in figures with the filing in Bronx county of the estate appraisal of one Benjamin Goldstein.

Goldstein was the victim of the plot—a slick boy of 22, who had spent four years skirting the fringes of the law with Joseph Lefkowitz, a much older man.

Lefkowitz and the two others subsequently were tried; Lefkowitz was convicted and died in the electric chair. This raised a legal point since the insurance policies—written by the New York Life Insurance company and the Metropolitan Life Insurance company—named Lefkowitz as beneficiary.

Goldstein left no other estate, and his father and mother sued to collect from the companies.

Action against the New York Life Insurance company was, according to the appraisal, compromised for $10,000, the face value of the policy being $30,000. The estate eventually received remittance from William Lurie, attorney for the plaintifs, of $5,666.67, the amount remaining after deduction of fee and other disbursements.

The $40,000 policy of the Metropolitan company was settled by the company's payment of $20,000. From this, according to the appraisal, the estate received the net sum of $10,000 after deduction of Mr. Lurie's fees and disbursements. Funeral and administration expenses totaled $1,181.

Britain and Turkey Settle Row Over Killing of Officer

ISTANBUL, Turkey, July 20.—(AP)—The foreign ministry announced today that Great Britain and Turkey have reached a friendly settlement regarding the shooting off the Greek island of Samos, in which a British naval officer was killed. The British government demanded an exhaustive joint inquiry by the two governments and sent 12 warships to search for the body of Lieut. J. W. Robinson. A Turkish battleship will take part in funeral services to be held at the scene of the incident.

Asks British Honors

LONDON, July 20.—(AP)—Lady Houston, England's "Lady Bountiful," wants a new pair of garters—the ceremonial kind the British government gives famous men. Writing in her magazine, the Saturday Review, today she said:

"The deaths of the Duke of Wellington and the Duke of Marlborough have created an unexpected problem for filling two vacancies that have arisen in the Order of the Garter. As one would be of no use to me, I modestly suggest that I be given them both."

Lady Houston became England's wealthiest woman when she inherited the $35,000,000 estate of her late husband, Sir Robert Houston, the shipping magnate, several years ago. Her charitable gifts earned her the title of "Lady Bountiful."

NRA THREATENS TO TAKE EAGLE FROM OIL FIRM

Company Accused of Labor Violations.

Washington, D. C., July 20.—(AP)—The Oil Country Specialties Manufacturing company of Coffeyville, Kas., was notified by NRA today that its Blue Eagle would be removed unless by July 23 it gives assurances of appropriate restitution for violations of labor guaranties charged by the national labor board.

The company, subject to the petroleum equipment industry code, was found by the labor board to have laid off seven employés because of activity in the International Association of Machinists and to have interfered with and restrained self-organization of employés.

Message Sent to Company.

NRA telegraphed the company as follows:

"National labor board has found your company has violated those provisions of code for American petroleum equipment industry and trade which embody section 7-A of the national industrial recovery act. Specifically, board's final findings are that the nine employés, except Harlowe and Cook listed in the first paragraph of finding number VI. of the tentative findings forwarded with its letter of June 14 to you, were laid off because of union membership or activity.

"Highly Suspicious Evidence."

"In its final findings national labor board has also included Harlowe and Cook with the thirteen men enumerated under second paragraph of finding number VI. of its tentative findings and has found that while circumstances surrounding laying off of those fifteen men are highly suspicious, evidence does not warant express findings of discrimination in those cases.

"National labor board has recommended that your Blue Eagle be removed unless you shall have reinstated the seven workers found to have been laid off because of union membership or activity and shall have placed remaining fifteen on a preferential list for reemployment or shall have satisfied the requirements of section 7-A by other measures of restitution and shall have expressed your intention hereafter to comply with section 7-A.

"Compliance division concurs in this recommendation."

Three Eagles Revoked.

NRA today revoked three Blue Eagles. They were:

The Algoma Net company of Algoma, Wis., for violation of the wage and hour provisions of the saddlery code.

The Rosenblum-Jasper-Zechowy company of Brooklyn, N. Y., for violation of wage and hour provisions of the fur dressing and dyeing code.

NRA THREATENS TO VOID EAGLE OF COMPANY HERE

Bear Brand Hosiery Firm Warned.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 20.—[Special.]—The NRA today threatened to deprive the Bear Brand Hosiery company of Chicago of its Blue Eagle because of alleged violations of NRA labor provisions.

In a telegram to the company this afternoon L. J. Martin, chief of the NRA's compliance division, declared that the Blue Eagle would be snatched unless by Monday, July 23, the company makes amends.

Charged at Hearings.

The Bear Brand company has been charged in hearings before the old national labor board of discharging union employés at its Beaver Dam, Wis., plant and of refusing to meet representatives of its workers for collective bargaining. The board held that the company was discriminating against union members in violation of section 7-A of the NRA.

Although Martin's wire demanded that the company promptly "carry out restitution measures appropriate to satisfy the requirements of Section 7-A" the company was told of no specific change which it should make in order to retain its Blue Eagle.

Beaver Dam Plant Closed.

The Bear Brand company has closed its Beaver Dam plant, the one at which the alleged offenses took place, and moved the machinery to its Kankakee, Ill., shop. Taking offense at this action, also, the New Deal labor tribunal declared that the closing of the plant was another attempt by the company to intimidate its workers and force them to abandon their union.

"The record reveals an unswerving hositility on the part of the company to union activity," the labor board's decision read. Martin, in his telegram, said that he concurred in this decision and was proceeding to enforce it by demanding that the company either comply or surrender its Blue Eagle by Monday.

At hearings on the case held before the Chicago and national labor boards the company has steadfastly refused to appear or acknowledge the boards' jurisdiction.

POSTAL BUDGET BALANCED, SAYS JAMES FARLEY

Washington, D. C., July 20.—[Special.]—Postmaster General Farley has informed President Roosevelt that a long elusive goal of the postoffice department has been achieved, a balanced budget.

In a radio message to the President aboard the navy cruiser Houston, Mr. Farley declared that pre-audited figures for the fiscal year ended June 30 showed postal receipts for the first time since 1919 had exceeded expenditures, the surplus being about $5,000,000.

This result was radioed after making the usual adjustments authorized by law "for certain subventions and free mailing services."

The postmaster general remarked that this record "was all the more impressive" when the fact was considered that in the last fifty years postal revenues had exceeded operation costs in only seven.

President Roosevelt replied to the postmaster general in a radio message which reached him at San José, Cal., where he has been on a speaking tour, he was "delighted" at the report and congratulated him that such a result had been achieved despite a reduction in postage on local letters and other handicaps.

ROCKFORD BANK HEAD PAROLED; SERVED 2 YEARS

Rockford, Ill., July 20.—[Special.]—Truman Johnson, former president of the Security National bank and the Security First Mortgage company, who in 1932 was sentenced to one to ten years in Joliet prison on a charge of embezzlement, will be released from the penitentiary on parole Saturday morning.

Johnson was sentenced to prison after he had pleaded guilty to a charge of embezzling $20,000 from the mortgage company. Evans Anderson, former cashier of the bank and former secretary of the mortgage company, who was indicted with him and was convicted after he had pleaded not guilty, is still serving a term of one to ten years.

Indictment of the pair resulted from an investigation of the affairs of the bank and mortgage company after the bank closed its doors in 1931.

It is understood that Johnson will return to Rockford and fill a clerical position in a local industry.

Skunks on Parade

July 20, 1934.

It looks very much as if the boys here on the farm would have to install some stop and go lights for the skunks that continue to clutter up the fields and the woods. Hardly a day goes by that somebody, while going about his work, doesn't run smack into one of these animals. And then traffic has to be reversed to give the skunk full privileges of a "one way street".

Apparently the birth rate among skunks here on the farm is on the upturn. As far as the boys can figure there must be at least two families with their offspring on the place, because you see young and old animals quite often.

Shadoan is the latest to report an encounter with a wood pussy—while he was in the field on his way to work.

If the fox terriers that live here on the farm manage to avoid clashes with some of these skunks it will be nothing less than a miracle. Binks, one of the terriers, was whipped by an adult polecat early this spring, so there is every reason to believe that he is going to seek revenge on any skunk that he happens to find in the fields.

A mourning dove has its nest in a pine tree close to Clarence Thurow's house. No one has discovered how many young ones are in the nest, so it's being watched carefully.

Clarence's garden has taken on new life and color during the past few days because of the daily visits of a pair of goldfinches. These happy-go-lucky birds, which put off their nesting and the assumption of family cares until long after most of our song birds have raised their families, are commonly known as "wild canaries". The male is a beautiful fellow with his gold and black plumage. [If Clarence's garden had some big, tall thistles in it the goldfinches might nest there, because these birds frequently choose a big thistle for a nesting site. However, they may come back later to feed on sunflower seeds.]

You can look over the farm these days and tell that the growth of crops, wild shrubs and flowers have advanced past the half way mark in July. The season of ripening is here. In the oat fields one can see the shocks of grain. Next week the threshing machine will be roaring, and the building of piles of straw and chaff will be under way.

I have looked at the field of flax and here again there is apparent the lush season of maturing crops. The thornapple trees are loaded with green fruit which later on will turn red. The sumac has developed big clusters of wine red berries which are relished by many species of birds. The elderberry, another favorite of wild birds, is in blossom.

In the home gardens here on the farm the small green onions, lettuce, green beans and radishes are mature and everybody is enjoying these fresh vegetables.

Yesterday Clarence planted turnips that are destined to go into the vegetable cellar this fall and be used during the winter months. However, the berry crop doesn't look so good. Must be the effects of the drouth. I have seen a few wild raspberry bushes with some fruit on them, although it looked as if the branches didn't have the number of berries on them that they should.

The chinch bugs took to the air this week. The adult bugs spread their wings and moved into the corn. Clarence has been keeping a check on these pests and what they are doing, and the surprising thing is that, although they are in the corn, so far they haven't done any damage.

HUNT WITNESSES TO THE MURDER OF 'BUBS' QUINLAN

Coroner Frank J. Walsh instructed police yesterday to go out and hunt for witnesses to the murder of Michael [Bubs] Quinlan, who was shot to death Thursday night in the Banzai café, 6325 Cottage Grove avenue, and to bring all possible witnesses to the inquest on Aug. 3. The coroner was incensed yesterday when only two eyewitnesses were present at the inquest and they said they didn't know the killer.

One of these was Tom McLaughlin, former saloonkeeper, with whom Quinlan entered the café. McLaughlin said he didn't look up to see who shot Quinlan, because he was avoiding accidents to himself. Hido Matsuma, owner of the café, said he didn't know the killer.

Coroner Walsh said he was informed there were dozens of persons in the café who must have seen the slayer calmly and unhurriedly walk out after firing a shot into Quinlan's back. Capt. Daniel Lynch of the Woodlawn station said his men would seek a roundup of all eyewitnesses. Quinlan, he said, had been engaged in gambling somewhere in Clearing.

STAYS U. S. WRIT PENDING APPEAL ON DAIRY LICENSE

Government Is Barred from Prosecuting.

A temporary injunction issued by Federal Judge John P. Barnes, restraining the federal government from interfering with the business of six independent dairies, was stayed pending appeal by a writ of supersedeas issued yesterday by Presiding Judge Samuel Alschuler of the Circuit Court of Appeals. The order, however, is designed to prevent the government from bringing criminal prosecution pending the appeal.

Judge Alschuler expressly granted the dairy companies the right to move for a vacation of his order in the event the Agricultural Adjustment administration or the district attorney's office commences any criminal prosecutions for violation of the Chicago milk license. A vacation of the order would automatically render Judge Barnes' injunction effective.

Attack Rule Within A State.

Assistant United States Attorney Leo J. Hassenauer and special counsel for the AAA sought the supersedas after Judge Barnes, on July 11, entered an order restraining the AAA, the secretary of agriculture, and the United States attorney's office from enforcing the licensing provisions upon or prosecuting the Edgewater Dairy company and five other milk distributors. Judge Barnes held the milk marketing license invalid because it attempted to regulate the production of milk in intrastate commerce.

Judge Alschuler ordered a hearing on the government's appeal from the Barnes decision at "the earliest practicable time following the filing of briefs." The case is expected to be heard some time in September.

Another milk case, in which 121 Wisconsin farmers are seeking to restrain the AAA from interfering with them or with their marketing cooperative, the Columbus Milk Producers' association, was continued by Federal Judge William H. Holly to Sept. 4.

The case originally came before Judge Barnes, who is on vacation, and the continuance was granted because he will be back by Sept. 4.

At the same time Judge Holly permitted attorneys for the farmers, Joseph E. Green and Joseph R. Roach, to file an amended bill of complaint containing additional exhibits in support of their contention that the license would work great hardships upon them.

WOMAN GIVEN 1 TO 14 YEARS IN "LOVE" SLAYING

Charleston, Ill., July 20.—[Special.]—Mrs. Anne Sandstrom, 38, Indianapolis saleswoman, convicted of manslaughter in the slaying last May 9 of Carl V. Thompson, today was sentenced to serve one to fourteen years in prison.

Thompson, 43, with whom Mrs. Sandstrom admitted she had been carrying on a secret love affair, was killed in a hotel in Mattoon, Ill., where the two had met for a rendezvous. Mrs. Sandstrom said he was shot accidentally while grappling with her for a pistol with which she had intended to commit suicide. The prosecution, however, introduced evidence that Thompson was shot in the back and that five shots were fired.

Mrs. Sandstrom's defense was based on "semi-insanity," brought on by worry over the love affair. Her 14 year old son testified that his mother had been extremely nervous.

PLAN NEW FIGHT TO FINANCE SPAN ON OUTER DRIVE

Park Boards Ready for Appeal to PWA.

Officials of the Chicago park district board and the Lincoln and south park boards will make a determined effort to have Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes reconsider his withdrawal of $8,877,000 of federal funds allocated for construction of the outer drive bridge over the mouth of the Chicago river, they said yesterday.

Action will be started as soon as the State Supreme court rules on the legality of the park consolidation act which created the district board. If the act is upheld the district board will seek to reopen loan negotiations with the PWA, which is headed by Ickes. If the law is held illegal the Lincoln park board will again approach the PWA and seek to have its own bonds accepted as security for a loan.

Ickes Leaves Loophole.

"I think that there is a good possibility that the project may be reconsidered," said Martin Kennelly, member of both the consolidated and Lincoln park boards, who has been directing bridge negotiations.

"Mr. Ickes himself has left a loophole for renewed action, according to his statement to the press, and such action certainly will be taken. If the district board attains full legal status, it will be our first business to reopen bridge negotiations. We'll deal directly with Mr. Ickes and I hope to see funds reallocated."

The PWA had previously refused to approve Lincoln park bonds as security for the park board's $1,943,000 share of the bridge loan because outstanding bonds were in excess of the statutory limit of 5 per cent of the assessed valuation of property in the park district. South park bonds to be offered for a $4,934,000 portion of the loan had been approved.

Speed New Negotiations.

James M. Slattery, Lincoln park and Chicago park district attorney, who has made several trips to Washington with Mr. Kennelly in the interest of the bridge loan, was confident that new overtures to the PWA will be received.

"We'll undoubtedly seek to reopen loan negotiations as soon as possible," he said. "Naturally, we'll do this expecting success. The adverse position of Lincoln park bonds is ending. That ought to help our chances."

Whether or not new negotiations with the government are opened, the outer drive bridge will be built, Mayor Kelly said last night. The mayor is president of the south park board.

WHAT A NEW INDUSTRY WILL DO.

Air conditioning has, of course, for its primary object the increased comfort and health of the people in their places of employment, in their transportation, in schools, theaters and hotels, in hospitals and in their dwellings. It represents in this aspect one of the great advances in the material well-being of mankind. At first, as in the case of other inventions, its benefits will be restricted to a small minority, but they will spread rapidly, at least in the United States, unless the initiative and resourcefulness of private enterprise and the prosperity of the people are paralyzed by government interferences and exactions. The reduction of costs is the first essential of the general enjoyment of air conditioning, but when the history of the automobile is considered we may be assured that if the new industry is permitted to enjoy anything approaching a like liberty it will be only a few years before the blessings of air conditioning are within the reach of millions of workers and home dwellers of the most moderate means.

But there is another aspect of the new industry of great importance at this time. The rise and development of air conditioning means widely ramifying new employment. We have been told of the evils of technological unemployment and they are not to be ignored. But the way to cure them is by new inventions and business enterprise and certainly not by the burocratic controls which retard progress wherever they prevail. The way out and forward is the American way, as Senator Borah has eloquently asserted, the way of free men, stimulated by the reasonable prospect of reward through the exercise of their own individual qualities of mind and character. This way has brought the American people through generations of trial and error and heartening success to the highest level of well-being ever attained by any people. Even in present conditions we cannot afford to forget that.

Air conditioning, which has sprung up without burocratic planning, but on the contrary through the planning of the free individual, already on the threshold of its development reveals the economic benefits it can and will spread in many forms of employment, old and new. For example, the air conditioned TRIBUNE plant and building will use virtually as much coal in summer for cooling as in winter for heating. Its use of coal will be greatly increased. This means more work for miners and for workers employed in the transport of coal from the mines to the point of consumption. The manufacture of the air conditioning mechanism employs not merely the mechanics directly engaged in making the machines, in transporting, installing and thereafter operating them, but also workers who mine, prepare, or transport the material used in them. Copper is one of the chief of these materials and will be used in large quantities as air conditioning proceeds. That means more work for the copper miners and the workers in smelters. The sheet copper used is tin plated and thus the tin miner is employed. Each unit is boxed in a wooden crate and thus the worker in the forests and in sawmills and the boxmakers are benefited. The sheet metal work involved requires the additional mining of iron ore, turned into sheet steel and galvanized. This requires miners of zinc and the labor in transport to the mills. The electrical work in connection with the installation of units not only required copper wire but insulation, which is mainly composed of cotton and rubber. Thus the cotton worker in the south and the rubber worker in distant lands will be benefited. The copper piping in the building which carries the ice water to the units has to be insulated with felt, bringing in various workers who provide the material and the manufacture of felt.

The immediate installation of this system provides work for steamfitters, plumbers, plasterers, sheet metal workers, carpenters, painters, electricians, and laborers. It provides work for the machinery movers to deliver the machines to the buildings to be equipped, and to employés of the trucking companies hauling the units from the freighthouse to the building. The whole system provides work for the engineers, architects and draftsmen, to salesmen and employés in all the organizations of the many industries involved. In short, the stimulus of this one new industry reaches and will far more substantially as the industry expands affect the worker and investor in many other industries and occupations.

Aviation is another relatively new industry. Its swift development in recent years has given the United States the greatest system of air transport in the world, but it has lately received a serious setback, whether from purely political or other motives we do not know. The rate of its future progress cannot be estimated, but it is likely to be slower than in its first phase. Even so it will go forward and produce widespread benefits.

Give private industry and especially new enterprise freedom from the restriction of burocratic government and from the interference of self-seeking politics with its unwise laws devised by demagogs and doctrinaires, and the progress of the American people to better living, to a "more abundant life," will soon be resumed.

THE PWA EXPOSED.

The Public Works administration has withdrawn the allotment of $6,877,000 for the completion of the outer drive bridge at the mouth of the Chicago river. The official explanation is that the Lincoln and south parks were unable to offer security for the loan which would meet the legal and financial requirements of the government.

Nothing which the PWA could have done could more thoroughly have exposed its true character. The PWA funds were set up to enable local governments to provide needed and useful public works at a time when many local governments were finding it difficult, if not impossible, because of tax delinquencies, to borrow from the customary private sources.

The outer bridge should have been regarded by the PWA as a natural. The need for it is great, as every Chicagoan knows, and every ex-Chicagoan, like Public Works Administrator Ickes, ought to know. Millions of World's Fair visitors can add their testimony. The security offered consisted of bonds of the Lincoln park and south parks boards, the first secured by the property along Chicago's gold coast, the second by the stupendous values in the loop and south of it for ten or a dozen miles.

If that was not good security there is no good municipal security in the United States. Certainly there is no security which the PWA will accept which has a better long-run outlook than that offered. The PWA was set up to meet precisely such situations as were presented by the incompleted outer drive bridge. If the PWA could not find a way to finance the work the conclusion is unmistakable that the PWA prefers to waste its money on useless projects of political value like the Loup river and Rio Verde pipe dreams. The sounder the proposal and the better the security offered, the less the PWA is interested in it.

It is not without significance that at a time when the PWA cannot see its way to financing an immensely useful bridge, of permanent value to millions of citizens, it has not hesitated to hire a couple of tennis instructors in Carrollton, Ill. Carrollton, in case you don't know it, is the home town of Speaker Rainey.

SNOBS ABROAD.

The rector of a church of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., invited to preach to the fashionable congregation of St. Margaret's, Westminster, was moved to assure his hearers that a majority of the people of the United States are willing to forgo the war loans because of the benefits accruing to the nation therefrom. Opinions of this sort bloom luxuriously in the climate a certain type of American enjoys in London, but, it is to be hoped for the sake of that international understanding we are told is essential to friendly relations among the nations, are not taken as authentic by any responsible politician in Britain.

The social snobbishness and less obnoxious sentimentalism which express themselves under the encouragement of British condescension to the familiar visitor who suffers from an inferiority complex and the quaint ambition for social recognition in a foreign land are not reliable guides to American opinion or the probable course of American policy. The nation which classes Benedict Arnold with Judas Iscariot cannot be sold out for a cup of tea at a Westminster garden party.

Editorial of the Day

IMAGINE YOUR COUNTRY UNDER HITLER RULE!

[Muskegon Chronicle.]

To get a real idea of what life under German Fascism is like, use your imagination and transplant the whole business to American soil.

Pretend we are laboring under Nazism and that the things that have happened in Germany of late have really happened over here.

You start by imagining that all political parties but the Democratic party have been forcibly suppressed. Herbert Hoover has been driven into exile; Henry Fletcher runs what is left of the Republican party from a safe haven in Mexico City. Ogden Mills is languishing in Leavenworth; Senator Borah has been shot.

Congress is composed solely of party henchmen picked by Jim Farley; but that makes little difference, for it meets only when Mr. Roosevelt says it may, and it does exactly what he tells it to do.

There won't be any fall elections; if there were, all the voter could do would be to make a blanket indorsement of all Democratic candidates, with a flock of Tammany thugs around to beat him up if he refused.

The editor of your favorite newspaper prints an editorial suggesting that the NRA is somewhat less than perfect, and is immediately thrown in jail. You yourself happen to remark that you think Gen. Johnson is a flat tire, and the department of justice lugs you off to a concentration camp in Georgia.

No public speaker, no editor, no magazine writer dares to suggest that Mr. Roosevelt is anything but the wisest President we have ever had.

Then, to cap things properly, imagine that the Democrats have had an internal row, and that the President settles it by having Carter Glass, Huey Long, Bernard M. Baruch, and Al Smith executed with only a semblance of a trial.

Looking at it like that is a good mental exercise, for two reasons.

First, it demonstrates how far we are from anything resembling a Fascist dictatorship.

Second, it shows how unutterably precious the liberties of a democracy really are. Without them, life becomes grotesque and horrible. Their preservation is the greatest responsibility we can possibly have.

HUMAN NATURE.

The rector had invited the village boys to the rectory for a strawberry tea. After they had finished he, seeking to point the moral, said: "Now, boys, wasn't that nicer than breaking into my garden and helping yourselves?"

"O, yes," chorused the boys.

"And why was it nicer?" he asked a chubby faced boy.

"Because, sir," was the reply, "we shouldn't have had any sugar and cream with them."—Humorist.

IT'S HARD TO BELIEVE that the army is motorized when one meets khakied officers wearing spurs and brandishing riding crops on every street. If they only use motor cars in the army, then why do the officers still wear spurs and carry riding crops? If they use them on their motor cars then it's time the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Automobiles did something about it! And as for beating a poor, helpless automobile with a riding crop—it's got to be stopped, that's all.

If I had a motor car,
And it wouldn't go,
Then would I hammer it?
NO! NO! NO!

THE ATLANTIC (and likewise the w. k. Pacific) ocean ought to be immense drawing cards for vacationists in the middle west, where the drouth is burning up the crops and the thermometer is running up to one hundred and fifteen and above. It must be a great pleasure to spend a vacation alongside the ocean and walk out every few minutes and gaze on thousands and thousands of miles of water. It doesn't seem possible!

GYPSY LAMENT.

Where are you now, Margot?
Give me the smallest sign—
Lips that are red as wine
That supple maidens press,
Fling back a word to me—
One old caress.
You who are gayety,
Passionate, yielding, free—
Where have you gone?
Are you alone, Margot?
I am alone.

Come back to me, Margot.
Never can worm not rust
Turn you to quiet dust.
Your laughter cannot die.
Moon, wind and almond tree,
Witness my cry.
Fire, burn steadily,
Guide her again to me.
Sing just one song, Margot.
Pity my agony.

A HUMAN WHEELBARROW is now trundling across the country from coast to coast. One human being (the highest form of animal life, also known as king of creation, et cet., et cet.) firmly grasps an axle supported at either end by bicycle wheels, while another human holds the first human's ankles and pushes him along the road. How the dogs, cows, horses, squirrels, bluejays, and other animals that observe this spectacle laugh and laugh and laugh. "Humans," says a jackrabbit to a laughing hyena, "humans they call themselves! Tsk, tsk, tsk!" "You other animals," replies the laughing hyena, "often ask me why I am so convulsed with mirth all the time. It's because of humans. Whenever I see one I just can't help but laugh until my sides fairly split. There comes one now! Oh, ha ha ha! Ha ha ha! Ha ha ha! Oh, I shall just die laughing at these humans! Ha ha ha! Ha ha ha! Ha ha ha!"

THE AUTOMOBILE SAFETY COUNCIL declares there's a greater ratio of accidents among men than women drivers. That's because the women drivers don't look at the bare-legged blondes in the short shorts riding bicycles. Gosh! I just missed Mr. Lincoln's statue in Lincoln park by about two feet yesterday. It was the same girl. If she doesn't move off the North Side or go on vacation or something I'm going to collide with Mr. Lincoln yet. I just know it!

THIS TERRIBLE DEPRESSION! Will it never end? An estate just probated in New York is valued at only seventy-three million of dollars. A mere bagatelle! Goodness, what are we coming to? And a little eight year old girl, the ward of a New York court, has been sentenced by the court to have only twenty thousand dollars a year to live on. How can an eight year old girl get along with only twenty thousand dollars a year? Even if the candy budget is cut to twelve hundred a year, only a miserable three thousand dollars spent on dolls, and five hundred dollars for spinach, what about other necessities? What about jumping ropes, clothes for the dolls, and Scotch terriers? Tsk, tsk, tsk! It's a tough world and getting tougher every day!

MOONLIGHT VALLEY.

Cupped by the whirling of some restless sea
Through centuried change of mud and sand and lime,
What odd caprice designed large destiny
For this small valley hidden in the hills?
How strange—a finger touching wire unlocks
The subtle secrets where the white light spills
Its mystic rites on uncommunicable rocks!

To heights of long imagined power in store,
To overtones above an earthy dawn,
Ballooning hope shall rise—at last explore
The realm long closed. A gaping world looks on
When venture floats. Gain from it what you will,
We have the songs of Moonlight Valley still.

SERUM REACTIONS.

MANY of our life saving antitoxins, such as tetanus, diphtheria, etc., are obtained by immunizing horses with the toxin formed by the specific disease producing bacteria. The horse proceeds promptly to manufacture antibodies or neutralizing substances against the toxin. With repeated injections of the toxin, antibodies appear in the blood of the horse in high concentration. A very small amount of serum from a horse that has been immunized against the toxin of the diphtheria bacillus may contain enough antitoxin to neutralize the poison produced by diphtheria in a human being.

It is not possible to obtain antitoxin chemically pure. Certain other substances (proteins) that are found in the serum of the horse accompany the antitoxin; in fact, these other substances may act as solvents or carriers of the antitoxin. These serum proteins possess the property of disturbing the nervous system of human beings and when a reaction occurs following the injection of antitoxin it is known as a serum reaction. Within a few days to two weeks following a first injection of a serum not derived from human blood the patient may develop a slight fever, a skin eruption characterized by rash or wheals, pains in the joints, and swelling. Just what this reaction is and why it occurs is not clear. If it follows a first injection, as a rule it is slight. Newer methods for purifying and concentrating antitoxins have reduced the frequency of these reactions.

It is much more important from the standpoint of the patient that precautions should be taken relative to the use of serum two or more weeks subsequent to an earlier injection. Inasmuch as the patient has been rendered sensitive to the serum in question by the first injection, the reaction following a second injection of the same kind of serum is more likely to occur.

Some persons are hypersensitive, especially those who have had symptoms of hay fever or asthma. In such individuals even the injection of a minute quantity of horse serum may bring on a severe constitutional disturbance.

Should indications arise for the use of antitoxin or serum of any sort, patients should give the attending physician all known facts relative to the previous use of antitoxin or serum. Also any information that may identify the patient with previous attacks of hay fever or asthma. In an emergency the physician must not delay, but if there is time the patient should be tested by the injection of a small quantity of horse serum into the skin. If a wheal is raised or a reddened area results, it is clear that the patient is sensitive to the serum.

In emergency calling for the use of antitoxins the physician will proceed with caution in the presence of a history of previous serum sickness or of known sensitiveness to horse serum. It sometimes means the choosing of the lesser of two evils. In certain instances it is imperative that serum be used. With a sensitive individual the physician will rely upon a desensitizing procedure and upon adrenalin and other aids in combating the reaction.

It should not be understood that serum reactions are of great frequency. They are not. Probably not more than one in twenty thousand serum injections is followed by symptoms that are even dangerous. Fatalities, while they have been reported, are rare.

CHRONIC ACNE.

A. L. writes: I have been troubled with chronic acne since I was 17. I am now 23 and the condition has not improved. I have tried X-ray, violet ray, vaccines, diet, tonics, and ointments.

REPLY.

I am sure your condition is not beyond help. Much can be done by a well trained dermatologist. You no doubt have a skin that is very sensitive to infection. Bathing daily, using bichloride soap, is usually of great benefit.

REMOVAL NEEDED.

E. L. writes: Can you tell me what to use to dry up bleeding piles? I am 71 years old and a bleeder, so I cannot have them cut out.

REPLY.

Unfortunately, there are no remedies that are effective for hemorrhoids other than surgical removal. I do not believe you need fear hemorrhage. A competent surgeon who has had good experience will be able to help you.

REPLY.

During the summer one has little need for artificial ultraviolet light. If you will send stamped and addressed envelope we will give you the names of manufacturers of ultraviolet equipment.

FAMILY AGREEMENT.

Chicago, July 13.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. About seven years ago I sent money to my sister-in-law in New Mexico to bring her family to Chicago. She needed an operation. I also paid her hospital and nursing bill after she got here. She would never sign a note for the money in my favor. Her husband then and now is working for the federal government. 2. Will the latter honor a request to make him pay me the money? It is about $600 without interest. 3. Could I get a judgment with a note? 4. Is the debt outlawed by now? C. P. T.

1. We do not have sufficient facts before us to tell whether the contract or implied agreement to repay you should be regarded as controled by Illinois law or Mexican law. The Illinois limitation period on oral agreements is five years, but the period does not run during absence of the debtor from the state, also the period might be extended by a part payment or a new promise to pay.
2. The best way to find out is to try.
3. Yes, if it was a judgment note. If not a judgment note, you would have to secure service of process.

1. Depends on whether the goods stolen are worth more or less than $15.
2. No.
3. Section 389 of the criminal code is as follows: "Every person convicted of larceny, if the property stolen exceeds the value of fifteen dollars, or if the property is stolen from the person of another, shall be imprisoned in the penitentiary not less than one nor more than ten years; if the property stolen has not been stolen from the person of another and is of the value of fifteen dollars or less, the person convicted shall be confined in the county jail, or sentenced to labor in the workhouse of the county, city, or town where the conviction is had, or on the streets or alleys of the city, or on the public roads in the county, or to such labor under the direction of the sheriff as the county board may provide for, not exceeding one year, and fined not exceeding one hundred dollars."

MUTUAL COMPANIES.

Chicago, July 9.—[Friend of the Insured.]—Perhaps you will give me a little information about mutual companies. I drive a car and carry personal liability and property damage with a mutual firm that enjoys a fair reputation. Why is it the premiums with this type of company are so much less? Is it because of the liability assumed by the policyholders, and are there statistics which show the instances in which policyholders have been held liable for claims against the company? Any further data you might offer on this type of company will be greatly appreciated. J. M. K.

The difference in premium between stock company and mutual insurance is usually due to methods under which a mutual company can operate. It can collect an advance premium from its policyholders, using the premium so collected to pay its losses and expenses with the privilege of making assessments if the premiums received are not sufficient, or returning the excess to policyholders in the form of a dividend should the operation prove profitable.

Some mutuals require a membership fee from all policyholders, and then levy assessments against each policyholder for their pro rata proportion of all losses and expenses. Most of the large mutual companies, however, operate under the first plan and the rates used are manual the same as those used by stock companies, the only difference in cost being the dividend in the event of profitable operations. Some of these companies writing select or preferred risks charge a rate many times higher than the usual rate, and return the excess in the form of a large dividend at the end of the year. The fact that most mutuals deal directly with the policyholders through salaried employés also has some bearing on the amount of the dividend paid. Mutual companies have no capital, hence the assessments on all policyholders in the event the premiums collected are insufficient to cover the losses. Assessments vary with the type of company and class of business generally written. Under some companies the assessments are unlimited, and if necessary the policyholders could be held liable for the full amount of their assets. Most mutuals, however, limit the policyholder's liability to one additional premium. As defined by C. Carter Johnson, editor of the Insurance Bulletin, the assessment liability in the case of a mutual is the equivalent of the capital of a stock company. If the amount collected is not sufficient to pay the losses and expenses, the company will first draw on its surplus; if that is exhausted the policyholders are then assessed for their proportionate share of the amount needed. In a stock company the capital will be drawn upon in the same way. It is, of course, easier to draw upon paid in capital than upon policyholders for an assessment. While large mutuals may furnish first class indemnity, there are smaller companies organized by unscrupulous promoters that make it necessary for the prospective purchaser to make a careful investigation as to the company's strength and security, and also its organization.

FREIGHT RATES.

Mineral City, O., July 17.—It is reported that the railroad executives last week decided to ask for a 10 per cent advance in freight rates. This is their magnanimous contribution to a restoration of American business. The pension legislation and wage raises have struck terror in their hearts. They will complain bitterly against the government for these added expenses but will be discreetly silent on RFC loans which saved the biggest beneficiaries among them from receivership. The people undertook to save the carriers through RFC and were generous about it. The result is they are now public charges and railroad executives are smart enough to realize this.

This gesture toward higher rates is an act of empiricism quite like their request for 15 per cent advance [ex parte 103] in 1931. It is for trading purposes and to counteract growing sentiment for lower rates. It must not be passed over lightly, however, because out of the 1931 plaint the roads netted an increase in rates, whereas there should have been at least 30 to 40 per cent cut in heavy product rates at that time.

All railroad officials have done for three years is try to somehow keep solvent. Their distress is genuine and their plight difficult. Their morale is so low that these executives have not produced a single nationally constructive idea which has made the headlines in five years. I suspect it is time for the people to realize that the railroad burden is upon them. Restoration of trade in volume, which means reemployment of millions of men, requires a reduction of 35 to 45 per cent in freight rates on heavy and farm products. The leading railroad presidents of the country will admit this informally. The nation is faced with deciding how these rate reductions may be made. There is no alternative. CLOYD W. MILLER.

CONTRAST.

Rockford, Ill., July 13.—After reading in this morning's TRIBUNE about the negotiations of Vincent Astor with the government for $800,000 on rundown tenement property in New York City, which he should be ashamd to own in its present condition, I cannot help comparing this situation with the great losses which the government, through the HOLC, is forcing upon those of the ordinary run of human beings, who, because of a crying need for funds, must deal with this particular bureau. The mortgagee who has lent his money in good faith must take unheard of losses on it, while the mortgagor is put under a burden of debt to the government. In the meantime wealthy owners of rundown property in city tenement districts can make hundreds of thousands of dollars off government easy money when they should be accepting a loss. Of course Mr. Astor could afford to take the President on a delightful yachting party. Z. P. J.

FROM THE KANSAS WHEAT FIELDS.

Chicago, July 19.—I have just read a letter received by a friend of mine from a relative in the Kansas wheat fields. The writer of the letter is the wife of a small scale farmer. Perhaps some readers might be interested in the Kansas viewpoint, so I am quoting a couple of paragraphs verbatim:

"Wheat has been around 70 to 75 cents, but it was 82 cents yesterday, so M. contracted 200 bushels. The wheat market is too uncertain to let a price like that go by. You probably remember how it did last year at this time. We lost a lot by holding then.

"We lost over $300 by signing up with the government. I don't think that allotment plan should affect small farmers with only 100 acres of wheat. Look what the farmers with thousands of acres make; they are the ones who pile up the surplus. Every one has, or seems to have, their fill of Roosevelt here."

So have I. DISGUSTED.

SOME LAWS CAN'T BE ENFORCED; OTHERS CAN.

Oak Park, Ill., July 18.—I am very much impressed with your present naive faith in the enforcement of the law as revealed in your editorial, "Drunken Drivers." It is magnificent to see you do the giant flip. Two years ago the law against booze could not be enforced, but today if you work hard enough you will have the drunken drivers obeying the law. O, yeah!

MORGAN WILLIAMS.

THE TAX ON BICYCLES.

Chicago, July 12.—Fifty cents license on city bicycles urged by the city council; and please advise Ald. John Toman to sponsor a tax on baby carriages and children's roller skates, which will be a big revenue producer that he has overlooked.

In behalf of the children cyclists of Chicago Mayor Kelly should be thanked for his vetoing the bicycle tax.

HERMAN STENZEL.

VANDALS.

Chicago, July 13.—Since the recent drowning the officials of Lincoln park have installed a fence around the strip at the north end of Belmont harbor to prevent any more accidents of this kind. It is regrettable to note that vandals are tearing it down. Such acts of malicious destruction of public property and disregard for public welfare should be dealt with severely. Citizens who observe such atrocities should report them at once. MRS. CLAIRE KAY.

Mackinac Boat Race to Hold Interest Today

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE most exciting event on today's calendar is the Mackinac Island race, which starts at 4 o'clock from Belmont harbor. The Chicago Yacht club in the harbor will be the mecca for sail-racing enthusiasts who will be cheering from the ends of the docks and piers or from power boats, row boats, canoes, and small sailing craft, all milling about in happy confusion until the competing ships get well under way for the long trek to Mackinac.

The entries in the two divisions, sailing and cruising, and cruising's A and B sections, will start off at five or ten minute intervals until there is a long trail of ships heading north and east, and all of the boats, large and small, are started safely.

The trip takes from 45 to 110 hours to run, with an average somewhere in the 70s. The record of 28 hours 21 minutes and 51 seconds was established in 1911 by a boat named the Mavourneen.

Wives will feel a bit easier about their husbands' fate on this trip, for the United States coast guard cutter, Escanaba, will be patroling the course on the watch for accidents. Society's interests are divided between three outstanding boats, the Freedom, the Malabar X, and the Elizabeth, with the younger generation a bit on the side of the Elizabeth perhaps, for her crew is the more youthful one.

Sterling Morton, owner of the Freedom, will be her skipper. On her crew will be Malcolm D. Vail, vice commodore of the Chicago Yacht club; Mr. Morton's brother, Wirt Morton, and his young son, Carl Morton; L. Thomas Kelley, John Alden of Boston, the distinguished yacht designer; Clark Wright and Chester Faust.

John P. Wilson, the owner of the Malabar X., will not accompany the boat to Mackinac, but will join her there, going up by train. His son, John P. Wilson Jr., wil be on board, however, and so will his stepson, Albert Keep, William B. McIlvaine Jr., and Godfrey H. Atkin of Chicago, Roderick Stevens Jr., and Robert L. Garland of New York, and Charles Larkin II., of Buffalo.

Lynn A. Williams, owner of the Elizabeth, will be the senior member of a crew which includes his son, Lynn A. Williams Jr., Fuller Dean, and Frank Fowle.

Miss Scholle Only Woman Skipper.

Other boats entered in the race today are John T. and Albert O. Snite's Valkyrie; Commander Nathan Rubinkam's Rubaiyat; Robert P. Benedict's Bagheera, Joseph J. Butler's Benbow, and Miss Elizabeth Scholle's Picaroon, and, incidentally, Miss Scholle is the only woman skipper in the race. She has for her first mate and navigator Bob Smith of St. Louis, a well known sailor.

Because this is the 300th anniversary of Jean Nicholas Nicollet's trip of exploration through the Mackinac country there is quite a celebration going on up at the island. Gov. Comstock of Michigan, who is sponsoring the week's activities, has arranged for a formal ball to take place Wednesday for the yachtsmen and their wives, and there will be a banquet and a ball the next night for the governor.

Mr. Wilson Jr., is uncertain if his wife and sister, Miss Cynthia Wilson, will meet him at Mackinac, for they are staying at the Chicago club at Charlevoix and he does not know their exact plans. Mrs. Williams Jr., accompanied by Miss Veronese Beatty, will take the train up to Mackinac to meet her husband, and then with some eastern friends they will board the Elizabeth for a week's cruise.

Mr. Keep's wife, the former Isabelle Scott, will go over to Charlevoix from Kenilworth where she and Mr. Scott are staying with her parents, the Frederick Scotts, for the Scotts' usual summer reunion. The Langdon Hubbards [Emily Scott], and their children already are at Charlevoix.

Another well known Chicago boat is the Hope, owned by Theodore W. Robinson Jr., and his twin brother, Sanger P. Robinson, with William Brown Goltra a regular member of the crew. The Hope is not entered in the race because she has been shipped east to compete in Marblehead Race week at Marblehead Neck. The Hope has won 6 firsts and one second out of the seven races in which she has competed this year. Mr. Robinson Jr., probably will drive east next Saturday, or a few days earlier, to put the boat in condition and Mr. Goltra either will motor with him or drive down in his car a bit later. Sanger Robinson will be obliged to fly east to arrive in time for the races, which will start Aug. 4.

English Couple in City Today.

There won't be the usual Walker family reunion when the Earl and Countess of Portsmouth arrive in the city this morning on their way from their English home to their ranch at Sheridan, Wyo., for some of their relatives are away, but their niece and nephew, Mrs. John Paul Welling, and Charles M. Walker, are here.

Mrs. Welling doesn't know how long the Portsmouths will remain in Chicago but probably only long enough for a visit to the Fair for they always are in a rush to reach their beloved ranch in the Big Horn valley, where their younger son, the Hon. Oliver Malcolm Wallop, and his wife live.

When the Portsmouths reach Wyoming they will see the Samuel J. Walkers for they are out there now, visiting the Malcolm Moncreiffes on their ranch which is near that of the Portsmouths. Mrs. Moncreiffe and the countess are sisters.

The Portsmouths saw their niece, Mrs. James A. Field, in England before they sailed, for she has gone over to visit the Portsmouths' elder son, Viscount Leamington and his wife. Mrs. Walker Szukalska is at

THE saddest story of the week is "Nimrod's" story of the frustrated turtle. Ambling to the office one morning he paused before a little sea food restaurant on Sheridan road, and observed the windows. One was occupied by the usual gold-fish aquarium; the other held a large square tank which contained four largish turtles. As his shadow fell on the glass one of the turtles turned her adder-shape head toward him and thrust out, quicker than a wink, her two hind flippers. Curious as to what she could be guarding so jealously he looked more closely, and saw between those two posterior legs—an egg, fragile, broken, the yolk spilled. No warm sand to lay it on . . . no benencent sun to hatch it. Yet there she stayed, pitifully on guard, eying malevolently any possible marauder.

Launch Battle on Delinquency in "Little Hell"

Private and Public Groups Join Campaign.

Through its own leaders Chicago's notorious "Little Hell," a small area forming the back yard of the near North side's Gold coast, has started a social experiment intended to prevent juvenile delinquency.

First undertaken by the Lower North Community council whose executive committee is headed by Carroll H. Sudler Jr., the project now has the joint sponsorship of the state department of public welfare through the Chicago Institute for Juvenile Research, the Chicago Council of Social Agencies, and the Illinois Emergency Relief commission. The plan is also supported by the Juvenile court, probation officers and police. Additional trained workers have been assigned from sponsoring agencies to help the community's own leaders.

"The natural resources of the district—leaders, institutions, social, civic and church groups—are being used to make this community active in behalf of its own welfare," explained Joseph Lohman, director of the project. "Seven vacant lots have been cleared for playgrounds; churches, schools, and halls are being lent for meeting places and trips are being taken to parks, beaches and to A Century of Progress.

"This district [bounded by North avenue, Halsted street, Kingsbury street and Grand avenue] has always had a reputation for being unmanageable and from it has come a large percentage of the court cases of juvenile delinquency. With 85 per cent of the families dependent on relief the problem has become acute. Through the utilization of the district's resources, approximately 1,000 children are being reached through a 24 hour a day program every day of the week in 48 neighborhood clubs. A parent-teacher group has been organized with success to reach the adults."

The Lower North Community council was formed during the world war to act in emergency needs. Mrs. Felix Morrison is the council's executive secretary, with offices at 306 West Oak street.

"Crisis of Youth" Will Be Discussed at Meeting in City

Two days of round table discussions on "The Crisis of Youth" will be held in the Central Y. M. C. A. beginning Tuesday morning. The discussions are under the auspices of the international conference on Christian work.

It was announced that the crisis "relates itself to the fateful decay of saving home influences; failure of the Sunday school to connect youth with the church; inability of the church to attract youth to its altars, or to inculcate them with ideals powerful enough to raise youth above the sinister influences of atheistic communism."

Seek Special Symphony for City Pageant

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Composers here and elsewhere are being urged to pull their thoughts together for a composition of elaborate orchestral nature, and two outlets are being offered them.

Barnet Hodes, secretary of the drama of Chicago on Parade, the historical spectacle to be presented later in the season, sends word that Mayor Kelly is desirous of having a symphony composed for the occasion, and that a meeting to discuss the subject will be held in the Keep Chicago Ahead Civic committee headquarters on Monday afternoon.

The second opportunity would seem to have a direct connection with the present engagement of the Chicago Symphony orchestra at the Swift Bridge of Service, A Century of Progress. Swift & Co. announces a prize competition for compositions for symphony orchestra. Two prizes, one of $1,000 and one of $500, are offered by C. F. Swift, president of the company, and the winning composition will be played by the Chicago Symphony orchestra at Orchestra hall, Chicago, during the 1934-'35 season.

Information concerning the conditions of the contest may be obtained from the Musical Composition competition, care of Swift & Co., Union Stock Yards, Chicago. The deadline is Dec. 1.

The award will be made by a jury, the membership of which shall meet with the approval of Dr. Frederick Stock, conductor of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, and of which Dr. Stock shall be one.

BY PHEA SEEGER.

The smartest, most decoratively dressed women in Chicago are wearing, for outdoor dining and lunching, transparent dark sheers, mostly blue, brown and black, lavishly accented with clear white or pastel colored accessories.

At the Fair for cool days [yes, we have lots of them] you see some of the best looking knits of the year; clever, simulated hand knitted weaves in powder blue and soft old pink shades. For larger women there are some grand two and three piece knits in sapphire blue, navy, oxford, and black combined with white, eggshell, pale blue and ivory. These keep streamlines unbelieveably slim.

For Sunday night teas there are white, lacey knit outfits that look as cool as eyelet batiste -one piece, two, and three pieces, that also make particularly good buys for travelers. Others wear crinkled seersucker ensembles for a busy day dashing about the Fair.

Knowing young fashionables are wearing the adorable, deep swinging quilted taffeta capes for country club dancing. Ravishing affairs they are, in robin's egg blue, Chinese vermilion, ivory, clear white, and jade green. These flattering creations fit snugly over the shoulders and about the neck and hang way low and swinging around the hipline. Standup collars that just brush the ears complete their youthful charm. They are worn over billowing organdies, as well as chiffons, flowered silks and with dark or pastel colors.

Every one goes about in sandals, from the utterly lawless scraps that click merrily on the street, to the high heeled numbers in gay silks and fancy satins that slide gracefully over dance floors. Bright colored braided lether straps are intertwined in just a shell over a sole, and a leather covered heel for daytime wear. You can get them in scarlet, green, yellow, white, and combinations. White linen and pique sandals are trimmed with lether, and can be worn with afternoon cottons and evening gowns of sheer materials.

Last but not least, where ever you see a throng of fashion wise Chicago women, you see a sea of white caps, in reality, all the freshest, newest and most flattering of spanking white headgear—the coolest tops you can tilt over your eyes.

Good Morning!

An intelligently thought out and splendidly presented picture has been made from Somerset Maugham's greatest story, "Of Human Bondage."

A wonder that this book, written some twenty years ago and said to be an autobiography, has missed screening so long. Lovers of screen literature will welcome the movie warmly.

The novel, about the sensitive youth with a club foot who falls into the toils of a cheap and unscrupulous little waitress, is a thick one and it is amazing how well and faithfully the picture covers the story without seeming crowded nor too long.

The film starts at the time when Philip Carey, as a none too talented artist student, is persuaded by his master to give up art. He takes up the study of medicine.

In a small restaurant frequented by young would-be medics he meets the anemic, nasty natured Mildred, who, though she comes to a sad end, manages to mess up his life plenty before that time.

The book lays more emphasis than does the cinema on the inferiority complex resulting from Carey's misfortune—a complex which makes it difficult for him to believe that any woman of standing or discrimination could care for him.

It's a star in Leslie Howard's histrionical crown that he holds taut your sympathy and liking in a rôle where the hero is hampered by physical disability and a romantic preferment that arouses the observer's active distaste.

Bette Davis does a great piece of work as Mildred. She had excellent training under Arliss, with whom she played, you'll remember, and it shows up in her present portrayal. The meanest, commonest, most ungrateful huzzy, Mildred, with a cheap swagger and a passion to be considered a "loidy." When, at last, freed from his slavery, Philip flings out—"You disgust me!" your relief is, positively, stupendous.

I was much taken with the work of Reginald Owen, Alan Hale, Kay Johnson, and Frances Dee in supporting rôles. Also by direction, dialog, and staging.

Some have objected to the "conventional ending." Well, the book permits Carey a new, clean love that is to result in wedlock—so why not the picture?

The censors cut up about this fine movie—as they did about "Vergie Winters"—but finally agreed to pass it with several minor eliminations and an "Adults Only" ticket.

There seems to me no reason why the Legion of Decency shouldn't support "Of Human Bondage." Certainly it makes vice and vicious folk most unattractive and sees to it that "the wages of sin is death."

See you tomorrow.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Ye modern maid at her dressing table keeps in one drawer a box of spun cotton powder puffs, inexpensive and invaluable to the fastidious progress of beautification.

Enter the spun cotton puff.

It only costs a few pennies but it's a sound contribution to feminine grooming. If you're the fastidious woman who eternally sings the song of the clean powder puff you'll appreciate it. If you aren't—shame on you.

It's a funny thing, but it's been our experience that women en masse aren't yet educated up to necessity of the immaculate powder puff—or better yet, the powder dispenser that is used once and thrown away. Antoinette Donnelly and other beauty authorities have preached the gospel for years, pleading in particular with those women whose skins are prone to even occasional infection.

Not long ago the guest puff idea came out. You could buy almost a ton of the little squares for a small sum, and toss each one away after one using without feeling like a blooming plutocrat. But the guest puffs in their cellophane packets don't appeal to women as much as we thought they would; we don't know why, we just know that they're not gobbled off cosmetic counters as one would suppose they would be.

Now a huge company has launched cotton—the jack of all trades when you set about to beautify yourself—in a laudably usable form. There are five dozen individual round cotton puffs to a box, these in two sizes, one a little bigger than your thumb, the other a nice flat round affair. Our idea is that these should be in every guest room and every dressing room. You can use them for applying powder; as eye packs; with astringents; and for almost every cosmetic purpose. The round puffs are of the finest quality cotton, soft, clean, and absorbent.

You can carry a little bundle of the small ones wrapped in your purse and use a fresh one each time you brush up during the day. At your own dressing table both sizes will have a hundred useful purposes from removing nail polish to applying skin tonic. It's the most sanitary arrangement possible—and the cheapest to date.

Once you own a box you'll never lose the spun cotton puff habit—a builder of beauty if ever there was one. A Chicago shop carries them.

Her Husband's Fiancee

BY ELIZABETH YORK MILLER

SYNOPSIS.

Cecily Marshall returns after a year's absence to the home in Leichester, England, where she had lived with her husband, David Marshall, the city's leading merchant prince. Cecily had been a shopgirl at Marshall's. Beautiful Audrey Lowe, who had wanted David and his money herself, and her cousin, Reggie Davies, had contrived to break up Cecily's marriage. David believed Cecily unfaithful and won a divorce from her and the custody of their small child, Rose Ann. The child doesn't know the cause of her mother's long absence and grieves for her. Fearing for the child's health, Nanna, her nurse, writes Cecily. David, who is about to marry Audrey, is giving a dinner party for her when Cecily arrives. Nanna admits Cecily secretly. David stops in the nursery before retiring and sees Cecily sleeping beside Rose Ann.

INSTALMENT VI.

A MOTHER'S DESPERATION.

Nanna had said to Cecily: "You'll bide here the night, dearie. I wouldn't have a minute's peace of mind if you went out alone into this storm. At six o'clock, if you're not awake yourself, I'll waken you—and then we'll see what's to be done after that."

So Cecily had bided. Secure for the moment with her little girl in her arms, she did not allow herself to think of consequences. She was too tired, and so was Rose Ann. They were together again in a world of their own, and it did not seem to matter an atom to Cecily that she was an interloper. This was David Marshall's rooftree and once it had seemed to be hers. She had no right to be here where soon another woman would reign as mistress, but that didn't matter, either.

Tomorrow at six o'clock, perhaps Nanna would awaken to find both of them gone. After all, storms do clear away and it might not be raining in the morning. Also, Cecily had that little bit of money in reserve, and if carefully expended it would tide her and Rose Ann over a few months. Need one look too far ahead?

So she slept peacefully for the first time in a year and so did Rose Ann.

As he stood there looking at them, scarcely daring to breath, David's heart was contracted with pain.

This woman whom he had loved so well—this woman who had so cruelly betrayed him and who, he had vowed, should never again set eyes upon Rose Ann if he could help it, had wormed her way into his house again, and heaven alone could say what purpose was up her sleeve. As a matter of fact, David guessed her purpose even more surely than Cecily herself had conceived it.

What a lucky thing he had come in here tonight. Perfidious Nanna was in the plot, too. Did the other servants know? Were they all leagued against him?

His first impulse was to take her by the arm, waken her rudely and cast her out of his house at once. But that would have meant waking Rose Ann, too, and David's sense of cruelty did not extend to his beloved little daughter.

He felt his way backwards toward the door, closely attentive for any sign that Cecily had been disturbed. Now he was out in the passage again with the door safely closed and felt once more he could draw a full breath.

This was truly terrible. Something he had not remotely anticipated, although Mervin Branchard had warned him long ago that Cecily, stunned into submission at first, might prove to be a roused tigress before he was done with her.

David had laughed a little grimly at that simile. He felt that he was capable of dealing with a dozen such tigresses, if need be. He had the law on his side, and he had money, too.

But just now he felt extraordinarily weak—not mornlly, but physically. He went downstairs again to the disordered drawing room and drank all the whisky Fred Hollister had left in the decanter. Fortunately it was not a great deal, but there was enough to set a little fire running through his veins.

He lit a cigaret and began to pace to and fro, trying to decide upon a line of action.

Keep cool—keep cool—keep cool!

Thus admonished the David Marshall who held himself above all human mercy and charity where an erring wife was concerned. The other David was a craven coward and wanted to go all to pieces, fall on his knees and sob his heart out. Well, he wasn't listening to that one.

How had Nanna expected to come out of this little affair?

It was logical for David to transfer most of his fury to Nanna. Very likely she had instigated the whole business. Audrey was right about her. The old woman had been in the family so long, and she had always been fond of Cecily. She was counting upon her gray hairs and years of service to protect her, David supposed.

Had she forgotten so soon that when it came to treachery he, David Marshall, was no respector of persons. He had turned out his own wife, and a clumsy, lying old traitor of a servant could scarcely expect him to treat her more generously.

But with Rose Ann the harm had already been done. That was the devilish part of it. That was where those two women had proved themselves to be heartless fiends.

Rose Ann, that poor, helpless little bone of contention, was likely to be destroyed entirely by the selfish scheming of her mother and Nanna.

It was easy enough now for David to see what he had denied, that Nanna had spoiled and coddled and sentimentalized over Rose Ann to a deplorable extent. Kindness combined with firmness was needed now. Indeed, it had been needed from the first. They had petted Rose Ann and fairly s. led her with love, but that wasn't kind.

David did not go to bed that night, although he slept for a few hours on the couch in the stuffy, disordered drawing room—if you could call it sleeping. And toward morning the storm wore itself out.

At five o'clock he dragged himself up to his own quarters, had a bath, shaved and changed into a lounge suit. His face was pale, but there was no sign of weakness in those clear cut features. The Marshall nose and chin were famous for their strength, although some members of the family described it as obstinacy in the others. If Cecily hoped to find a chink in his armor she would be mistaken. He wasn't going to pay heed to any sob stuff from her or Nanna—nor from Rose Ann, if it came to that.

Craftily he waited in his room for signs of life in the house.

Though upset and driven half crazy by this new problem Cecily had presented him, David was still capable of coherent thought.

Cecily knew the habits of the house. The servants came down at seven o'clock and had tea in their sitting room before starting to work. At a quarter to eight David would be called and breakfast was served at 8:30.

In all probability Cecily would try to leave the house before seven.

His vigilance was rewarded. It wasn't yet six when he heard furtive movements from the west wing.

Cecily had used the back stairs to gain access to the nursery quarters and she would doubtless plan to make her exit by the same route—via the lounge and the side door leading from the garden room.

David went downstairs.

Meanwhile Cecily was having a desperate argument with Nanna, carried on with difficulty because of Rose Ann.

Rose Ann was in such a state of jubilation as had not been witnessed in many a long day. There was color in her cheeks and she was laughing and rollicking all over the place. She had taken her orange juice and her porridge and milk without a murmur—indeed, with almost an exhibition of greediness—although Nanna brought it in quite two hours before it usually appeared.

"My lamb, if you don't sit still, I can't put on your socks. . . . Dearie, I don't know what to say, I really don't. I'm all of a tremble now, and I'll be nothing but a jelly when Mr. David finds out."

"Poor Nanna, even if you are a jelly, he can't eat you," said Cecily. "Fetch her leggings. She can't go out with bare legs."

"Where are we going, mummy?"

"Just for a walk. Perhaps on a train. You'd like that, wouldn't you?"

"O yes, with you, mummy! Is daddy coming, too?"

"N-not this time," said Cecily.

"I wish he would," said Rose Ann.

Nanna tried again to dissuade Cecily from her determination to kidnap Rose Ann, but light was creeping up the sky with golden streaks to mark the rising of the sun, and Cecily was brave in her courage this morning.

Clean Movies Aid to Former Child Players

Dawn O'Day Is Now Young Leading Woman.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., July 20.—[Special.]—It's the juveniles' era in the movies. Shirley Temple's $1,100 a week, Jackie Cooper's reported $1,700, Mary Ann Johnson's start at 4 years of age on a seven year contract at $150 a week, Baby Leroy's contract at Paramount, Mickey Rooney's at Metro, and the vogue of Cora Sue Collins, Dickie Moore, David Jack Holt, George Breakston, and Spanky McFarland are only one of the developments—fortunate for these youngsters and their parents—of the clean film vogue.

But other child stars, the child stars of former years, are coming back, too. Dawn O'Day, once a child star, but now at 16 a young leading woman, has just been signed by Radio-R. K. O. for the lead in "Ann of Green Gables." She says she will change her name legally to a synthetic one which will sound more natural than her real name. Her new name will be Ann Shirley, name of the heroine in "Ann of Green Gables." Miss O'Day recently ended a part in "Finishing School."

Peggy Montgomery, now a 15 year old ingénue, has just finished a part in "Return of Chandu" at an independent studio. She used to be "Baby Peggy." Marie Osborne, who used to be "Baby Marie," is acting as Ginger Rogers' stand-in in "The Gay Divorce." Fred Astaire starring vehicle. And the way that Madge Evans, ex-child star, has made good as a leading woman in the last two years is movie history.

Pauline Garon, like Ida Lupino and Hal Rosson, has conquered an attack of infantile paralysis, and is back home from the county hospital.

Conchita Montenegro spent the day with Raoul Roulien at Catalina. She's from Seville, Spain, and he from Rio de Janeiro. They're two of the most popular in the film colony's group of adopted Latin sons and daughters.

The first film Shirley Temple will do when she gets back from her five weeks' vacation "between pictures" with her mother, Mrs. George Temple, will be "Bright Eyes." The 5 year old star will have Alice Faye, Virginia Loomis of the radio sister team, and Jimmy Dunn in support.

Mackinac Boat Race to Hold Interest Today

Otto Teegan Will Visit Fiancee.

When Otto Teegan, whose engagement to Miss Dorothy Schmidt, was announced a few weeks ago by her mother, Mrs. Frederick M. Schmidt, arrives in town today from New York he will be here for only a few hours because he and his fiancée are going to spend the week-end in Lake Geneva as guests of the Henry Bartholomays and Miss Schmidt's uncle, Dr. Otto L. Schmidt.

The Bartholomays' daughter, Mrs. Bartholomay Osborne, will give a dinner tonight in her parents' Lake Geneva home for Miss Schmidt and Mr. Teegan; and Dr. Schmidt, whose house adjoins that of the Bartholomays, has invited every one to his home tomorrow for Sunday dinner. Miss Schmidt and Mr. Teegan will return to Chicago Monday and Mr. Teegan will leave on the same day for New York.

Fowler-Taylor Wedding Today.

A Winnetka wedding of interest this afternoon is that of Miss Georgiana Fowler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lambert Fowler, to Robert Henry Taylor. The ceremony will be read before a large group of the relatives and many friends of the couple at 4 o'clock in Christ church by the Rev. E. Ashley Gerhard.

Miss Fowler will be attended by her sister, Mary Elizabeth Fowler, as maid of honor, and Edward Taylor, brother of the bridegroom, will be best man. Preceding the bride down the aile of the lovely old church will be Miss Katherine Roach of Winnetka, Miss Virginia Healy of Kenilworth, and Mrs. Alfred Plumley of Minneapolis. Ushering will be Winfield Jackson of Glencoe, Richard Sunderland of Winnetka, George Quinlan of Wilmette, and Charles Baumle of Burlington, Ia.

Following the ceremony, there will be a reception in the gardens of the Fowler home at 16 Warwick road, Winnetka. The bridge and bridegroom will spend their honeymoon at Charlevoix, Mich., and make their home in Davenport, Ia.

May Stillwell to Give Party.

One of the gayest parties of the season will be given tomorrow at the Shoreacres club, when Miss May Stillwell and her cousin, Stuyvesant Peabody Jr., will be host and hostess at a luncheon. Miss Stillwell has been feted royally ever since she arrived here from England to visit her uncle and aunt, the Stuyvesant Peabodys, and she is reciprocating tomorrow.

Mrs. Frank G. Logan, whose second book, still unnamed, is coming out in the fall, will be hostess at a musical intime at 8 o'clock tomorrow night in the Illinois Host house at the Fair. Mrs. Logan will give a short talk on "Evolution," and Ruth Lyon, soprano, and Mario Fierolla, baritone, will sing.

Prominent aquatic stars will combine with a variety of home talent to provide a truly festive air for the formal opening of the new Hinsdale club swimming pool tonight. A buffet supper will be served shortly after 7:30 o'clock and will be followed by the swimming and diving exhibition under the direction of Coach Brauniger of the Lake Shore Athletic club.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Thompson are leaving tomorrow for a month's visit in Estes Park with his brother, Martin Thompson.

Hollywood

BY SIDNEY SKOLSKY.

Hollywood, Cal., July 20.—Stuart Erwin, walking about the studio, looks more like a fellow getting ready to ask a star for an autograph than he does like a picture player.

He doesn't wear the makeup, he isn't garbed in flashy clothes, and he isn't taking and giving big hellos.

A quiet guy, he speaks up forcibly when he feels some one is trying to step on his toes.

He is one of the few who came to Hollywood and didn't want to be a movie star. He came here to be a stage star. He played in a number of Los Angeles and San Francisco attractions for five years until he received an offer from Fox Pictures.

In his first picture he worked five and one-half days and collected what he'd had to work five and one-half weeks on the stage for. He's been in pictures since. All desire to be a great stage star was left behind the footlights.

It was once a big desire. When going to high school in Porterville he worked at the town opera house as a stage hand just so he could be on the stage. He attended the University of California for a while, but left there, auctioning off his textbooks to get money to start a dramatic career. He even took a course in dramatic acting and one of his teachers was Irving Pichel, now in flickers.

He played in a number of stock companies. He appeared in Frisco for a year in the production of "White Collars." It had to run a year because of a lawsuit. If the producer kept the play running he acquired certain rights. But Erwin took any job connected with a play merely to be connected with the theater. He was company manager for the coast production of "Chicago," which featured two unknowns, Clark Gable and Nancy Carroll.

It was while acting in "Beggar on Horseback" here, acting all over the stage—he played five rôles—that the casting director for Fox offered him a job. He figured any one who could play five rôles in one evening could certainly play one rôle in a picture. He didn't know that Erwin was playing them because the troupe was short of actors for this large production and that others in the cast were also doubling and tripling.

Erwin is built like a farm hand. He stands 5 feet 9½ inches tall with his shoes on, his shoulders are broad, and he is always trying to keep his weight down. He now weighs 160 pounds. He has light brown hair, green eyes, and a mole over his right eye.

He has a temper which is hard to arouse, but when it comes out of its slumber he can swing a hard punch. He'd rather go around letting people alone and being alone. For a good time, when not working, give him a fishing rod, a long drive in an auto or a golf game. He is easily amused.

His ambition now is not to be a great picture star and favorite. He would like to be a great director. If he could direct a picture without interference from supervisors he'd quit acting and start directing tomorrow.

He has a slight blond beard that can hardly be noticed. He shaves twice a day sometimes. He can't stand fuzz on his face.

He prefers showers to baths and can't take a shave without taking a shower. He seldom shaves out, only if he knows the person well.

He is married to June Collyer. He first noticed her when they both worked at the Fox studio. Then he had only a nodding acquaintance with her. It was when they both appeared in the flicker "Dude Ranch" that they really met. Each complained to the other of the terrible rôle they had in the picture. The romance got started.

He seldom reherses a scene at home. He reads the scripts, forms an idea of the character he's to play, and then forgets about it until he gets on the set. He used to memorize lines. He soon discovered that this was difficult when working in a flicker, for when he arrived on the set he'd not only have to learn new lines just written but he'd have to learn to forget the lines he had memorized.

He hates to go to bed. He doesn't average five hours' sleep a night, even while working in a picture. While all stars go to bed early, he will just sit around the house talking, smoking, or reading. Anything to put off going to bed.

He sleeps in pajamas and wears what he bought, both parts. He sleeps in a twin bed. When he finally does go to bed he goes right to sleep. He hasn't any habits, such as reading or eating in bed.

Thin Eyebrow Gives Way to Natural One

Shape and Thickness Are Marks of Beauty.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELL.

A little more body to your eyebrow, you girls with the thin, pencil line!

That skinny line hasn't gone Mae West exactly, but it is not the thread line you cling to. There's warmth to the eyebrow, which means there must be a little fulness. Funny things some of you girls do to that beauty making feature of your face. Why should the thickness from the inner corner of the eye terminate abruptly over the center of the eye? It looks as if you got off to a good start and then floundered right in the middle of the race. Keep on a bit further with the thickened section, three-quarter of the way over the eye, and then fade out. But don't start sloughing off right where eyebrow interest is at its most interesting, meaning the arched middle. Let there be shape to the brow. And body to it. It's the only word that I can think of to convey my meaning.

A little eyebrow grooming trick, yes, and growing one, too, is to brush the hairs back toward the inner edges and brush them twenty times or more. Then brush them straight up as many times. Now, with your brush dampened with water or mascara, if you are tinting them, lay them smoothly. That bit of brushing and standing the hairs on end, so to speak, stimulates circulation beneath and is one of the confessed tricks of a professional beauty known to me.

When you're using the tinting pencil, use a light hand and brush the color over the top of the hair. This is the trick to make the false coloring appear the natural gift of the beauty gods. Press down heavily on the pencil and you can't avoid the artificial look.

If girls took literally the meaning of the word "shadow" in these preparations for the lids they'd come off more victorious. A shadow is all that should appear, not a smudge nor a blur. Just a delicate shadow that you can't put your finger on.

I observe that shadow does keep on being applied to the lower lids, in spite of the warning that it makes one look older and definitly artificial. The worldworn look will come soon enough, girls. Don't play with it now.

Sally to Announce Ball Game Guests in Tribune Tomorrow

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Suspense ends tomorrow, boys and girls!

The winners of invitations to our White Sox baseball party next week will be announced in Sunday's TRIBUNE.

Although I call our rules to your attention so often—there are still quite a number of you youngsters who just don't seem to pay any attention to them. If you don't forget to tell me how old you are—your address is missing—or you have some one else write the letter for you—so I have to discard your request.

Fifty of the boys and 50 of the girls who followed instructions, however, will find their names printed in my column tomorrow, and I know all the rest of you will be so delighted with our next party that you'll want to try again. So don't forget to watch for Sunday's TRIBUNE, youngsters, because you'll be missing plenty if you don't see it!

Invitations will be mailed to our winners—so if you can find your name in the list the mailman will be calling around to see you on Monday or Tuesday!

Married Siren Ought to Let Youths Alone

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Menaces to society? I know the ranks are overflowing with gangsters, kidnapers, and morons, but I'd like to put forth a prize candidate of my own. There are hundreds like her and, while they couldn't be labeled as public enemies, exactly, they're almost as deadly. They don't tote guns, and they don't kill, directly at least, but they poison and torture, with a cruelty that seems beyond human power.

Where's my evidence? Well, you act as the jury to determine whether this one woman, typical of many others, belongs to the moron class.

She's married [that's a prerequisite] and schooled in the arts of love. Using all the artifices of her sex, she has ensnared a young man of 21, 13 years her junior. And she's putting him through the torments of hell.

She encourages his caresses, she inflames his passion, she deliberately leads him on. She dangles him, just like a puppet on strings, for the thrill of seeing him suffer, motivated, probably, by sadistic tendencies. She listens impassively to his pleas that she come away with him, that she leave her husband. She lets him sob on his knees while she tells him she must be loyal to her husband.

Bah! As if loyalty meant anything to such a woman! She's interested only in the security her husband can give her, the security of a home and a husband, while she steals away on her nefarious pleasures of flirting with passion. And flirt with it is all she does. She's much too calculating and deliberate to let the passion away her. She won't weaken.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By B. HAL SIMS

Mr. Sims is universally acclaimed the greatest living contract and auction player. He is captain of the renowned "Four Horsemen" team of four, and has won twenty-four national championships since 1924. These articles are based on the Sims system, which includes the one-over-one principle which the Sims group of players was the first to employ and develop.

When possible to do so briefly, Mr. Sims will answer specific inquiries on contract that are addressed to this newspaper. Please enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

REBIDDING PROCEDURE OF NO-TRUMP BIDDER.

Yesterday we considered the case where the opening bidder had a concealed five card spade suit, and his partner's take-out was in clubs. This enabled the opener to rebid to two no-trumps and then, over three clubs, show his spade suit at the three level. Let us reverse these suits. Opener holds

Sp. K x Di. K x x
Hts. K 10 x Cl. A K Q x x

and bids a no-trump. His partner's response is two spades. Now it would not be advisable to bid two no-trumps, because if the partner is so weak that he has to bid three spades, it would not be possible to show the clubs at less than four, while three spades might be a much worse contract than three clubs. With this hand, therefore, you would have to surrender the advantage of a concealed suit and bid three clubs over two spades. Your partner should infer from this that:

First. You are not strong enough to aspire to three no-trumps if his take-out was on a weak hand.

Second. Your spade support is poor, since you judge that three clubs will be a better contract than three spades, again assuming, as you must at this point, that his hand and suit are both weak.

Responding Partner, Though Weak, May Now Hold the Key.

The responsibility would thus devolve on the responding hand whether to pass three clubs on general weakness, as with

Sp. Q x x x x Di. K x
Hts. x x x Cl. x x x

or rebid to three spades because of a six card suit in a weak hand without adequate support for your five card club suit; such a hand as

Sp. J x x x x x Di. x x x
Hts. Q x Cl. x x or to take you to three no-trumps with holdings such as

Sp. Q J x x x Di. Q 10 x
Hts. Q x x Cl. x x

One of his red queens should furnish a reëntry to bring in the spades after they are cleared. Success is not sure, but the chances for game appear better than even.

Bid More Boldly When You Can Stand a Weakness Rebid.

Had the opening bidder's spade holding been A x or K x x, he could well bid two no-trumps over two spades, as he would be willing to pass a weakness rebid of three spades. Add a queen to any of his suits and he would take the bidding to three no-trumps [after two no-trumps, three spades] without ever mentioning his club suit.

The Tournament Angle Once More.

Suppose the opener had

Sp. K x Di. K x x
Hts. K x Cl. A K Q x x x

if the bidding was one no-trump, two spades, two no-trumps, three spades, three no-trumps, four spades. In a rubber game, I suppose one would have to pass, knowing K x to be adequate support for a spade suit of manifestly at least six cards. However, in a tournament I would go to four no-trumps, looking to the long club suit to squeeze the enemy in the red suits or prepare them for an end play and thereby obtain as many tricks in no-trumps as in spades. If the clubs did not break it might be a disaster—but in tournaments one must take some risks. Moreover, if the opening lead were up to, instead of through, a red king, four no-trumps might be made, whereas four spades might be beaten.

Mint Jelly May Replace Herbs in Carrot Dish

Simply Add Few Spoonfuls to Cooked Vegetables.

"Let's Have a Picnic," a booklet of picnic plans, menus, and recipes, is on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street, Tribune Tower, and Hall of Science, A Century of Progress, for 3 cents. By mail 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address mail requests to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune.

BY MARY MEADE.

When you want minted carrots and the neighborhood store carries no fresh mint leaves, what do you do?

The S O S comes from Mrs. E. H. H. And the answer comes out of a glass of mint jelly. The resulting minted glazed carrots may not be quite the same as those prepared by the orthodox method, but by my yardstick they're just as delicious. The stunt is simply to wash, scrape, and cut the carrots into strips. Cover them with boiling salted water and cook for fifteen minutes. Then drain them and simmer them slowly until they are glazed and tender with a few spoonfuls of mint jelly and a small amount of butter. Season them with salt and pepper and a little fresh water, serving piping hot. You may have to experiment a little with proportions to tickle your exact taste, but any one of the experiments should be good enough to delight the diners.

And what is demi-glace, asks another writer-in? Simply meat extract, my friend, which may be purchased by bottle at any well stocked grocery store.

The business of mustard troubles the same ambitious cook. When the recipe calls for dry mustard and all you have on hand is the prepared kind, how do you substitute it? The answer can't be exact, I'm afraid, for different makes of prepared mustard are of different potency. However, the substitution is always possible unless the dish you are making should not include vinegar. Most jarred mustards have this acid in their make-up. In most cases it is safe to use approximately twice the amount of prepared mustard that is called for of the powdered seasoning.

Mrs. H. S. has a "wonderful recipe for cherry spice cake" which she sent THE TRIBUNE the other day. In fact, it's so good that there's never enough to go around, so will I advise her about doubling it? I will. My advice is—simply get out your multiplier and double each of the quantities exactly. Sometimes when we want to increase a recipe many times its original amount we have to make slight alterations in proportions. In this case it will not be necessary. Be careful in the mixing, since the increased quantity is slightly harder to handle. It will bake more successfully if placed in two pans rather than in one. Use a moderate oven and bake as directed in your original recipe.

From Mrs. H. R.: "What is a fruit duff?" The answer comes from old English cookbooks, for a duff was a favorite of the British cooks—a batter pudding, often including raisins or other fruit, which was poured into a wet bag and boiled until done. In texture it resembles a steamed fruit dumpling, though it may not be quite so light.

Band Organized by Relief Commission Gives First Concert

Playing to an invisible audience of 2,500 who lay on hospital cots, a concert band of former unemployed musicians made its debut last night in an open air concert at Cook county hospital. The musicians formed a band of thirty pieces a week ago under the sponsorship of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission to appear in county institutions.

The band shell was on the roof of a four story wing of the hospital. Semi-classical and popular music was played in a two hour concert. Alfred De Grazzia directed.

Pleasure over the concert was not confined to the patients alone, Dr. Simeon Wall, director of the music project, revealed.

"Every one of those musicians is happy to be back on a pay roll again," he said. "This is their first concert and it's a big success as far as they're concerned. Tomorrow will be their day off, then Sunday they resume their concert series at Oak Forest infirmary. They will play twice a week also at the Juvenile Detention home."

Composer Awarded Cross by Lithuanian Government

The Gedeminas cross, awarded by Lithuania for achievement, was presented to Anthony S. Pocius, composer, 3252 South Halsted street, yesterday by Antanas Kalvaitas, Lithuanian consul. In making the presentation the consul praised the composer for his service among Americans of Lithuanian descent and his compositions, many of which, he said, are keeping alive old Lithuanian folk songs. Mr. Pocius is musical director of the men's choir and organist of St. George church, an old Lithuanian parish at 3230 South Auburn street.

Parents Must Influence, Not Dominate, Child

They Cannot Determine His Destiny.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

A man's wife used to be his chattel—and his child and his ox and his ass.

All these things are changed. Now under the law parents cannot maltreat their children nor do anything obviously harmful to them in body or soul. The law as an expression of common humanity says, "you do not own this child."

Yet many children are owned by their parents. They may not be abused, but they are treated as a possession. As a case for the social worker there would be nothing to lodge a complaint about. Yet, to the interested observer living in that family, those children are seen to be bound and cramped — limited and warped by the constant exercise of their parents' power. "You are mine. For that reason you must do as I say."

You can't own your child. You can't own life—the life of another. Your child needs a loving caretaker, a guardian. And it is your privilege to help and guide and nourish and protect the body and mind and spirit—or however you wish to designate the whole child. For his good you must have authority. But that is not ownership. Your desire and duty must be to help your child to happiness and usefulness and health and maturity. But you don't own him just because you brought him into the world. You can't own him. He belongs to himself.

U. S. MARINES END 19 YEAR RULE OF HAITIAN REPUBLIC

Americans Bring Order Out of Chaos.

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, July 20.—After 19 years in the jungles and mountains of Haiti United States marines on Aug. 10 will wave good-by to this 130 year old republic.

Their mission—peace—accomplished to their satisfaction, the sea soldiers will turn their backs on memories of revolution, fire, and bloodshed.

The occupation has been the subject of much controversy. Some have charged the United States with establishing a dictatorship at the point of bayonets and of oppressing the people of the island.

Bring Chaos from Confusion.

When the marines landed the latter part of July in 1915 the president of the republic had just been murdered. Guillaume Sam, the slain chief executive, was one of the 24 presidents to serve in the previous 108 years. Seventeen were driven from office and two were assassinated.

In the words of a marine corps communique: "Events prior to 1915 had completely shattered the faith of the Haitians in their own government or that of any other nation. Disgruntled natives banded together in the hills and lived by the law of the jungle.

"Sanitation was unknown. Many of the highways were muddy morasses crossed by unbridged tropical streams. Education, except for the ruling classes, was virtually nonexistant. Hate, suspicion, and desperation were born of long years of struggling against conditions they seemed powerless to prevent."

Today Haiti is reported to maintain the order of a New England village.

Establish Native Constabulary.

Marines established a native constabulary, garde d'Haiti, to preserve peace. Officers were marines or qualified natives.

Haiti occupies 10,200 square miles of the 29,000 square mile island shared by the republic of Santo Domingo, and its 1,000 mile jagged coast line once sheltered pirates.

About 80 per cent of its 2,500 population lives in country districts, with the capital, Port au Prince, of 100,000 population, as center of activity.

Columbus discovered the island in 1492, and the racial stock comes from Negro slaves introduced by the Spanish in 1512. Frenc and English buccaneers occupied the island in the seventeenth century, and France later was in complete control. The slaves established a republic in an uprising in 1804.

30 TO 40 DROWN AS FLOOD WRECKS BRIDGE IN POLAND

WARSAW, July 20.—(AP)—Thirty or forty more persons in addition to the 120 known dead were believed to have been drowned in floods today when a bridge over which many persons were passing collapsed at Sandomierz. Eleven members of a military engineering squad were reported to be among the victims.

Soldiers plunged into the Vistula river, spanned by the bridge, to save peasants struggling in the swirling water. Many of the farmers were drowned, according to advices received here, because they persisted in trying to save live stock in the stream. Many had to be removed forcibly.

Airplanes today were delivering food and mail to the mountainous regions of southern Poland. The total dead was not yet known. Bodies were still being taken from the torrent which was rushing down the Vistula basin. Authorities estimated that only 10 per cent of the cattle in the stricken section survived. They said years may be required to repair the damage.

MAC DONALD GETS DOWN TO SERIOUS BUSINESS; RESTS

DIGBY, Nova Scotia, July 20.—(AP)—Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain got down to the serious business of resting today.

With his daughter Ishbel he arrived here after a voyage across the Bay of Fundy and set foot on Nova Scotia for the first time. The couple will remain in a cottage overlooking the basin waters for about two weeks while the prime minister seeks the return of good health. Later they will visit other portions of the Canadian maritimes.

A large crowd cheered as the prime minister and his daughter left the steamer which brought them from St. John, N. B. Angus L. Macdonald, premier of Nova Scotia, met the other MacDonald in the ship's saloon and was prepared to greet his fellow Scot in ancient Gaelic. This effort to make the Scottish born prime minister of Great Britain feel at home was a failure, however. The latter could not understand the language.

WOULD-BE RULER OF TINY ANDORRA SEIZED BY SPAIN

BARCELONA, Spain, July 20.—(AP)—The pretender to the throne of the little state of Andorra, who has been fighting a battle with handbills in which he calls himself "Prince Boris I," was arrested today at Seo De Urgel and is being brought to Barcelona on a charge of disturbing the peace.

The authorities acted after several months of indifference toward the proclamations of the man, who is really Boris de Skossyness, a Dutchman. Unless he promises to behave in the future, the authorities said, Boris will be deported.

A formal note was issued by headquarters of the Traditionalist party stating that Boris had no claim whatever to the Andorran throne, "despite his many proclamations and his army of 10,000 handbills."

Man in Jerusalem Freed in Jewish Official's Murder

JERUSALEM, July 20.—(AP)—The Court of Appeal today acquitted Abraham Aaron Stavsky of the murder of Dr. Chaim Arlosoroff, Jewish agency executive, shot June 16, 1933, in Tel Aviv.

INDIAN RUNNER FAVORED FOR 3D STAKE VICTORY

Runs in Arlington Handicap Today.

*J. W. Parrish entry.
†Brookmeade stable entry.

BY FRENCH LANE.

There is a big job ahead of Indian Runner, 5 year old star of the handicap division in America, if he is to win the $10,000 Arlington handicap this afternon and become Arlington Park's first triple stakes winner.

Twelve were named overnight to go in the mile and a quarter contest. There isn't a handicap horse of note in the country, now in condition to run, that is missing from the lineup. Equipoise and Ladysman are the most noticeable absentees, and both of these speedsters are out of commission.

Last night Indian Runner was held as the favorite at 8 to 5, and it wasn't his older rivals which were coming in for a lot of support to beat him. Instead, backing developed for the 3 year old contenders for the prize which will have a gross value of slightly more than $13,000.

Formidable Brookmeade Trio.

The 3 year olds considered dangerous were the Brookmeade pair of Time Clock and Good Goods and Warren Wright's Hadagal, which ran such a smashing race to be third in the Classic stakes of a week ago.

The Brookmeade 3 year olds will have Inlander, Classic winner of last year, as a running companion if the track is muddy. In the overnight betting this entry was the second choice at 4 to 1.

Hadagal's Chicago admirers were so numerous that his overnight price was 5 to 1. His backers were so noisy there is an indication he may be the second choice at post time.

To become a triple stakes winner—he already has accounted for the Inaugural handicap and the Stars and Stripes—Indian Runner must answer the question some have raised regarding his ability to carry his speed for a mile and a quarter.

His Longest Assignment.

Never before has Indian Runner been asked to run so far. He has won with such ease at a mile and a furlong, however, that his route running ability has been taken for granted in many quarters. His stable connections are confident the distance will not stop him, and they believe a victory in this race is all that is needed to establish him at the top of the handicap division now that Equipoise and Ladysman have become disabled.

Indian Runner has come up to the race in excellent condition. Reports of lameness, which preceded most of his good efforts last year, are missing this season. This may be due to the fact that Indian Runner has not been campaigned as hard as he was last year.

Among the older rivals of Indian Runner the most dangerous, according to the betting, is Watch Him, which races for Mrs. John Hertz. This fellow surprised the big handicap day crowd at Arlington a year ago by running a powerful race and being second to Equipoise.

Parrish Entry 15 to 1.

A long shot entry coming in for some consideration was New Deal and Howard, the representatives of J. W. Parrish of Midway, Ky. Hadagal took care of this pair in the Classic in such a handy manner that they were rated at 15 to 1 in the betting.

The Arlington handicap was first run in 1929 with Misstep the winner. The next year Pigeon Hole was the winner, and in 1931 Sun Beau, then in his prime, accounted for it. In 1932 came the biggest upset in the history of the race when the lightly weighted Plucky Play defeated Equipoise in a stirring finish. Last year Equipoise was at his best, put on one of his famous stretch runs, and was a fairly handy winner.

Eight candidates for the $60,000 Arlington Futurity, to be run a week from today, meet this afternoon in the Oakton purse. Another race, the Prospect handicap at seven furlongs, will bring together the best field of sprinters that have come together this year in Chicago. Bar Swallow, from Col. Edward R. Bradley's stable, was the favorite.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The White Sox came up with a rarity yesterday, but it took them 13 innings to turn the trick. They whipped the New York Yankees in a dizzy struggle, 7 to 6, making their third triumph in a dozen starts against the ex-champions this season.

For heroes of the occasion you can take your pick from Jocko Conlan, Luke Appling and Phil Gallivan. Gallivan stepped into the party in a relief role in the ninth just after a homer with one on had snatched away a two run Sox advantage. Phil went through to the finish on a yield of one hit. Conlan's contribution was a single with which he opened the 13th. Dykes bunted him to second. Bonura popped out. Simmons was purposely passed, although he had been a hitting dog all afternoon, and Appling then broke up the game by singling to right to send Conlan home with the deciding tally.

Starts Like a Rout.

The affair started off as if the Yanks were going to make it decisive and snappy. They landed on old man Sam Jones for three runs in the opening inning because Lou Gehrig hit his 25th homer of the year. Later Frankie Crosetti whacked one out of the park with the bags empty. That made it 4 to 0, and the Sox were making so little impression on the pitching of Johnny Broaca, the Yale graduate, that the margin seemed doubly ample. But the benefitmad collegian eventually ran into a bundle of grief and was dismissed from the show.

For six innings Broaca restricted the Sox to four hits. In the seventh they doubled this portion and along with the cluster of four hits the Yankee youngster tossed in a couple of passes. This assortment fetched in four runs and a tie. Another Sox blast was turned loose against Jimmy Deshong in the eighth and a two run lead grew from this. Then a homer by Earl Combs with one on while Joe Heving was working in the ninth restored the deadlock, which wasn't dissolved until the Sox finally assaulted Charley Ruffing, who had bothered them considerably since the ninth.

Jones in Trouble at Start.

The carnival at Jones' expense in the first inning opened with Combs' single to center. Saltzgaver fouled to Madjeski, but it was quite a stretch

27 YACHTS BEGIN 331 MILE RACE TO MACKINAC TODAY

Leave Belmont Harbor at 2 o'Clock.

After weeks of preparation, 27 skippers last night announced all in readiness for the long grind to Mackinac Island, which starts from Belmont Harbor at 2 p. m. today. Skippers and crews of the first three boats in each of the three classes will receive awards. Thus, one-third of the fleet of 27 windjammers will receive prizes, in addition to several special trophies.

THE TRIBUNE'S radio station, W-G-N, will broadcast weather reports to the contestants, it was announced last night at the final meeting of skippers at the Chicago Yacht club. These weather broadcasts, so vital to the safety and the speed of a sailing yacht, will be sent out periodically over W-G-N's regular wave length of 720 kilocycles.

Alden on Freedom.

W-G-N also will broadcast news of the first boats to be sighted at Point Betsie, first landfall in the run to Mackinac. Point Betsie is 203 miles from Chicago, on the Michigan shore. The first yacht crossing the finishing line at Mackinac also will be identified over W-G-N.

John Alden, one of the country's foremost yacht designers, will be aboard Sterling Morton's 89 foot schooner, Freedom. Roderick Stevens, one of Alden's contemporaries, also is deserting the salt water of the Atlantic to sail to Mackinac.

John T. Snite's 47 foot cutter, Valkyrie, will be the only craft of its kind in the race. The Valkyrie, the largest cutter on Lake Michigan, recently won the William Faurot trophy to Waukegan and back.

The Escanaba, largest coast guard vessel on Lake Michigan, will accompany the windjammers on their 331 mile journey northward. It docked in Chicago late last night. The Escanaba is 165 feet in length and Diesel powered.

Cruisers Race for Cup.

The cruising division will be racing for the famed Mackinac Cup, first offered for competition in 1906. The race to Mackinac island dates back to 1898. The Chicago-Mackinac trophy, donated by Commodore George Woodruff, will be the goal of skippers in the racing division.

It is doubtful if the record made in the 1911 race by the 100 foot schooner Amorita will be broken, Amorita's elapsed time for 331 statute miles was 31 hours 14 minutes 30 seconds. At times the yacht was sailing over 16 statute miles per hour. This speed is better appreciated when compared with the sloops built for the America's cup, world sailing supremacy. These yachts at their best travel only 13½ miles per hour.

FREEDOM—Sterling Morton, Wirt Morton, Carl Morton, L. T. Kelly, John Alden, Malcolm D. Vail, Clark C. Wright, Henry G. Grebe, G. C. Hardy, Chester Faust. [Professionals: O. F. McIntyre, Bob Schwartz, M. Fowler, S. Clupp, Jack Framknecht.]

MALABAR X.—John P. Wilson Jr., Roderick Stephens Jr., R. L. Garland, C. Larkin II., G. H. Atkin, W. P. McIlvane Jr., Albert Keep. [Professionals: P. F. Arlen, Paul Jonasson, Knute Knutson.]

GAVIOTA—William S. Ahern, Carl Harvey.

Talking It Over

BY ARCH WARD.

WHEN Northwestern plays Notre Dame in football Nov. 17 it will rely heavily on Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, an end, to stop the flank assault of William Shakespeare, Notre Dame half back. . . . Longfellow, 6 feet 3 inches tall, is expected to replace Ed Manske on the Purple line. . . . Whitlow Wyatt, White Sox pitcher, has a piece of chipped bone floating loose in his right elbow, but it doesn't bother him. . . . The condition frequently results from throwing curve balls. . . . Red Faber was operated on for similar ailment. . . . So was Charley Robertson, who won everlasting fame by pitching a no-man-reached-first-base game for the Sox against the Tigers on April 30, 1922. . . . Jack Doyle, Cub scout, has been trailing Joe Di Maggio, San Francisco outfielder, for two weeks and is said to be ready to recommend his purchase. . . . Di Maggio last year hit safely in 63 consecutive games. . . .

WHITLOW WYATT.

RED FABER.

Joe Skladany, University of Pittsburgh football player who is leading all candidates for end in the nation-wide poll to determine a college team to meet the Chicago Bears Aug. 31, will bring his bride with him when he reports for practice Aug. 15. . . . The wedding will take place in August. . . . Max Baer maintained a seven room suite for relatives at a hotel in Asbury Park, N. J., his training base, until a few days ago. . . . Baer's training enclosure on the shore at Asbury has not been disturbed since he abandoned it on June 10. . . . Mickey Cochrane of the Tigers remarked after the All-Star game at the Polo Grounds that he never had caught a pitcher who had such wonderful control as Mel Harder, the Cleveland hurler who held the National league sluggers to one hit in the last five innings.

President John Heydler of the National league has warned Frankie Frisch, manager of the Cardinals, whom he has fined $100 twice this year, that one more outburst will bring a suspension. . . . Gene Mako, intercollegiate tennis champion, is one of the best table tennis players in the country. . . . Charley Ruffing, Yankee pitcher, got Willie Rogell of the Tigers a membership in the Nakomis, Ill., volunteer fire department last winter and at the first fire Rogell attended he fell through the roof of a house after the blaze had been extinguished. . . . Charley Beach, founder of Olympia Fields Country club, was one of the pioneers in establishing grand opera in Chicago. . . . George Stainback, Cub outfielder, bought a diamond engagement ring while the club was en route east and has been worried sick lest some slicker take it off him before he gets an opportunity to make the big presentation. . . . Andy Lotshaw, who has a burglar proof locker trunk for player valuables, keeps the gem during the games.

Bill Tilden's purpose in going to Europe, according to Ellsworth Vines, is to sign up and bring back with him to America Hans Nusslein, German star. . . . Professional tennis needs new players if it is to be kept alive. . . . San Francisco is bidding for the 1938 public parks tennis championship tournament. . . . Ping Bodie, once a major league home run slugger, is manager of the Hollywood Knights in the Los Angeles Softball league. . . . He heckles umpires just as enthusiastically as he did in his big league days. . . . Adolph Kramer, president of the Ravisloe Country club, is nationally known as a judge of bulldogs. . . . Four former Cubs played for the Phillies in the first game of the current series—Gink Hendrick, Johnny Moore, Dolph Camilli, and Snipe Hansen. . . . The Rev. Charles C. Miltner, C. S. C., dean of the college of arts and letters at Notre Dame, is a cousin of Charley Gehringer, the Tigers' heaviest hitter. . . . Father Miltner is an 80 golfer.

Ten Years Ago Today.—Yankee athletes were leading the Olympic games with 80 points. . . . France was second with 40. . . . Helen Wills and Vincent Richards won the Olympic singles titles.

AMERICANS OPEN DAVIS CUP PLAY WITH AUSTRALIA

Battle for Right to Meet England.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WIMBLEDON, England, July 20.—The United States will meet Australia tomorrow in the final interzone match of the Davis cup series on the famous Wimbledon courts. The winner of the series will oppose England, defending champion, for the trophy.

After the final practice today Norris Williams, nonplaying captain of the American squad, expressed confidence of an American victory. Frank X. Shields and Sidney B. Wood and the doubles team, George M. Lott Jr. and Lester R. Stoefen, will give the United States a 3 to 2 victory, Williams said.

Shields Meets Crawford.

The first match on tomorrow's program will bring together Shields and Jack Crawford. Shields is the ranking No. 1 player in the United States, while Crawford holds the top position in Australia. The other singles contest will be between Wood and Vivian McGrath, young Australian star.

The Americans, particularly Shields and Wood, appeared in perfect condition during today's workout. Lott and Stoefen, who lost to Shields and Wood in a doubles match yesterday, worked out more strenuously.

The prediction of victory for the United States is based on the brilliant showing of the players during the all-England tournament at Wimbledon several weeks ago.

Czechs Press Aussies.

The Australians were not very impressive in their match against Czechoslovakia. The Aussies finally triumphed, however, 3 matches to 2, to gain the final round and the right to oppose America.

The doubles contest will be played Monday, Lott and Stoefen being pitted against Crawford and Adrian Quist. The final singles matches will be played Tuesday, Shields playing McGrath and Wood meeting Crawford.

POLISH PLAYER WINS.

WARSAW, Poland, July 20.—(AP)—L. Hebda of Poland defeated Haevart of Belgium, 0-6, 6-3, 6-2, 8-6, in the 1935 Davis cup tennis eliminations between the two nations today. Tloczynski of Poland was leading De La Croix, 6-3, 6-3, 6-6, in the second match when darkness forced a halt until tomorrow, when the doubles also will be played.

All-Star Game Selection Made by Sam Barry

Los Angeles, Cal., July 20.—[Special.]—Sam Barry, assistant football coach and head basketball coach at the University of Southern California, cast his vote today in the poll to decide the makeup of the all-star college team which will encounter the Chicago Bears Aug. 31 at Chicago. He made his selections from among players whom he saw in action last season.

Barry picked Cliff Montgomery of Columbia for quarter back in recognition of the generalship and passing ability which he displayed on New Year's day when he piloted his team to victory over Stanford.

The lineup of Barry's team follows:

Ends—Palmer, Southern California, and Smith, Washington.
Center—Youel, Southern California.
Quarter back—Montgomery, Columbia.
Half backs—Wilson, St. Mary's, and McNeish, Southern California.
Full back—Griffith, Southern California.

WILLIAM PICKENS, SPORT PROMOTER, DIES ON COAST

Los Angeles, Cal., July 20.—(AP)—William Hickman Pickens, 60 years old, sports promoter, died today of blood poisoning caused by stepping on a rusty nail. He was promotion manager for the Ascot Speedway here in 1924. Later, with C. C. Pyle, he organized a touring troupe of professional tennis stars. Pickens also sponsored an American tour for Paavo

In the WAKE of the NEWS

EARLIER CHICAGO.

DEAR WAKE: Prior to 1896 all offices in the city hall had different telephone numbers. The phone company then decided to have one number for all departments. So I distinctly remember when "Main 447" was opened on a Saturday morning in 1896.

I was placed in charge of this busiest switchboard in Chicago at that time and operated it alone for seven years, enjoying every minute. Carter H. Harrison was mayor; William Loeffler, city clerk; Joe Kipley, chief of police; Bobby Burke, oil inspector; Lawrence McGann, commissioner of public works; Alex Campbell and Si Mayer, secretaries of police, and Denis Swenie and Jim Horan, heads of the fire department. All were so nice to me.

And perhaps the busiest phone of all was that used by newspaper reporters covering the city hall. Among the reporters whom I remember were John Kelley, for many years with the Herald and afterward with THE TRIBUNE, now retired on pension; Warren Phinney of the Journal, Frank Tobin of the News, and Larry Coffey of the Hearst papers.

It seems a long time ago, for now I have a son and daughter, 26 and 23 years old, respectively, the latter a teacher in the public schools.

Mrs. Mueller.

The stone used in building the residence, lately wrecked, of the late John V. Farwell, Michigan and Pearson street, was obtained from the Presbyterian church at the northeast corner of Washington street and Wabash avenue that was destroyed in the 1871 fire. John B. Fergus also built two of three stories of his Rogers Park residence of stone from the same wrecked church.

The ol' swimmin' hole was at the foot of Indiana street, now Grand avenue. We boys used to hide our clothes in the lumber piles thereabouts. If we failed to leave a guard to summon us to the rescue, "tough boys" would either steal our clothes or tie them in hard knots, so we had many fights.

Dr. A. M. Hall, who died within the year, was a brave and gentle boy, champion of boys' rights. A fine swimmer, he once saved my life by going out into deep water after me and towing me ashore after I had been attacked by cramps.

Cones.

The smoker loves his cigaret,
My hound hog whines for bones;
But somehow I cannot forget
My taste for ice cream cones.
My doctor calls them nourishing
In most emphatic tones
With vitamins most flourishing
And minerals for my bones.

I dreamed I was in Fairyland,
Where magic rules supreme,
While bushes bore on every hand
Great roses of ice cream.
I've conquered many early sins,
But, wayward, still am prone
For just as soon as day begins
I hanker for a cone.

Sports Equipment.

In the midst of a marked slump in business, which one naturally hopes may prove no more than seasonal, manufacturers of sporting goods, especially golf and tennis equipment, report prosperity. Sales of many standard articles are double and triple the volume of a year ago.

Speaking to The Wake, a representative of a leading dealer said: "While we are by no means up to the peak of prosperity years we are much encouraged after lean 1933. Both men and women are buying more golf and tennis goods than a year ago. What is most surprising is that they are purchasing the higher priced merchandise. Just at present we have not a single set of a popular brand of matched irons in our retail stock. More are coming from the factory, but we don't know when. These irons sell at $75 for sets of 9, $50 for sets of 6, but golfers apparently are willing to pay the price. Higher grade tennis rackets sell better than the less expensive makes. Possibly it won't last, but we hope so."

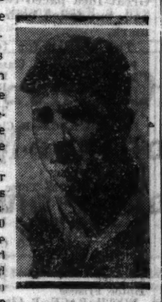
RAIN HALTS CUBS IN PHILADELPHIA; 2 GAMES TODAY

Downpour Washes Away 1-0 Lead in Second.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., July 20.—A cloudburst, which had been suspected even by the weather man, broke loose in the second inning of today's game between the Cubs and the Phillies. As a result a double header will be played tomorrow. Jim Weaver and the Cubs were in possession of a 1 to 0 lead when the downpour started with one out and Johnny Moore on first in the home half of the second inning. After the storm the skies cleared, but Umpire in Chief William [One Mistake] Klem inspected the playing area and proclaimed it too soaked for immediate baseball purposes.



JIM WEAVER.

Kiki Misses a Hit.

The rain not only swept away the Cubs' one run lead, but it took singles away from Cuyler, Hartnett, and Grimm. This was especially sad for Cuyler. Ki had almost forgotten the feel of a base hit during his current journeyings. He has batted .158 on the present trip and has been suffering greatly.

With one out in the second inning Ki got the hit that isn't a hit any more and stopped at second on Hartnett's smash to left. He scored when Grimm singled to left. Hack forced Grimm and Weaver fanned to end the Cubs' offense for the day.

Weaver and Lee.

Weaver, in quest of his seventh straight Cub victory, probably will go back again tomorrow, with Bill Lee assigned to work in one of the games. Lee also will be looking for his seventh victory, as compared with five defeats. Collins, who started today, the possessor of 10 triumphs, also may go back tomorrow. Curt Davis, winner of 12 decisions, is scheduled to work one of tomorrow's contests.

Guy Bush, star right handed pitcher who has been suffering from an infection which started in his right ear a week ago, will leave for Chicago tomorrow morning. Earlier today Guy had announced he was feeling better and asked to remain with the team in the hope he could pitch one of the games in Brooklyn. If his condition improves he will rejoin the team in Cincinnati a week from tomorrow.

Lon Warneke, who pitched the last two innings against the Phils yesterday, has been nominated to pitch the series final here Sunday.

ADVANTAGE WINS FOR COUGHLIN; PERILS RECORD

Alderman's Entry Pays $11.72 at Arlington.

For the first time this season at Arlington Park the appleblossom silks of Ald. John Coughlin were carried to victory yesterday afternoon.

Despite its long absence from the winner's circle, the First warders recognized the jacket and let loose with a shout that almost ripped the roof off the big mutuel betting garden in the grandstand section.

Advantage, a son of Carlaris-Betty Ames, a home bred from the alderman's nearby farm was the fellow who raced so gallantly. He trimmed some of the most highly regarded juveniles at Arlington and won by two lengths from Western Boy and Flight of Gold.

This big chestnut appears to be a real race horse and has shown improvement in every start. He ran the five furlongs in :59 1-5, within less than a second of the track record. In the betting he paid $11.72.

Another band of fleet 2 year olds clashed in the fifth race and Hope Eternal, from the barn of R. A. Firestone, son of the rubber magnate, was a handy winner by four lengths. Lovesick and Kissinbug finished second and third.

This was a top grade claiming race and Hope Eternal found a new home after her victory. T. C. Worden of Chicago dropped $3,250 into the claiming box and took away the daughter of Eternal-Balance Sheet.

"Well, I'll bet $10,000 that Indian Runner can beat Cavalcade at a mile at weight for age," he told one of the trainers, who had indicated he didn't think Indian Runner belonged on the same race track with Cavalcade.

Mose Goldblatt, the horseman from Cincinnati, who trains a division of the Whitney horses, was at Arlington yesterday to see his recently signed jocky, Dublin Taylor, perform before the metropolitan crowd.

Dublin did well in all of his efforts and won on Chartres after bringing him from far back on the turn into the stretch.

Goldblatt, who has developed such riders as Parke, Dominick, K. Russell, G. Elston, and a half dozen others, is of the opinion Taylor is the best apprentice ever to ride for him. Most of the Goldblatt horses are quartered at Hawthorne, but a number of them will fill engagements at Arlington next week.

Hyman, the veteran selling plater from William Schmidt's Superior stable, won the mile third race yesterday and made a lot of folks from Chicago's northwest side happy. Hyman has been showing great speed all season but this was only his second victory. Hyman paid $10.30 in the betting and wound up a daily double paying $47.12.

SMITTY—THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN

Grand Circuit Pacer to Race at Trot Club

McAllister, Grand Circuit pacer, has arrived at the Chicago Trotting club at River road and North avenue to participate in the feature race of the week-end, the A class pace tomorrow.

Another feature on the week-end card is the driving of Lady Claire by Mrs. Forrest Burright, one of the leading woman drivers of the country. Mrs. Burright has been driving harness horses for more than 25 years and comes from a long line of race drivers as well as having sons and grandsons who are outstanding drivers and jockies.

This evening's card, which starts at 9 o'clock, will have large fields containing many horses which have never been seen before in Chicago. In addition to the A class pace on tomorrow afternoon's card, a great deal of rivalry has developed among the amateur drivers in the Matinée trot. Fred Schmidt and Leo Huff, both prominent in Chicago business circles, together with Tom Barton of the Union stockyards; Monie Waixel, one of the middle west's leading harness horse enthusiasts, and George Engle, the leading sportsman of Indiana Harbor, Ind., will vie for honor in another thrilling and exciting matinée trot.

The Great Idea, guideless pacer, will make another attempt to lower his track record of 2:05 for the Fair Grounds track on tonight's card. The Great Idea paced two miles last weekend, but failed both times to near the mark.

METCALFE WILL RUN TOMORROW AT OGDEN PARK

Ralph Metcalfe of Marquette university will compete tomorrow in the first annual track and field carnival sponsored by Division 13, Ancient Order of Hibernians, at Ogden park, 65th street and Racine avenue.

In addition to Metcalfe track stars who will compete are John Brooks, formerly of the University of Chicago, holder of the intercollegiate record in the broad jump; Faherty, Irish national champion at 5,000 meters; Bill Mihalo, long distance walking champion; Al Harris, sprinter from Ogden park; James Shanahan, Central A. A. U. champion in the 56 pound weight throw; Clay Chisum, state high jump champion; Harold Longman, state champion at 880 and one mile; Dick Ruiz, 440 title holder, and L. C. Dreyer, national 5,000 meter champion.

Among women stars entered are Tidye Pickett of Ogden park, who two weeks ago took first in the 60 yards, second in the 80 meter hurdles, and set a new Canadian record of 18 feet 1½ inches in the running broad jump in the Canadian games at Toronto, Canada; Annette Rodgers of Lincoln park, who took first in the 100 yards and third in the 60; Dorris Anderson, who took second in the high jump and 60 yards respectively, and Mary Terwillinger, who was second to Miss Rodgers in the 100 yards. In addition to the above performances the four girls set a new Canadian record in the 400 meter relay.

BREEDERS EXPECT BETTER PRICES FOR YEARLINGS

Lexington, Ky., July 20.—(AP)—Thoroughbred yearlings who have romped over Kentucky's blue grass pastures this summer are being groomed for the annual sales at Saratoga, N. Y., next month.

Scores of thoroughbred horse breeders who are preparing the finest of their colts and fillies for the trip to the famous eastern resort are hopeful of a better market this year.

Prices paid for fine race horses slumped four years ago along with the market for other products. Breeders then found it difficult to make expenses on their annual trip to the eastern market. In the last few years, however, they have noted an improvement.

With increased interest in racing, more states legalizing betting and new tracks springing up throughout the country, an even better market is expected this year by horsemen.

GIANTS PILE UP 7 RUNS IN 4TH; BEAT REDS, 11-5

Si Johnson Is Routed by New York Batters.

New York, July 20.—(AP)—The weather came to the rescue of the Giants today when they seemed about to suffer the indignity of a drubbing from the Reds, and when they finished they had another victory, 11 to 5, and their lead over the second-place Cubs was increased to 3½ games.

The league leaders were trailing 4-0 when a storm struck and delayed the game an hour. During the wait Si Johnson, the Reds' sturdy pitcher who had given only one hit in three innings, cooled off. When he resumed his duties the Giants smacked him off the hill to score seven runs in the fourth and put the game on ice.

Ott Hits Homer.

Mel Ott rapped his 23rd home run of the year in the fifth to equal last year's total for the full season and to drive in his 98th run of the year.

Ray Kolp, Ted Kleinhans and Don Brennan followed Johnson on the hill for the Reds. The New York pitchers also had their trouble. Leroy Parmelee, who took a pounding in the early innings, didn't continue after the rain. Joe Bowman followed him but gave way to Hy Bell in the seventh after Cincinnati scored its fifth run. Bell was credited with the victory.

Terry Starts Rally.

Manager Bill Terry started the Giants' rally in the fourth with a single. Ott, Frank O'Doul, Travis Jackson and Gus Mancuso followed with base hits that counted three runs. Johnson went out after walking pinch hitter George Grantham to fill the bases and Joe Moore met Kolp with a triple. He scored the seventh run on Hughey Critz's single.

CARDS BEAT BRAVES, 5 TO 1.

Boston, Mass., July 20.—(AP)—A home run by Wally Berger saved the Boston Braves from a whitewash at the hands of the St. Louis Cardinals today as they dropped their second game of the current series, 5 to 1.

Tex Carleton pitched a perfect game for the visitors until the seventh allowing no one to reach first base. Berger put a finish to Carleton's no hit, no run hopes in this inning when he hit the homer, his twenty-first of the season. Lineups:

384 POUND BLUE MARLIN CAUGHT IN MIAMI WATERS

Miami, Fla., July 20.—(AP)—The "biggest" fish got away, so Leonard Waddell of Kansas City, Mo., had to content himself with the second largest—a 384 pound blue marlin.

The marlin, the largest taken this year and the second in size ever hooked in lower Florida waters, was brought to gaff after a stiff battle. At one time the fish sounded so deeply that not only was the 450 yards of 24-36 thread line taken, but 1,000 feet of auxiliary handline.

Waddell was fishing with his father, Dr. J. A. Waddell, retired master bridge designer of New York. During their eleven day cruise which ended today they hooked and fought another marlin which, they estimated, weighed between 600 and 700 pounds, but it got away.

It was Foxx's twenty-ninth homer and proved to be the winning margin. The teams were tied at 4 all at the time.

Philadelphia got two runs in the third inning off Lynwood Rowe. The Tigers also scored in the third when Marvin Owen slammed a home run over the scoreboard.

Goslin got a home run for Detroit in the fourth. Rowe, who started for Detroit, was replaced by Hamlin in the seventh. Cain went to the mound for the Athletics in the seventh. The Tigers collected a dozen hits off Marcum and Cain.

Cleveland, O., July 20.—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians stretched their winning streak to four games today and climbed into third place in the league standings by defeating the Boston Red Sox, 5 to 3.

Monte Pearson was credited with the victory, but had to be rescued by Mel Harder, ace right hander, in the eighth inning after he developed a touch of wildness.

All of the Sox runs were scored in the sixth, when Pearson filled the bases with walks and then yielded singles to Lary and Porter.

Babe Ruth Joins Yanks Today; May Play Tomorrow

The aged Babe Ruth, who made the mistake of letting his right leg stop a drive off Lou Gehrig's bat in the game at Cleveland last Wednesday, is scheduled to hobble into Chicago this morning and join the New York Yankees. In the interests of a larger gate, the Babe will endeavor to appear in tomorrow's double header with the Sox. The suspicion is that the injury wasn't one-tenth as serious as the publicity department made it sound.

Although Lefty Gomez has an ailing left arm, he may be permitted to start for the Yanks in the third of the series today. Les Tietje will oppose the southpaw, who has won 15 games.

Broaca fell flat on the ground just as he was about to deliver a pitch in the third. He didn't throw the ball, so he was charged with a balk, which moved Swanson from second to third.

Simmons' afternoon of misery was made up of a pop to the catcher, a fly to right, a fly to center, a fly to right, a grounder to short, a strikeout, and finally an intentional pass.

The Sox saved their choicest bit of defensive work for the finish. With one gone in the thirteenth, Saltzgaver walked. Gallivan then fanned, Chapman and Saltzgaver tried to steal on the third strike, but was nailed by Madjeski's peg to Appling.

Sox Battle 13 Innings to Beat Yankees

before the next out was recorded. Chapman walked and followed Combs across the plate when Gehrig planted homer No. 25 in the right field pavilion. Then Dickey walked, Hoag singled, and Crosetti walked, filling the bases. Jones then decided the fun had gone far enough, so he fanned both Heffner and Broaca.

The Yanks didn't let out another peep until the fourth, when Crosetti hoisted one of Jones' foolers into the left field stand to make the score 4 to 0. Meanwhile, the Sox were not getting any fun out of life. They didn't get a man to base until two were out in the second. At this stage Appling doubled, but it did no good. The next base runner was Swanson, who walked after two were out in the third. A passed ball moved him to second and a balk put him on third, but that ended his progress.

Sox Get Second Hit.

The Sox made their second hit to start the fourth, when Dykes singled to right. The next three men did nothing. In the fifth the Yanks issued a couple of gratuities, but even these didn't tempt the Pale Hose. Madjeski survived with one gone on a bad throw by Saltzgaver and was forced by Jones. Then Swanson walked. The inning was concluded on Conlan's tall fly to Chapman.

It was only by the grace of the Democrats or somebody that Jones dodged a mess of unhappiness in the sixth. Hoag singled, Crosetti flied out, Heffner scratched a hit to Hopkins, and the bases became loaded when Conlan dropped Broaca's fly. Combs slapped a liner high over Dykes, but the manager leaped up and speared it with one hand. Then, apparently surprised that the ball was really in his glove, Dykes didn't know what to do about it. But he finally noticed that Broaca was taking a nap off first and threw to Bonura for a double play.

Chase Broaca in Seventh.

A single by Madjeski started the four run tying incident engineered by the Sox in the seventh. Lyons batted for Jones and singled. Swanson also singled, moving Madjeski across the plate. Conlan rolled out to Gehrig. Broaca suffered an attack of temperament and walked both Dykes and Bonura, forcing Lyons to score. Simmons flied to right, Swanson scoring after the catch. Appling's single to right scored Dykes with the tying run and also marked the conclusion of Broaca's work. Deshong halted the trouble on Hopkins' pop to Heffner.

After Madjeski had fanned to open the eighth Heving survived on a fumble by Crosetti and the Sox promptly stepped into two runs, which at the time looked big enough to fasten down the decision. Swanson followed with a single. Conlan was retired on a fly to left, but Dykes lined a single over Heffner to score Heving. Bonura beat out a hit to deep short and Swanson scored. Then Simmons failed to produce for the fifth straight time.

A moment later the Yanks were back in a tie by virtue of Pinch Hitter Rolfe's single and Combs' homer with none out in the ninth. There also was a single by Saltzgaver, but Gallivan stepped in and restored order.

Mrs. Hurd Wins, 2 Up, in Women's Golf Meet

America's Cup Yachts to Get Some Revisions

Bristol, R. I., July 20.—(AP)—Intensive efforts were begun today to improve the three contenders for the defense of the America's cup before the final trials open off Newport next month.

Weetamoe, Frederick Prince's candidate, was hauled out today at the Herreshoff yard, where she was built four years ago, for a major operation on her keel. Her keel this spring had been given a bulbous entry to the water. This will be discarded and the lead moved farther aft, giving the entire keel a natural curve.

Metal Mast Removed.

Some significance was seen in the removal of Weetamoe's metal mast before she was drawn up on the marine railway. In some quarters it gave weight to a report that Weetamoe would step her old wooden mast.

Yankee of Boston, leading aspirant for the responsibility of meeting the British challenger, Tom Sopwith's Endeavour, was the only candidate in the early trials, which closed yesterday, to use a wooden mast.

Yankee to Be Hauled Out.

Yankee will be hauled out in the Williams and Manchester yard in Newport to have her underbody polished before engaging in the next series of races. She also will undergo some minor repairs and alterations and receive an entire new suit of sail.

Rainbow, Harold S. Vanderbilt's new candidate, also will wear new canvas when she returns to competition. She has been using much of the canvas worn by Enterprise, the defender of 1930 which turned back Shamrock V, the late Sir Thomas Lipton's last challenger.

While the cup boats are tied up it is expected a successor will be chosen for Capt. Gus Olsen, Yankee's professional skipper, whose leg was broken during yesterday's race.

CHICAGOAN SETS AMERICAN MARK IN HYDROPLANE

Havre De Grace, Md., July 20.—(AP)—S. Mortimer Auerbach of Chicago and Atlantic City shot his emancipator III over a two-mile stretch of glassy water today to set a national record in the 125-cubic inch hydroplane class.

Racing in trials at the fifth annual regatta of the Havre de Grace yacht club, Auerbach and the third Emancipator went down the one-mile course in 1 minutes, 10 1/5 seconds and returned in 1 minute 12 1-5 seconds, setting the record of 50.561 miles an hour.

Earlier in the afternoon Auerbach shattered the previous record of 46.86 miles an hour by striking the pace of 49.046 miles. He was given a second trial when the water became smoother, with the consequent bettering of his own record.

Auerbach also won the trial heat in the ten-mile race for boats of the 125-cubic inch class, skimming over the course in 13 minutes, 18 3/5 seconds, an average of 45.09 miles an hour.

CANADIANS WIN ANOTHER CUP IN BISLEY SHOOT

BISLEY CAMP, England, July 20.—(AP)—Canada's marksmen today added the historic Kolapore challenge cup to their collection to sweep the two most important team competitions of the Bisley rifle matches. Yesterday they won the Mackinnon cup.

As yesterday, it was England the Canadians had to beat. They topped them yesterday by seven points and today by 10.

A survey of the firing in the king's prize, the major individual trophy, shows Private P. J. Martinson of La Tuque, Que., within a point of Sergt. Maj. W. R. Clarke of Bombay, at the end of the second phase. He heads a contingent of eight Canadians in the final round tomorrow, making a strong possibility that Canada will sweep all three major prizes.

Lasker Beats Bernstein; Ties for Lead in Chess

ZURICH, Switzerland, July 20.—(AP)—Dr. Emanuel Lasker of London, by winning his adjourned game in the seventh round from Dr. O. S. Bernstein of Paris, today tied with Salo Flohr of Czechoslovakia for first place in the international chess tournament. Dr. Lasker won in 44 moves. The leading scores: Flohr and Lasker, 5½-1½; Alekhine, Boxoljubow, Euwe, Stahlberg, 5-2; Mueller, 4-3; Nimzowitsch, 3-3.

England, Australia Start Fourth of Cricket Series

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LEEDS, England, July 20.—England and Australia, each winner of one test and a draw in the third, today started the fourth of the five test cricket matches for possession of the Ashes. The teams battled through today on a "bowler's wicket" with England all out for 200 and Australia losing three wickets for only 39 runs.

Horn, Francis Top Southpaw Golf with 334

The end of the 72 hole Illinois state southpaw tournament at Arlington yesterday found J. P. Horn Jr. of Chicago and E. G. Francis of Joliet tied for first place with 334. The pair will meet in an 18 hole playoff today.

Francis, who trailed Horn by one stroke at the end of 36 holes, started off yesterday with a 78, the best 18 hole score of the tournament. However, he finished with 86. Horn's scores yesterday were 81 and 85.

Ralph Wanger of Chicago was third with 340. His scores for the last 36 holes were 83 and 84. Walter Wright of Arlington and A. C. Atherton of Medinah, who tied for the medalist honors, were next with 343 and 347, respectively.

Others in order of their finish were L. A. Long, Oak Park, 356. Robert Kalvelage, Villa Park, and Walter Mullady, Tam O'Shanter, 363.

Harrison Wins in C. D. G. A. Golf Tourney

James Harrison of Exmoor found the heat eddies that hung over the Evanston golf course yesterday much to his liking with the result that he turned in a par round of 34-36-70 to win low gross in the 18-hole handicap tournament conducted by the Chicago District golf association.

Harrison's was the only par round shot during the day, despite the fact that some of the district's leading sharpshooters played. Jim Ferguson of Tam o' Shanter shot a 72 for the next best score. His 4 handicap gave him a net of 68 which won first place in class A.

Johnny Lehmann of Olympia fields posted a 74 as did Frank Justin of Edgewood Valley. Ed Maurmann, former University of Chicago golfer, turned in a 76 while Chick Evans, veteran Edgewater star, and Art Sweet of Ridgemoor finished with 79.

Low gross in class B was won by F. C. Lahn of Rolling Green with a 77. K. D. Farwell of South Shore captured low net with 80-10-70. Ralph Bogan of the home club shot an 88 to win low gross in class C. The low net prize went to A. C. Askeloff of Rolling Green with 85-15-70. Leading scores:

BIG 6 ACQUIRES 7TH MEMBER AS VOSMIK SLIPS

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Once more the Big Six acquired a seventh member yesterday as Joe Vosmik lost some of the ground he had gained in the American league batting race the previous afternoon and slipped into a tie with Lou Gehrig for third place in the sextet. Each hit once in four trips to the plate, but Vosmik, with a lower at-bat total, lost two points to Gehrig's one. Paul Waner, although idle, slipped into the fourth notch—first in the National league—when Bill Terry lost a point through hitting only once out of four. Charley Gehringer registered the only Big Six gain, one point, as he collected two hits in four tries. The standing:

The camp opened July 6 and closed last night. The 22 were chosen from an enrollment of 350 and later they will be assigned to minor league teams with whom the Reds have agreements.

St. George's Cricket Club Beats Chicago, 135 to 102

WINNIPEG, Manitoba, July 20.—[Special.]—The Chicago Cricket club was beaten yesterday in the first of a six game series with St. George's Cricket club here. The score was Chicago 102, St. George's 135, for 8 wickets. J. Knights, 41 runs, and Butcher, 26 runs, did the best batting for Chicago.

Rena Nelson Wins Chicago District Golf Championship

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Rena Nelson, young Exmoor star, yesterday achieved the goal which she failed to reach last year by defeating Mrs. Melvin Jones of Lincolnshire, 2 and 1, in the final match of the Chicago Woman's District Golf association championship at the Flossmoor Country club. Last year Miss Nelson lost to June Beebe of Olympia Fields in the title match, but this year the latter was eliminated in the semi-finals by Mrs. Jones, who had previously won the championship six times.

Eliamae Williams, daughter of Eddie Williams, River Forest professional, who set a qualifying record in the recent western girls' junior, scored a 3 and 2 victory over Mrs. Lee Mida of Lincolnshire to take the championship consolation flight prize. First flight honors went to Eleanor Dudley of Ridge, who defeated Dorothy Bell of Westmoreland, 2 and 1.

Miss Nelson Takes Lead.

Par—Out	535	455	345—39
Par—In	535	345	545—39 78
Miss Nelson—Out	546	545	444—41
Mrs. Jones—Out	645	345	545
Miss Nelson—In	636	456	45
Mrs. Jones—In	546	446	55

The new champion took the first hole with a regulation par, while Mrs. Jones, who was short with her third shot, needed four to get on and two to get down. They halved the second, which Miss Nelson three putted, while Mrs. Jones drove a trap and was short escaping. The match was even after the third, where Miss Nelson's fourth shot was on the back edge of the green and Mrs. Jones holed out a five footer for a par.

The Exmoor girl went one down when Mrs. Jones birdied the fourth with a fifteen foot putt and Rena drove into the rough. She squared it on the next green, however, by sinking a short putt for a birdie. Mrs. Jones' difficulty with traps and rough on this hole finally caused her to pick up. They halved the sixth in fives and Rena went one up at the seventh, despite the fact that she needed three putts, since Mrs. Jones' tee shot landed in the water and she took a penalty stroke.

Miss Nelson Two Up at Turn.

They halved the eighth in par fours, but Miss Nelson was two up at the turn, a fine iron shot enabling her to reach the ninth green for two putts and a birdie. Mrs. Jones regained a hole at the tenth, where the Exmoor star sent her second into the woods and she played safe coming out. A fifteen foot putt for a deuce evened this at the eleventh, where the Lincolnshire golfer was trapped off the tee and short getting out. They divided the 12th and 13th, but Mrs. Jones took the 14th by making a fine chip over a stymie. The 15th was halved, and Miss Nelson was dormie two after the 16th, which she won with another neat iron shot, while Mrs. Jones' drive went into the rough. The match ended on the 17th green, where Miss Nelson sank a five foot putt for a half.

10 U. S. BOMBERS REACH WINNIPEG ON ALASKA HOP

Canadians Cheer Army Air Corps Flyers.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WINNIPEG, July 20.—Ten giant United States army bombing planes landed here at noon, completing the hop from Minneapolis in 20 hours and 26 minutes. The fleet of bombers is making an experimental and observational flight to Alaska and is carrying the good will of the United States to the people of Alaska.

The planes left Minneapolis at 10:33 a. m., [Chicago daylight saving time]. After passing over the edge of Winnipeg, the ships broke formation and made several wide swings before landing.

Delayed by Haze.

The last four ships apparently were delayed by a heavy haze and a light shower. They circled Stevenson's field for several minutes before following the first six ships to earth. A cheering crowd greeted the flyers.

The Martin bombers, which are known as Uncle Sam's "egg layers," were obtained by the army air corps six months ago. They measure 60 feet from the nose to the tip of the tail and are equipped with 700 horse-power twin motors. The planes are capable of carrying a bomb load of 2,000 pounds with a gasoline supply for 1,000 miles.

Due in Alaska Monday.

After Winnipeg, Edmonton will be the next overnight stop. The flyers expect to reach Fairbanks, Alaska, Monday. The bombing fleet arrived at Minneapolis yesterday from Dayton, O., the first stop on the flight which began at Washington, D. C.

PLANE CATCHES FIRE ON LANDING; 4 ARE BURNED

Springfield, Ill., July 20.—[Special.]—Four persons were burned, two of them seriously, this morning when a new passenger plane caught fire as it was landing at the local airport, southwest of this city.

The injured were:

Arthur O. Johnson, New Orleans, proprietor of the Johnson Airways, burned from the waist up, condition serious.

Mrs. Christine Maynard, New Orleans, wife of the pilot, burned about the body and face; condition serious.

Robert A. Johnstone, 5434 North Sawyer avenue, Chicago, burns on left hand and injuries to left knee. Johnstone was able to leave the hospital after receiving emergency treatment.

The plane, a Stinson Reliant, with a Lycoming motor, was purchased by Maynard at Detroit a few days ago.

While making a landing at the local field the motor backfired and when the landing was perfected, fire broke out.

Round the World Plane Alights on Onondaga Lake

With Flight Commander William Alexander, leader of the expedition, were the other five members of the crew and three guests.

Tribune's Fund Spent; Helpless Suffer.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

The grownups fumed at the weather and mopped their brows yesterday, but the babies packed away in sardine-like flats along a hundred and one treeless, narrow streets suffered most.

It wasn't just the discomfort from prickly heat that made the babies fret. The chief suffering was from milk that had spoiled, precious milk the mothers had tried to keep sweet by running the tap in the kitchen sink.

Cash All Used Up.

Had there been enough money in THE TRIBUNE free ice fund, babies in many congested neighborhoods would have been saved their illness from spoiled milk during the heat wave of the last few days. The iceman would have called at no cost to each family. The tickets would have been supplied through the contributions of TRIBUNE readers.

Today's grand total, $584.22, is a bank account in name only. Many more tickets have already been distributed to needy families than can be paid for by the amount at present in the fund. Because TRIBUNE readers have rallied in crises in past years, it is hoped that they will do so again for the sake of helpless babies, the sick, the aged, all those whose health depends on the delivery of ice in their homes.

Few Gifts on Sad Day.

Yesterday only $14.50 reached the fund. The faithful contributors were T. Koerner, many times a contributor, who sent another $1; A. J. Franks, who sent $10; Mrs. Leon Witkowsky, who sent her annual gift of $2.50, and $1 from "Dad's Girl."

Gifts to help alleviate suffering should be sent to the free ice fund in care of the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower. Those who prefer may also send contributions to the Camp Algonquin fund, which sends mothers and children away from the hot city streets for two week vacations.

Mrs. Lena Schultz, Pioneer of Blue Island Dies at 79

Mrs. Lozetta Johanna Lena Schultz, 79 years old, pioneer Blue Island resident, died yesterday in her home at 2441 West James street. She had been ill for some time. Mrs. Schultz came to Blue Island from Germany in 1875. She is survived by four sons, two daughters, eighteen grandchildren, and four great-grandchildren. Funeral services will be held Monday at the chapel at 2601 West Vermont street, Blue Island.

NEW DEAL MEN GOING ABROAD; 3 TO ARGENTINA

Washington, D. C., July 20.—[Special.]—Two important figures in the New Deal today prepared to leave on missions of significance in foreign countries.

Assistant Secretary of State Francis B. Sayre will sail tomorrow for a month's vacation abroad. Although his trip was described as a pleasure cruise by officials of the state department, there was little doubt that tariff and other matters of international import will occupy a portion of his time.

Frank A. Theis, chief of the AAA grain section, will head a three-man delegation to Argentina within the next few days, it was announced, in an effort to swing the South American country into line under the London wheat agreement. Special significance attached to the mission in view of the fact that Secretary Wallace has indicated that the government cut in wheat acreage here next year will be considerably less than last year if Argentina and other wheat producing nations fail to continue acreage control programs.

Mr. Sayre's European visit, it was said, will take him to Denmark and Finland, and eventually to Russia, where he will confer with American Ambassador William Bullitt.

Accompanying Mr. Theis to Argentina will be L. M. Estabrook and Paul O. Nyhus, AAA grain experts. Mr. Nyhus will serve as agricultural attaché at the United States embassy in Buenos Aires, it was said.

SABOTAGE SEEN WHEN MYSTERY AIRPLANE BURNS

South Bend, Ind., July 20.—[Special.]—Declaring the destruction of their new test model of the Arup, flying wing airplane was an act of sabotage, officials of the Arup corporation here today were coöperating with sheriff's deputies in seeking clews to the fire which burned the plane.

The Arup, which made its first public appearance at the International Air show in Chicago last September, was destroyed early Thursday morning by a mysterious fire, but company officials did not disclose the fact until today.

Three nights previous to the fire another attempt to destroy the plane was made when some one broke into the hangar and removed cotter pins from the rudder and rudder controls. Test Pilot Glenn Doolittle discovered the sabotage the next morning as he inspected the ship preparatory to a test flight.

Following this attempt a guard had been posted for two nights but was withdrawn when no further raid was made. Friday morning the hangar again was entered, the plane soaked with gasoline and lighted.

The new Arup model was a two seater sport ship with a 16 foot wing spread. The strange design of the plane attracted wide attention a year ago when the "flying wing" first was flown before the public.

DEBATES SUICIDE IN COURT AFTER 2 EFFORTS FAIL

Standing before Judge Francis Borrelli in the Municipal court yesterday, Meyer Tofstein, 35 years old, 4203 West 16th street, debated with the judge why Tofstein should and would end his life.

Tofstein was rescued from the lake by an unidentified passerby who saw him leap in, and was brought before Judge Borrelli, charged with disorderly conduct.

In the courtroom, he was about to plunge from the window—ten stories above ground—but was thwarted by the judge's son, a bailiff. Judge Borrelli then recognized the man as one at whose marriage he presided last fall.

Tofstein said his bride, Dolores, had left him, that he was unemployed and ill, and had no desire to live.

"No matter what I do, you want to kill yourself?" asked the judge.

"Sure," was the reply; "all you can do is postpone it. I'm fed up on living. My mind is gone—why bother with my body?"

Judge Borrelli then continued the case to July 27, so that Tofstein could be examined by Dr. David Rotman, city psychiatrist.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

A blond young man had a tough time yesterday morning convincing a World's Fair reception committee that he was not Lanny Ross, star of Capt. Henry's Show Boat of radio. The Black Horse troop, the beauty queens of the Fair, and a throng of radio admirers waited at the 14th street gate to welcome the popular radio tenor to the Exposition. At length the reception committee drew up in a car announcing that Lanny had eluded them at the station. They were certain of his identity, they declared, though he denied it and hopped into a cab and disappeared. It was all a mistake. There was some misunderstanding for Ross had not intended to arrive until today.

Lanny wired yesterday that he would go in at 9 this morning at the La Salle street station and that he would have an autographed picture for every girl named Mary Lou [his radio sweetheart]. But you had better bring along a birth certificate or some one to vouch for you, girls!

Lanny will sing at the Lagoon theater at the Fair this morning. Then he will make a swift tour of the grounds before leaving on the Chief at 12:15 p. m. for California to make his second motion picture, "College Rhythm." His voice will be piped to New York for Show Boat programs while he is in Hollywood.

Frank Buck is already on the air—and a whole caravan of hunters and explorers is soon to follow on another sponsored series. "The Radio Explorers club," which goes on the air over NBC on Sunday, Aug. 19, will feature Martin Johnson, Roy Chapman Andrews, Theodore Roosevelt Jr., Vilhjalmur Stefansson, F. Trubee Davison and many another world traveler.

In the wake of Buck's debut as a radio entertainer comes the touching story of the little pink elephant that got so drunk that he saw a lot of Frank Bucks peeping over the foot of his bed.

Bob Crosby is leading the orchestra, featuring the Dorsey brothers, at Sands Point Bath club on Long Island. They haven't succeeded in getting a radio wire into the club, but they have found out who socked Huey Long there last summer.

Fred Waring's orchestra will start on a midwestern tour after its broadcast from New York on Sunday. The Pennsylvanians will pass through Chicago Tuesday on their way to a Milwaukee engagement. On Aug 5 they will broadcast from Chicago.

"Fast Fortune," a comedy by Ed East and Ralph Dumke, is getting a tryout with a Long Island stock company. If their radio activities permit the portly pair of radio plans to take leading roles in it when it opens on Broadway. . . . Jules Alberti's orchestra will be back on the air over WBBM-CBS when it opens at the Casino at the Fair next Wednesday.

FIND EYE INTACT WITH A BULLET IN BACK OF BALL

Michael Stanko, 30 years old, 4341 Cortez street, a woodworker, was standing at Cortez street and Kildare avenue on July 4 watching neighborhood children shoot fireworks. A sudden blow on his right eye, followed by intense pain, stunned him. He went first to St. Elizabeth's hospital and later to the county hospital, but physicians were unable to learn what was causing repeated hemorrhages in the eye.

Yesterday X-ray photographs revealed a .32 caliber bullet was lodged behind the eye, between the rear wall and the orbit bone. A small section of the bone, known as the zygoma, was slightly fractured. The bone apparently prevented the bullet from penetrating the brain. Physicians surmised that a spent stray Fourth of July bullet slid at an angle between the eyeball, which was uninjured, and the inner wall of the upper eyelid. Only a small nick appeared in the eyelid.

An operation to remove the bullet will be performed, but physicians fear that Stanko may not regain the sight of his eye. He is able only to detect light and shadows now.

FIVE COUSINS SUE TO BREAK WILL OF F. B. JONES

Allege Mind Was Unsound in $750,000 Bequests.

Suit to set aside the will of Fred B. Jones who left most of his $750,000 estate to charity was filed yesterday in Circuit court on behalf of five cousins, not named in the will. Mr. Jones, a bachelor, was a retired vice president of the Adams and Westlake company, dealers in railway supplies. He died on April 9, 1933, at the age of 76.

Named as defendants in the suit are the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company of Chicago, as executor and trustee of the estate, and the various beneficiaries.

The cousins on whose behalf the suit was filed are John E. Bennett, 525 Arlington place; Fred G. Torrey, Long Beach, Cal.; Frank S. Bennett, Vernon, Texas; Mabel Bennett Johnson and Alder Alexander Bennett, both of Willow Springs, Mo.

Accuses Two Associates.

The suit alleges that at the time the will was drawn on May 25, 1932, Jones was in ill health and was of "unsound mind and memory." The will was executed, the suit charges, under the influence of Mrs. Dora Mortimer and of William P. Kopf, vice president in the trust department of the bank.

Kopf was confidential adviser to Mr. Jones, the suit declares. Kopf denied last night the allegation that Mr. Jones was of unsound mind when he made his will. The bill describes Mrs. Mortimer as a housekeeper and companion for Mr. Jones.

Under the terms of the will Mrs. Mortimer was left the income from a $100,000 trust fund, the trust to revert to the estate at her death. She was also bequeathed a diamond ring belonging to Jones and the furnishings of his apartment at the Parkway hotel, 2100 Lincoln Park West.

Funds for Many Charities.

Mr. Jones' will provides for bequests of $50,000 each to the Home for Destitute Crippled Children, the Chicago Home for the Friendless, the Children's Memorial hospital, the Chicago Home for Incurables, the Old People's home, and the Salvation Army.

Bequests of $25,000 each were made to the Allendale association, the Glenwood Manual Training school, the Loyal Order of Moose, the Little Sisters of the Poor, the Boy Scouts, the Lighthouse, the Y. M. C. A., the Y. W. C. A., the Chicago Polyclinic, for training nurses, and the Chicago chapter of the Red Cross.

To the public library of Pittsfield, Ill., Mr. Jones left his collection of books and $25,000 to build an annex to Pittsfield's library building. Specific legacies of $46,000 were provided for a number of cousins, servants, and employés of the Adams & Westlake company.

Mr. Jones was the brother of the late Frank Hatch Jones, banker and lawyer, whose wife was Nellie Grant Sartoris, only daughter of President Grant.

MITCHELL NAMES DI NARDI ONE OF 5 IN GEM ROBBERY

Dominick Di Nardi, 22 years old, arrested Thursday in his rooms at 3002 Flournoy street, was identified yesterday as one of five alleged "42" gang members who participated in the $150,000 jewel robbery of the Lake Forest home of William H. Mitchell on Nov. 21, 1931. Di Nardi was identified at the detective bureau by Mitchell, La Salle street broker, and William McCormick Blair, a guest of the Mitchells on the night of the robbery. Di Nardi was the last of the gang to be arrested. The others are serving prison sentences of one year to life.

Although Mitchell's identification of the west side hoodlum was positive, Lieut. Richard Barry said Di Nardi would probably be tried first for the murder of Policeman Maurice Marcusson, who was shot during a robbery on Jan. 30, 1933. Tony Rocco, who is serving 199 years for his part in the murder, named Di Nardi as his accomplice. Di Nardi was identified Thursday by an eyewitness to the murder.

In the Mitchell holdup five men robbed the Mitchells and seven guests. In fleeing they engaged in a gun battle with police, and one of the robbers dropped his coat containing most of the jewels.

NORTHWESTERN TRUST GETS RFC LOAN OF $2,500,000

The Reconstruction Finance corporation has approved a loan of 2½ million dollars for the Northwestern Trust and Savings bank, Judge Joseph B. David was informed yesterday by State Representative David E. Shanahan, receiver for the institution. Assets of the bank having a book value of 8 million dollars will be pledged as security for the loan.

Mr. Shanahan explained that of the amount borrowed $600,000 would be used to pay back taxes. A payment of 20 per cent will go to depositors, making the total thus far paid 50 per cent. The rest will be used for claims and operating expenses.

This is the largest loan applied for in Cook county since President Roosevelt signed the recent bill authorizing receivers for closed banks to apply for such loans. The bank closed June 9, 1931.

Several weeks ago Superior Judge Harry A. Lewis granted a petition presented by Mr. Shanahan asking that he be relieved as receiver for the bank. The order does not become final, however, until an audit of the bank's affairs has been made. Mr. Shanahan was allowed a fee of $23,000 for his services.

JUNE'S WHOLESALE COMMODITY PRICES HIGHEST SINCE 1931

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 20.—[Special.]—Wholesale commodity prices, advancing 1.2 per cent last month, were the highest on June 30 for any month since April, 1931, when the index of the bureau of labor statistics, based on 1926 averages, was 74.8. The index for June, 1934, was 74.6, compared with 73.7 for May, 65.0 for June 1933; 63.9 for June, 1932, and 72.1 for June, 1931. On July 14 the index had sagged to 74.5.

Of the ten major groups of commodities studied, according to Commissioner Lubin, six showed increases in June, three dropped, and one registered no change. A total of 182 individual commodities increased, and 161, or less than 20 per cent, fell off. More than half the individual items showed no average change.

The largest increase from May to June of any of the major groups was recorded by farm products, the average advancing more than 6 per cent. The foods group rose slightly more than 4 per cent and registered the second largest increase.

Higher prices for cement, lumber, and plumbing and heating supplies were largely responsible for the one-half of 1 per cent advance in the general advance for building materials. The index for the group as a whole is 17½ per cent above a year ago and 24 per cent higher than two years ago.

SELLING DELUGE BREAKS STOCKS; CAUSE MYSTERY

Leading Issues Lose 1 to 4 Points.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 20.—Some heavy selling overtook the stock market today and professional observers of Wall street's doings did some tall and fancy guessing without being able to strike an agreement on what the matter could be.

One potshot at the mystery ascribed it to the sudden rush to cash speculative profits. Another thought anxiety over disquieting conditions in Germany may have had something to do with it, and still another guessed that the secret lay in disappointment over general business conditions. The slump in inflationary psychology brought about by the government's bond conversion program and by the reported conversations looking to a stabilization of currency were given a generous measure of credit.

Decline Unusually Severe.

Whatever the reason or reasons, however, the reaction was the most formidable the market has been called upon to weather in weeks. Dealings were the broadest in a month and turnover ran to 1,237,000 shares—the first time it has topped the million share mark since June 8. Losses in the active list ran as high as 4 points.

While selling was vigorous in all departments, the railroad and mining shares came in for the worst battering. The carriers fell back 1 to 4 points, coming to a halt barely above their low prices of last May.

A number sold at new low prices for the year, among them being B. & O., Jersey Central, Great Western preferred, Milwaukee common and preferred, North Western preferred, Rock Island, Delaware & Hudson, Lackawanna, Illinois Central common and preferred, and both classes of the New Haven and the Southern railways. New York Central sold to its worst price of the year. Rail equipments also were heavy.

Silver Issues Slump.

Silver stocks were sold freely and some of the outstanding losses were recorded in this division. U. S. Smelting, which distinguished itself with a 12 point upturn last week when the revival of inflationary talk was beginning to hit up so nicely, took a fresh tumble of 4¼ points which, with yesterday's setback, served to erase the largest part of its late runup. Howe Sound was belted for a 3 point loss, and American Smelting and Cerro de Pasco gave up about two points each. The gold miners also took it on the run with Alaska Juneau, McIntyre and Dome all out of favor.

Aviation issues were again weak, United Aircraft bumping a new 1934 bottom under weight of a continuation of the large scale liquidation, part of it necessitous, which has made that issue one of the weakest of the list during the last week.

Corn Products Drops.

Corn Products was an individual sufferer of note, dropping some 3 points on publication of a poor earnings statement. Western Union was another leader to sink to a new low price for the year.

Farm and ma order shares came in for a drubbing, with Montgomery Ward as a conspicuous selling target.

the motor department, Chrysler broke more than a point to within striking distance of its low for the year. National Distillers disturbed its fellows in the liquor stall by going below its 1934 price. Philip Morris broke about 2 points in the tobaccos.

Liquidation was heaviest around midday. There was another "run" of it toward the close, however, with the result that final prices in the main were the lowest of the day.

WHEAT SUFFERS FIRST MATERIAL LOSS IN 10 DAYS

Corn Is Relatively Firm, However.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Wheat prices yesterday encountered their first real setback since the publication ten days ago of the government's sensational crop forecast. All future contracts declined, with losses extending up to 2 cents a bushel. The weakness in wheat was not matched in the corn market, which gave ground grudgingly and closed only slightly lower, although heavy hedging sales had to be absorbed as a result of the heavy purchases of cash corn in the country. Corn futures were quoted unchanged to ¾ cent a bushel lower at the close of the market.

A variety of influences was at play in yesterday's market, and was sufficient to bring about the reaction in wheat prices which might have been logically expected to follow ten days of rising prices.

Weather Forecasts Aid.

Weather forecasts giving promise of overnight relief from the heat in northwestern states and the Canadian provinces, and the weakness in the stock and cotton markets, were contributing factors. Meanwhile, however, the southwestern states continued to suffer under blistering heat and reports of irreparable damage to corn in that region were confirmed.

The last two weeks have witnessed a distinct strengthening in wheat prices in the leading world markets. When Chicago prices began to advance recently the foreign markets were inclined to ignore the advance as they have done so frequently of late because of prices here have been determined largely on a domestic basis. World markets again, however, appear to moving in greater unison.

Comparative Statistics.

The following table shows wheat prices in the principal world markets yesterday as compared with the prices prevailing a week ago and two weeks ago converted into U. S. funds.

The tabulation does not reflect the full upward swing that occurred in September wheat in Chicago from the low price of 87¾ cents at which it sold July 9, the day before the release of the government's report, to the high of $1.02½ at which it sold yesterday, a rise of nearly 15 cents a bushel.

Corn Relatively Strong.

The relative strength in corn prices was the notable feature of yesterday's market. Chicago handlers bought another 715,000 bushels of cash corn for shipment here within 20 days and the resulting hedging sales were well absorbed by the futures market. Only 38,000 bushels of wheat were booked to arrive. Chicago shippers reported sales of 155,000 bushels of wheat and 186,000 bushels of corn.

Chicago dealers have bought more than 4½ million bushels of corn for shipment here in the last five days, the biggest volume on record for this season, which is approximately 10 weeks in advance of the corn harvest.

The skepticism with which the government's corn crop estimates was first received is giving way to wholehearted acceptance of the appraisal. In some quarters there is even a tendency to figure that the final returns will fall below the 2,113,000,000 bushels forecast by the government. This is based on the damage done to the crop in the last 10 days.

SIZZLING DAYS GIVE BOOST TO AIR CONDITIONING

BY AL CHASE

Heat waves, drouth and record humidity of this sizzling summer are bringing prosperity to America's youngest and considered by many its most promising industry—air conditioning. Not since the birth of this lively industrial youngster a few years back has it so intrigued the public, and its leaders declare the higher the mercury climbs the greater grows the public interest in artificial weather.

The weather man has been the world's greatest publicity agent for temperature control. Air conditioning experts report signs of a mass interest developing throughout the country in air conditioning as a result of the constant publicity given the weather. Never, they say, has a new industry had such a lucky break as this sultry summer is giving it by making Mr. and Mrs. John Public air condition minded.

Office Buildings Market.

Although the small home is looked upon as the ultimate great market for air conditioning, the immediate big market is the American office building. In this field, where competition is strenuous, the newest lure for prospective tenants is air conditioning.

The Tribune Tower air conditioning installation is acting as a spur to all office building activity throughout the middle west, an air conditioning engineer stated yesterday. He pointed out that as the largest steam jet refrigeration plant in the world, it will have a decided influence in deciding owners to cool their office buildings. And, he declared, the record heat will be the deciding factor in clinching that decision.

Residences Another Field.

The residential air conditioning market at present is centered on existing dwellings. With the return of building activity the market is expected to swing over to new residences, a trend already noticeable in practically every new home of any importance.

"It's a case of educating the public and also of developing a public sentiment toward air conditioning," said E. N. Bowles of the industrial division of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company. "As soon as people get over the idea that air conditioning is a luxury and realize it is a necessity in a summer like this it will become the style to have one's home air conditioned just as every one that can afford it has a car or a radio."

AUSTRIA ENDS GUARANTY OF BIG BANK'S DEPOSITS

VIENNA, July 20.—(AP)—The Austrian government today lifted its guaranty of deposits in the internationally influential Credit-Anstalt bank, in which American shares are held to the extent of $4,000,000. The finance ministry announced the guaranty had been lifted at the request of the bank and its large depositors.

Although the effect of the announcement on many of those who received it tonight through private channels was disconcerting, the general public will not learn that the government no longer guarantees deposits until tomorrow's morning papers are delivered. A few hours after this, banks in Vienna normally close for the weekend.

The Credit-Anstalt, one of the largest and most influential banks of Austria, is headed by Louis Rothschild of the famous Rothschild banking house and is capitalized at 125,000,000 schillings [about $25,000,000].

It was established under an imperial decree in 1855, and performs the functions of a commercial bank, investment bank and savings bank. It holds about 50 per cent of the total savings deposits of all the commercial banks in Vienna.

Canadian Bank Finds U. S. Securities Act Checks Recovery

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Chief barrier to the return of prosperity in the United States, says the Royal Bank of Canada in its current bulletin, is the securities act of 1933, a piece of "punitive" legislation which prevents the free flow of capital into business and thereby holds up the recovery of the durable goods industries.

Looking over the border the Canadian institution surveys economic developments in this country and finds them confused. It sees the federal government spending billions through the PWA, the RFC, and other agencies in an attempt to compensate for the lack of private financing, and at the same time it sees this same government making private financing practically impossible through the imposition of the restrictive provisions of the securities act of 1933.

This anomalous situation prompts Donald M. Marvin, economist for the Royal bank, to say in a letter accompanying the bank's report:

"If the true relationship between investment and prosperity were more generally understood, radical legislation tending to curtail profits unduly would be less popular."

The bank's report itself takes the same slant.

"In our opinion," it states, "the securities act of 1933 has been the greatest individual factor in retarding recovery. While it was said to be modeled upon the British companies act, it was punitive in intent and in fact created legal liabilities which made the issue of new securities an impossibility."

The securities act of 1933 is not to be confused with the recently enacted securities exchange act of 1934, which provided for federal regulation of stock exchanges. The earlier law covers the underwriting and sale of stocks and bonds and provides stiff penalties for issuers and underwriters in case investors lose money and can prove that they were misled by misstatements or omissions of pertinent facts. Amendments softening somewhat the drastic provisions of the 1933 act were attached to the 1934 act.

"While it is not yet clear that the modifications of the act in 1934 have been sufficiently far reaching to encourage flotations," says the Royal Bank of Canada, "it is hoped that this will prove to be the case, since further continued improvement in business must be dependent upon the activities in the securities markets.

"With the PWA plans and projects as indications of recognition by the United States government of the necessity for activity in the durable goods industries, it is surprising that the securities act of 1933 should have taken a form which completely stopped long term financing.

"It is clear that the production of capital goods can not be financed by the commercial banking system; that is the function of the investor.

"There is no possibility that the activity in durable goods industries under the various government public works programs can yield place to industrial and private construction and manufacture until a market for long term securities is available."

The Canadian bank's criticism of the securities act of 1933 is the sharpest that has been voiced by any financial institution in months. Financiers on this side of the border, fearful of being "cracked down" on in one way or another have long since learned to hold their peace just as the commercial banker has learned to keep silent since the government bought stock in his bank. When Prof. James M. Landis, New Dealer who helped draft the securities act of 1933, spoke in Chicago a few weeks ago investment bankers and brokers were even afraid to ask questions about the law, much less criticize it in his presence.

The occasion for the Royal Bank's comments on the securities act is an analysis contained in its report tending to show that periods of prosperity and depression are brought about largely by changes in the volume of production of durable goods, including the building industries and that the volume of production of durable goods, in turn, is governed largely by the availability of long term credit, of the type normally afforded by investors who buy bonds.

"Out of the 49 million workers in the United States," says the Royal Bank, "sixteen million are normally engaged in the production of food, clothing and other quick consumables. Twenty-three million are engaged in services and 10 million in building and the production of durable goods. At the present time only about 3 per cent of those normally engaged in the production of consumers' goods are unemployed, 17 per cent of those normally engaged in services, and 47 per cent of those engaged in building and the durable goods industries.

"With the falling off in the buying power arising from the activities of the durable goods industries, there are less wages available for services but the amount of food and clothing produced and distributed has remained relatively constant.

"From these statistics it is clear that the outstanding characteristic of the depression was the almost complete cessation of activity in the production of durable goods. . . . To foster building and the production of durable goods, it is essential that the confidence of the investor in future prospects be restored."

Peoria, Ill., July 20.—[Special.]—Acceptance of the bid of the Life and Casualty company of Chicago for reinsuring the insolvent Peoria Life Insurance company was recommended in a report filed in Circuit court today by Charles V. O'Hern, receiver. Ernest Palmer, state director of insurance, concurred in the recommendation.

The same group will submit a bid for the Peoria Life Insurance company.

JUNE SHOWS GAIN OVER YEAR AGO IN ADVERTISING

The volume of newspaper advertising during June registered an increase of 9.9 per cent over the same month in 1933, reflecting confidence of business men that sales opportunities justify larger promotion expenditures.

Magazine advertising showed more spectacular gains, with an increase of nearly 45 per cent for June over that month of 1933. The total of 104 publications was 1,636,000 lines.

Advertising Age reports a total newspaper volume of 145,237,000 lines placed in 77 leading cities as compared with 132,150,000 during June last year. General advertising led the way with a gain of 17.9 per cent to 27,922,000 lines. Automotive advertising was next in line with an increase of 1,046,000 lines, or 8.8 per cent, to a June total of 12,918,000 lines.

Retail advertising jumped 6.53 per cent, or 4,715,000 lines, to a June figure of 76,715,000. Classified ads aggregated 20,948,000 lines for a gain of 4.6 per cent.

SEARS-ROEBUCK SUMMER SALES BEST SINCE 1931

Sears, Roebuck & Co. yesterday reported that sales for the period from June 19 to July 16 amounted to $21,651,512, and were the best for that period since 1931. This is an increase of 11.3 per cent over the $19,442,052 for the corresponding period last year.

The company's business fell off $3,381,881 from the preceding period considerably under the average for the season. For the first six periods of the fiscal year, from Jan. 30 to July 16, the sales amounted to $140,639,500, against $108,990,590 in the corresponding period of last year, a gain of $31,648,910, or 29 per cent.

NATIONAL TEA NET SAGS, DUE TO NRA COSTS

The National Tea company yesterday reported that net earnings for the 24 weeks ended June 16 amounted to $233,138, after federal taxes, but before dividends. This is equal to 30.4 cents a share on the outstanding common stock, after deducting dividends on the 5½ per cent preferred stock. These earnings compare with $1.32 per share for the corresponding period of last year.

The management attributes the decrease in earnings this year to increased operating costs under the NRA, which are estimated to be approximately 90 cents a share.

Armour Directors Delay Dividend Action to August

Dividend action was postponed until the August meeting by the board of directors of Armour & Co., which concerned itself yesterday with routine matters. The decision followed indications that a quorum will attend next month. A dividend on the new prior preferred stock issued under the recently adopted recapitalization plan is regarded as a certainty for distribution Oct. 1. The company has not paid any dividends since January, 1931.

PWA WILL LEND MORE MILLIONS FOR N. Y. HOUSING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 20.—More Public Works administration money will be loaned to New York City, Mayor La Guardia announced after a conference with Secretary Ickes here today. The mayor, who made a rush trip from New York and returned by plane in the afternoon, said he had requests for sound projects totaling $100,000,000 registered with Public Works officials. He did not indicate whether he would be willing to borrow the full amount.

Chairman Jones of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, with whom the mayor also conferred, indicated clearly that New York could expect a sizable amount from the revolving fund of $250,000,000 through which the RFC is authorized to sell on the market bonds held by the PWA.

"No Limit," Says Jones.

Jones said the RFC had virtually unlimited power to purchase sound municipal securities in order to help city employment projects throughout the country.

"There is practically no limit to what we can do in the way of purchasing good city securities with a revolving fund and offering them on the market wisely so as not to glut the market," said Jones. "A New York City bond is a good bond. That was proved at the sale last week."

La Guardia said the arrangement would help tremendously to relieve unemployment and added "money spent for construction in New York will help the whole country because steel and other supplies are purchased everywhere.

"I am going to borrow only for what I can economically and prudently build," he explained.

Plan Big Housing Program.

Present at the conference between the mayor and Secretary Ickes were Tenement House Commissioner Post and Dwight L. Hoopingarner, associate director of PWA housing. Secretary Ickes announced afterward that Hoopingarner would leave for New York with Post to work out details of the $25,000,000 housing program.

Post let the cat out of the bag for the first time when he said: "I don't see any particular difficulties. The New York housing authority already has taken 54 per cent of the options it needs in the name of the United States government."

Mayor La Guardia said that New York City had received some $33,000,000 from PWA for regular projects and $48,000,000 for bridges.

Jones later saw Ickes and he left the secretary's office carrying a large envelope containing securities of various cities offered as collateral for loans. He said he intended to look over the securities as part of a general plan to market municipal securities for the cities in order to extend their borrowing power.

J. R. THOMPSON CO. TO PAY 12½ CTS.; GROSS SALES UP

The John R. Thompson company yesterday declared a dividend of 12½ cents a share, payable Aug. 10 to stock of record Aug. 1. A similar sum was paid in the preceding quarter. John R. Thompson Jr., president, announced that the dividend will be paid out of earned surplus.

Gross sales for the first six months amounted to $5,435,870, against $5,096,397 for the corresponding period of 1933. Net loss, after depreciation of $338,825, for the first half year totaled $187,518, compared with a net loss of $291,631 after depreciation of $280,578 in the corresponding period last year.

Corn Products Refining Co. Earns Less Than Last Year

New York, July 20.—(AP)—Corn Products Refining company reports for the June quarter net profit of $2,103,784, equivalent to 66 cents a common share, against $2,298,411, or 74 cents, in the previous quarter, and $3,090,116, or $1.05, in the June, 1933, quarter. Profits in the first six months were equal to $1.40 a share on the common stock, against $1.70 in the same period last year.

Australian Wheat Crop Prospects Reported Good

SYDNEY, Australia, July 20.—(AP)—Grain experts said today the outlook for the Australian wheat crop is remarkably bright. Prices have advanced steadily this week.

New Gold Price Aids Business, Says Pearson

Change in the price of gold is almost solely responsible for betterment in business conditions, Dr. Frank A. Pearson asserted before a luncheon of the Committee for the Nation yesterday at the Blackstone hotel. Dr. Pearson for several years has been associated with Prof. George F. Warren, one of the administration's chief monetary advisors, in economic studies at Cornell university.

At the same time, Dr. Pearson took a solid slap at the policies of the agricultural adjustment administration in curtailing crops and live stock supply.

"The collapse was in no way due to overproduction," Dr. Pearson said flatly, and showed a series of elaborate charts to prove his point. The nation has shown a decline in production for several years, he pointed out, with consumption closely paralleling production. Exports have declined but little more than production, he asserted, striking at theories of oversupply because of decline in sales abroad.

Supply Not Over Great.

"Low farm prices, arising from monetary causes, give the impression of overproduction," said the Cornell professor. "The drouth is further accentuating low production of past years. But there is nothing in the supply side to explain the collapse of commodity prices."

There is some other factor, Dr. Pearson said, and proceeded to offer proof that that factor is gold.

The professor gained a hearty laugh out of fears of a rubber or baloney dollar, and proceeded to label as inconsistent those who argue for "hard money" and oppose administration price fixing attempts.

"The hard dollar," he explained "is based on price fixing, whether you like it or not. What happened was that our hard dollar rang true on the counters of the world, but was nothing but a rubber dollar at home. But now, if we make it soft abroad the darn thing is less rubbery at home.

Hard and Soft Dollars.

"There probably never will be a dollar that is hard both at home and abroad. There isn't much to this simple principle, but it applies to any money. You must choose which you wish."

The price of gold may be fixed by law, but its value varies, Dr. Pearson continued. Commodity prices, in turn, depend on the relation of gold stocks to the world's physical volume of production.

Raising the internal price level of gold is the way out of such a rise in gold value, he said.

"The internal price level of a country is the result of the world value of gold, which is beyond the power of any nation to control, and the price of gold, which is within the power of that nation to control," explained Mr. Pearson. "Therefore a nation can establish any internal price level that it desires, independent of the world. If this principle were widely known and wisely administered this nation could more promptly put an end to its distress."

Rand Attacks "Steady Dollar."

James H. Rand, president of Remington Rand company and chairman of the Committee for the Nation, attacked those who wish the new gold value of $35 per ounce left alone. He likened the "Wall street doctors" to a physician who refused to give a sick man any more medicine to speed his recovery, on the theory that there was no hurry so long as he is improving slowly.

Dr. Pearson said that 35 countries are changing gold prices to overcome the "deadening influence of declining commodity prices in terms of gold to restore some semblance of an equilibrium in the price structure."

The creditor was shown to be as much a beneficiary of raising the price of gold as the debtor by Dr. Pearson. If the debtor can't pay, the creditor can't collect, the reasoning ran, and securities decline. Industry can't operate unless the creditor can collect, so any move to enable debtors to pay helps all, he concluded.

Farm Bureau Officers Ask Roosevelt to Boost Gold

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 20. — The northeastern group of presidents and secretaries of state farming bureaus today requested President Roosevelt "to act immediately in increasing the price of gold to $41.34 per ounce, the maximum price permited by law." The farm bureau officials held an all day conference and at its conclusion issued a statement urging this step "in order that farmers may realize higher returns for their 1934 crops."

DOLLAR GAINS ON FRANC, MARK; LOSES TO POUND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 20.—Weakness in the French franc which carried the rate down ½ point to 6.58⅝ cents at the close, and a setback of 20 points for the German mark, following substantial gains for this currency in the last few days, were the features of an otherwise dull day in foreign exchange.

The decline in the franc reflected French political uncertainties. There was talk here today of the possibility of shipments of gold from France to the United States should the franc fail to rally at this time. At the closing price for francs, the dollar was valued at a premium of .67 of a cent over par, compared with .60 of a cent yesterday, and .51 of a cent a month ago.

The mark closed at 39 cents, although at one time during the day the quotation was as low as 38.91. Sterling advanced ⅛ of cent to $5.04⅞.

WEEK'S TRADE TOPS UPTURNS OF LAST YEAR

Production Declines, Says Bradstreet Review.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 20.—Wholesale and retail trade made a better showing during the last week and, with a few exceptions, topped the rise in levels last year, although production declined and the general index of business activity was off slightly from last week. Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., reported today in their weekly review of trade activity. The agency believes that pessimism at present is being "overdone," as there is "more ground for being hopeful than the contrary."

The lowering of activity in the major industries, it points out, is largely seasonal, while "disrupted distribution has resulted from a revival of labor unrest, which gives evidence of being short lived."

Best Areas Indicated.

The most encouraging reports on distribution were received from the New England, South Atlantic, middle western, and northwestern states, the agency says. In the southwest one hundred days of drouth have brought a distinct lull in most branches of commercial activity, while both production and distribution of merchandise in many sections of the Pacific coast district are virtually at a standstill.

Gains in distribution, the agency asserts, are coming largely from industrial centers, although the returns from country districts reveal a surprisingly high total of sales, even in the drouth stricken areas, where buying power is being buoyed by governmental emergency aid.

Promotions Aid Retailing.

Retail volume was bolstered by successful clearance promotions, particularly in light weight wearing apparel, textiles and housewares, with the total rising 8 to 10 per cent above the corresponding period of 1933, the review said.

Despite the uncertainties regarding the final outcome of the fall crops because of the rapid spread of the drouth areas and the epidemic of strikes that spread across the country this week, the leading wholesale markets reported activity at the highest pitch reached thus far this year.

PRE-NEW DEAL POLICY SOUND, SAYS STEEL MAN

Blue Ridge, N. C., July 20.—(AP)—In a defense of the pre-New Deal economic philosophy, Arthur H. Young, vice president of the United States Steel corporation, said today that it was fundamentally sound and there was no need "to change the pattern of life" because of the depression.

"The fault," he said in an address to the southern conference on human relations in industry, "lay in the leadership and not the fundamentals."

Young's viewpoint was contrary to that of Dr. Claudius T. Murchison, director of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, who also addressed the conference. Dr. Murchison took the position that the New Deal was made inevitable by the operation of economic forces.

"The New Deal codes are not working smoothly," Young said, "but the fundamental idea is best for the nation, and we owe not only allegiance but support to the plan." The steel executive also said he favored old age and unemployment insurance.

BEGIN DRIVE HERE TO MAKE DIRECT INDUSTRY LOANS

Reserve Bank Fails to Approve Any, However.

Intensified efforts will begin today to put into effect direct loans to industry under the industrial loan amendment of the federal reserve act, Max Epstein, chairman of the advisory board for the Chicago area, said in a radio address last night.

Machinery to investigate applications and expedite the loans has been set in motion and a campaign has been launched to inform business interests of the seventh reserve area of the availability of these funds, he said.

Directors of the Chicago reserve bank met yesterday, but failed to approve any loans, the first of which is yet to be made. It is said pending applications, tentatively approved, amount to nearly half a million dollars, but that completion of actual loans is unlikely for at least a week and probably two. Applications range from as little as $150 to a maximum of a million dollars.

No Unsound Loans Planned.

"In setting up this new loan section congress intended that no sound business with a legitimate need for capital should fail to obtain adequate financing," Mr. Epstein asserted. "However, we do not expect to make unsound loans, for no useful purpose would be served in supplying funds for businesses which haven't a fair chance for success."

The reserve act amendment authorized the banks to lend up to 280 million dollars. What portion of this will be allotted Chicago is not known.

"This agency is not intended to supplant nor compete with commercial banks," Mr. Epstein said. "We intend to supply funds only in cases where existing banks are not in position to do so.

"We believe this new loan division will be particularly helpful to moderate sized businesses whose financial statements may not measure up to necessary formulas and rules of commercial banks, but where character and ability of the management and prospects of the business justify employment of additional working capital.

Character to Be Weighed.

"We shall place special emphasis on character of management, demand for the product, and the general position of the industry without being bound by rule of thumb restrictions based on cold financial statements.

"There will be no government interference or encroachment. There is no intention to seek the slightest measure of control through this means. The loans we make will be straight business loans on the same basis as an advance from a commercial bank. Our purpose is to be helpful, not to interfere with private management and ownership."

C. & E. I. TRUSTEE WANTS COURT TO CLASSIFY CLAIMS

Washington, D. C., July 20.—(AP)—Charles M. Thompson, a trustee of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad, announced to the interstate commerce commission today he will go before Federal Judge Barnes in Chicago next Tuesday to enter an order classifying creditors and stockholders and determine the time and manner for filing claims against the railroad, which is now in bankruptcy.

A proposed order drawn by Thompson classifies the claims of 13 groups. Outlining his plans to the commission he said the action was to lead to the railroad's reorganization. Thompson indicated that the class enumeration did not provide any rank of preference of any class over any other class.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 20.—United States government long term issues, which accounted for 30 per cent of the dealings in bonds on the stock exchange today, moved generally higher, closing up 4-32 to down 2-32 point. However, Home Owners Loan 4s and 3s declined slightly, as did federal farm mortgage bonds.

Foreign loans, with the notable exception of German issues, pointed higher. Domestic corporation bonds were weaker with the rail issues being subjected to considerable pressure. Transfers aggregated $11,592,000, par value, compared with $8,614,000 the day before.

Rail Issues Lose Most.

The heaviest losers in the railroad group were the obligations of the Chicago & North Western, Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific, New York, Chicago & St. Louis, Erie, New Haven, Pere Marquette, Southern Railway, Alleghany corporation, Baltimore & Ohio, Rock Island, Chicago Great Western, Missouri Pacific, Southern Pacific and Wabash.

In the public utility group, bonds of the Interborough, Columbia Gas & Electric Utilities Power & Light and of several of the communications companies were especially weak.

In the industrial group the losses or the day averaged less than in the case of the rails and utilities.

German Bonds Lower.

German loans were generally lower in quiet dealings. The Dawes plan 7s and the Young plan 5½s were down ⅛ and ⅝ of a point, respectively. Declines elsewhere in the German list ranged up to 4⅞ points. French government 7½s touched a new record high at 186½, up ⅝. Scandinavian and Japanese loans were firm. Most of the price changes in the South American group were of small consequence.

Lake Marion Building in Oak Pk. Sold by Chicagoan

Oak Park's first large improvement in Lake street, the five story Lake-Marion building, has been sold. Title was transferred by Samuel Koenigsberg of Chicago to a group, one of whom is Albert W. Potts, also of Chicago. The other members of the syndicate were not disclosed. The building was erected eleven years ago. Henry Darre has been made manager of the property, succeeding Theodore Whaples.

Lehn & Fink Products.

Investors' Guide: Can you give me any recent information on Lehn & Fink company? Do 1934 earnings show an increase over 1933?—B. C. R.

Answer: The principal products of Lehn & Fink Products company in approximate order of importance are Hinds cosmetics and Lysol compounds, Pebeco tooth paste, and Dorothy Gray cosmetics. Competition in sale of proprietary products during recent years has become keener and companies in that line have had to place greater dependence on liberal advertising.

Lehn & Fink has during the last decade maintained operations at a profitable rate. With improvement in general purchasing power net income for the first quarter of 1934 climbed to $200,000, or 50 cents a share, against $118,000, or 29 cents a share, for the first 1933 quarter. Earnings in 1933 equaled $2.02 a share, against $3.04 a share for 1932, $3.59 for 1931, and $4.07 for 1930.

Current assets at the close of 1933 were more than six times current liabilities. Capitalization consists of 400,000 shares of $5 par stock on which dividends of 50 cents a quarter are being paid.

Northern Pacific.

Investors' Guide: Will you comment upon Northern Pacific Railway refunding 6s due July 1, 2047? Thank you for your courtesy.—Mrs. O. J. H.

Answer: Northern Pacific Railway company's trunk line extends from Minneapolis west across the northern section of the country to Seattle and Portland. Branch lines extend to Duluth, Winnipeg, and International Falls. The 50 per cent owned Burlington road, a highly profitable line, provides access into Chicago.

Although earnings have dipped below the profit line, due mostly to reduced lumber shipments, occasioned by decreased building, and smaller wheat movements, current position remains strong. On April 30, 1934, current assets were $20,934,000 and current liabilities $6,969,000.

In the first four months of 1934 the company covered 41 per cent of fixed charges. In the corresponding 1933 period loss before fixed charges was $1,312,000. In 1933 the company managed to cover charges 1.02 times. This compared with an 86 per cent coverage in 1932. In preceding years they were covered by substantial margins, ranging from 1.60 times to 2.38 times. There are no early bond maturities.

The 4½s, 5s, and 6s, due 2047, are secured by a first lien on a thousand miles of track and a second lien on 890 miles, in addition to other junior liens. They are regarded as sound.

ONE KILLED AND 68 HURT AS RIOTING FLARES IN MINNEAPOLIS TRUCK STRIKE; MORE TROOPS CALLED. Here is a view of the melee in Minneapolis yesterday which led to the slaying of one man and injuries to at least 68 others. The clash between strikers and police came as officers sought to guide a convoy of foodstuffs past pickets. This scene of action shows police with tear gas and riot guns in close contact with demonstrators. (Story on page 1.)

HEAT MEANS NOTHING TO EGYPTIAN VISITORS BOUND FOR FAIR AS THEY ARE DETAINED IN EAST. It's unusual to see men wearing overcoats these hot days, and equally unusual to see Egyptians on the streets of New York —but here they are. This group, bound for the Fair, was detained at Ellis Island and made a trip to the city to have photographs made for identification purposes.

NEIGHBORHOOD CHILDREN FIND RELIEF AT FIRE HYDRANTS AS CITY SWELTERS ON BLISTERING DAY. These children in the neighborhood of Selden and Wood streets found city firemen were their best friends yesterday as they cooled off and played in the spray of a fire hydrant. Thousands of other Chicagoans, young and old, sought relief from the heat by journeying to the many Chicagoland beaches, where the cooling waters of the lake helped to conquer that old bugaboo, humidity.
